FEDERAL RAIL AND COAL CONTROL TAKEN TO ASSURE FOOD AND FUEL DISTRIBUTION; HARDING STANDS BY RAIL LABOR BOARD

Every Subway, Elevated and Surface Car Stopped by Short Circuit in Power House.

TRAINS STALL UNDER RIVER

Empty Cars Backed Into Tube to Rescue 3,000 Imprisoned Passengers.

GREAT BLOCKS AT BRIDGES

Mayor and McAneny Take Command—Every Available Vehicle is Pressed into Emergency Service.

A flash of flame from a short circuit leaped along the main switchboard of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's power house at Kent Avenue and the East River at 5:15 yesterday afternoon, firing the insulation of cables radiating to the company's twenty-six sub-power houses.

Instantaneously every wheel on the B. R. T. stopped, lights went out, and the subway, elevated and surface cars were at a standstill.

That was the beginning of a tie-up that threw 600,000 persons into one of the worst traffic jams ever experienced by the borough across the river, not excepting the tangled times of the trolley strike two years ago. The complete paralysis lasted 55 minutes, until 6:10, when a slow trickle of movement began. It was long after the peak of the rush hour before there was appreciable movement, and it was not until 8:55 P. M.—3 hours and 40 minutes after the trouble started, that the B. R. T. reported all clear and normal service once more in motion.

Meantime, while extraordinary traffic measures to meet the emergency were adopted, some 3,000 persons, trapped in five trains stalled in the Montague tunnel under the East River, had experienced a tense and uneasy quarter of an hour in complete darkness and had walked in their deep prison another fifteen minutes before they were reached.

No Panic Reported.

Despite the magnitude of the tie-up, the protracted period of darkness and the hours that elapsed before any real volume of traffic was moving again, there was no panic reported from anywhere, there was not a single accident on the transit system and only one, that fatal, traceable to the great press of vehicles attempting to substitute for regular traction facilities. Indirectly due to the tie-up there was one untoward incident—an aged man was pushed off a trolley car by the rush to board it and hurt when service was resumed.

Though both officials of the B. R. T., of the city and of the Transit Commission were on the job the instant the great traffic system went dead, no exact explanation of the original cause was available late last night. Several investigations were under way and it had been established definitely that a short circuit started the trouble, but no explanation was forthcoming as to what caused the short circuit nor had officials either representing the company or acting on behalf of the public reached the point of being able to suggest how a similar paralysis could be avoided in the future.

"The exact cause of the fire had not been determined up to a late hour tonight, as it had not been possible to make a thorough investigation for the purpose.

"A preliminary examination indicates that the trouble in the switchboard was due to a breakdown in the oil switch connecting No. 6 generator. This breakdown apparently caused an arc, which set fire to the oil in the oil switch. The fire then spread to the adjoining wiring in the switchboard.

"In their investigations no one overlooked the fact that July seemed to have been a hoodoo month for the rapid transit systems, that yesterday's occurrence was the sixth serious tie-up in three weeks and a half, and that while four of them had been attributable to flood water incident to heavy rains, the two most serious were electrical in their nature. Just as a short circuit caused the fire in the Lexington Avenue tunnel of the Interborough at Fifty-ninth Street, Manhattan, on July 6, so was the B. R. T.'s worst experience due to a mishap in its current system, which engineers at once set themselves to study intensively in the hope of drawing out of the occurrence a means of future prevention.

Officials Grapple with Problem.

While that study was beginning in a blackened room on the fourth floor of the big power house—a room 10 by 10, dealing with chemical extinguishers that had been poured on the fire and coating with the acrid smoke of burned insulation—more than a half million persons, caught suddenly away from their offices with supper time drawing near, were bucking an impenetrable traffic tide, some finding a way through and more discovering themselves for the time being hopelessly blocked, and all the official machinery of a great city was grappling with a problem.

In that fight in which many resources were tapped in far places, Mayor Hylan, stationing himself at the Manhattan plaza of Brooklyn Bridge, led for the municipality, while George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, rushing first to Whitehall Street subway station and later to the power house in Williamsburg, took command for his organization.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, National Chairman of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, announced yesterday that the State of New Jersey had oversubscribed its quota of the $1,000,000 fund being raised to provide awards for distinguished public service, thereby winning first honors in the race among the States to complete their allotments.

Judge J. Warren Davis, Chairman for New Jersey, sent word that the State had raised $50,502.49 against the quota of $50,000. Mr. Roosevelt said that New York State was maintaining its lead in the amount of money subscribed, having already raised nearly $150,000. The total fund, he said, had been approximately 75 per cent. subscribed.

CHIEF KENLON SEES IRISH CIVIL WAR

DUBLIN, July 25.—John Kenlon, chief of the New York Fire Department, and Mrs. Kenlon have returned to Dublin after a journey from Anagassan, County Louth, where the chief was born, through the heart of Ireland to County Limerick where Mrs. Kenlon first saw the light. Their story, told to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent this evening, gives a vivid picture of the effect of this historic period of Ireland's history. Chief Kenlon in his tale sympathetically refrained from discussing the political aspect of the trouble. He believes in majority rule and feelingly refers to brothers fighting brothers, and sons fighting fathers as happens in this unhappy quarrel.

He arrived July 8 and after spending a short time in his native district came to Dublin where he, his wife and two priests of the arch-diocese of Dubuque, Iowa, Father Molloy and Father Coffey, chartered an automobile for Limerick, undaunted by the bad news from the South. The priests hail from Limerick and were determined to get there.

They procured an American flag conscious that it would see them through any part of Ireland and on they went, receiving petrol from national troops and from irregulars till they reached Cahirconlish and Croom where petrol was no longer available. The roads were blocked and all traffic was impossible but Chief Kenlon, his wife and the priests must be let through. The kindly country folk gave them a donkey and a cart and the party thus availed themselves of the traditional mode of travelling the Irish country roads.

At one point they had to unyoke the donkey and lift the cart over a tree thrown across the road. They met parties who pointed rifles at them in an aggressive fashion but when told who the travellers were the rifles were lowered with respect and apologies. The party approached Limerick as the sky was lit up by flames from the burning city but still Kenlon and his companions journeyed until the city was reached. He says the spectacle will never leave the memory of himself and Mrs. Kenlon. He got back to Dublin by road and rail and both he and Mrs. Kenlon look hale and hearty. They leave for London tomorrow.

LIMERICK, July 25.—Reports received here indicate that a general retiring movement is being executed by the mutineers. Resistance at Kilmallock, one of the key positions to the south, is being continued and stubborn fighting is occurring there. It is imperative to the security of the irregulars' headquarters, situated at Fermoy, that a break through should be contested inch by inch.

On the flanks of the lines of communication the country is being cleared and there have been precipitate evacuations from posts held by irregulars, particularly in County Clare.

CIVIL WAR THREAT AS BAVARIA DEFIES BERLIN AUTHORITY

COMPROMISE IS SOUGHT

Central Authorities Are Expected to Seek Solution by Exchange of Views.

BERLIN, July 25.—The Bavarian crisis waxed more acute over night. The conflict between Munich and Berlin became concrete with the Bavarian Government's formal notification to the Wirth Government of the test of the ordinance "for safeguarding the republic" which Bavaria promulgated in open defiance of the Central Government and the Reichstag.

For the first time in the troubled history of the young republic a German State has set at naught the authority of the Reich, affording a dangerous precedent to other States which may be dissatisfied with any particular national law.

This Bavarian experiment to enforce States' rights will obviously be nipped by the Wirth Government. But how to do it is the question. The Wirth Cabinet was in an all day session except for brief intervals deliberating on how to tackle the Bavarian bull threatening to wreck the republic's china shop. It will not take the Bavarian bull by the horns immediately, but will deliberate again tomorrow.

Holds Constitution Is Violated.

The probabilities are that the Bavarian crisis, gravely acute though it is, will drag along for days and weeks. The Wirth Cabinet is unanimous in regarding Bavaria's action as a violation of the Weimar Constitution, particularly of Article XIII., which lays down the principle that "Reich's law breaks land law," meaning that a national law nullifies any conflicting law of an individual State of the republic. A member of the Government went so far as to characterize Bavaria's action as "gross sabotage of the Constitution."

Yet there is every reason to believe that the Wirth Government will fight recalcitrant Bavaria with a bombardment of notes, after the fashion of Germany's tactics toward the allies, until a compromise ultimately emerges or Bavaria backs down, or Bavaria stubbornly stands on its State's rights and the issue becomes insoluble.

The Minister of Justice, Dr. Radbruch, has been summoned back to Berlin from his vacation, as also Minister of the Interior Koester. Both will prepare legal opinions which will be sent to the Bavarian Government, along with a sharp note of protest.

If the interchange of notes reaches a deadlock, the next move will be to take the case of the Reich against Bavaria before the German Supreme Court at Leipsic.

This would have unique interest as bringing the first Supreme Court decision on a constitutional question under the republic. The legal case, it is held in official circles here, is so clear that there can be no doubt that the Supreme Court will decide for the Reich.

If Bavaria refuses to accept a verdict of the Supreme Court, will there be a chance of the conflict entering the fast and gravest state—war? Other South German States, notably Württemberg, may be counted on to act as mediators between Bavaria and the Reich.

There is a veering to the opinion that some compromise solution will be found ultimately.

In Parliamentary circles the conflict between Bavaria and the Reich is regarded as "very earnest." The opinion was freely expressed by parliamentarians that the tension between Berlin and Munich had never reached such a grave degree. Hopes of a solution of the crisis are chiefly based on the prospect of the Bavarians coming to realize that harmful foreign political results and a bad effect on public opinion abroad will follow if the conflict between Bavaria and the Reich is pushed to the ultimate finish of civil war.

Compromise Formula Sought.

The Berlin Government will handle the delicate situation with gloves as long as possible. It will seek a conciliatory compromise formula.

The Bavarian Government's series of ordinances "for safeguarding the republic" embodies all the provisions of the new national laws for the same purpose as far as they prescribe what

Movie Censorship Proves It Has Teeth; Three Firms in Court for Ignoring Orders

Three motion picture corporations that ignored the censorship rules of the State Motion Picture Commission pleaded guilty yesterday before Justices Freschi, Healy and Voorhees, in Special Sessions. It was the first time the State Commission has resorted to the courts to convince the film interests that they must obey the law, and Justice Freschi, who presided, made it plain to representatives of many motion picture companies present that the lightness of the penalties imposed should not be taken as an indication for the future.

A fine of $250 was imposed on the Arrow Exchange of 729 Seventh Avenue for releasing a picture entitled "Stay Down East," without having made certain eliminations ordered by the commission.

The Elk Photo Plays Corporation of 729 Seventh Avenue was fined $100 for exhibiting the "Hula Hula Dance" on March 30 last at the Star Theatre, 960 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, in which eliminations had been ordered.

Sentence was suspended in two complaints against the Associated First National Picture Corporation of the same address. Representatives of the corporation admitted that certain eliminations ordered by the commission were not made when "The Rosary" was exhibited at the Cameo Theatre, in West Forty-second Street, in March last. The second charge was based on the display of "Smilin' Through" at the Strand Theatre in April without a license. A representative of the corporation explained that the failure to obtain duplicate licenses for the picture was due to the negligence of an employe who had been discharged.

Divorce Ring Devised in Paris; Shows a Broken Cupid Arrow

PARIS, July 25.—Jewelers have just designed a special ring for divorced people. It has not yet been decided whether to call it the "divorce ring" or the "ring of disunion."

The design consists of a cupid's arrow broken in half. It can be executed in various ways with various stones.

Jewelers predict that the new fashion will quickly become popular, divorce having become so frequent that it is considered there is a need for a distinctive emblem. It has been suggested that there be a special ceremony of exchange of "divorce rings" after a court issues a final decree in such cases.

AUGUSTUS THOMAS, THEATRE OVERLORD

3 YEARS AND LARGE SALARY

Hopes to Serve Most Potent Art That Touches the Emotions, Says Playwright Appointee.

At a meeting of the Producing Managers' Association held yesterday afternoon Augustus Thomas was appointed Executive Chairman of the organization, a position analagous to that held by Will Hays in the motion picture industry and by Judge Landis in organized baseball. The association has a membership of fifty-three, among whom are practically all the important American theatrical producers. Large powers have been delegated to Mr. Thomas. What the association hopes to achieve by its action was summed up by Sam H. Harris as follows:

"The members of the Producing Managers' Association, recognizing the benefit that similar organizations hope for in the concentration of executive activity and its delegation to a single representative informed and impartially situated, have asked Augustus Thomas to serve in such capacity for them under the title of Executive Chairman.

"Mr. Thomas's place, in the opinion of both the public and the profession, his familiarity with all the departments of the theatre, literary, artistic, interpretive, promotive and managerial, and with all their respective problems, his personal acquaintance with its foremost men and women, his sympathy with their hopes and ambitions, all indicate him as one most likely to advance to co-operation toward which all are disposed, and to do so in a way most agreeable to the public and most helpful to the important arts and interests involved."

Movement Started Two Months Ago.

The movement to delegate wide powers to one man was begun about two months ago. In order to put the proposition through it was necessary to amend the constitution and by-laws of the organization. At the last meeting of the body a committee consisting of John Golden, Arthur Hopkins, George C. Tyler, Benjamin Roeder and Brock Pemberton was appointed by President Harris to discuss the situation with Mr. Thomas. A conference followed and at yesterday's meeting the association adopted the report of the committee and Mr. Thomas formally accepted the invitation. His appointment is for a term of three years, beginning Aug. 1, and his salary is said to be a large one. Mr. Thomas made the following statement concerning his new undertaking:

"A long acquaintance with the members of the Producing Managers' Association and business relations with many of them in the past and present enable me to know that a wish to do fine things in the playhouse is as strong as any desire to make money.

Managers Humanly Divided.

"They have many problems, as has every organization, and for their proper solution are as humanly divided as other groups. They are sane enough to think, however, that some of this division may be due to the bias of personal interests as well as to personal temperament. They have paid me the compliment of putting me in a place to compose not only those differences, but to present fairly the interests of other elements in the theatre with which they come in contact, such as the dramatists, the actors, the musicians and others co-operating, as well as that other element without which there could be no theatre, the public itself. My hope is to offer suggestions that will command their respect and make for team work not only as between the producers themselves, but among all the elements involved.

"No art in the world is so sensitive to the atmosphere that surrounds it as that of the theatre. There seems to me a chance to serve a profession with which I have had a lifelong association and to advance the noblest and most potent art that touches the emotions of a people."

DIRECT ACTION WITHHELD

MARTIAL LAW FOR DENISON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The Administration announced today, after a lengthy Cabinet discussion, that action for the settlement of the railroad shopmen's strike should come through the Railroad Labor Board.

The announcement, which also referred to the Government's attitude regarding the coal strike, reads:

"The Railroad Labor Board is recognized as the only agency through which the Government can or will act in the railroad strike situation.

"The Government contemplates no direct move in the coal strike immediately, preferring to stand on the guarantee of protection to operators who desire to open their mines and to act through the proper agencies to distribute to best advantage the available coal stocks."

Definite plans for a settlement of the railroad strike were laid before President Harding's advisers at the Cabinet meeting. This much was admitted, and one member of the Cabinet this afternoon predicted that it would be several days before any comprehensive information concerning the plan would be made public.

May Urge Restoration of Seniority.

It was made plain at the White House, however, that President Harding will not take any step that nullifies the decisions of the Railroad Labor Board. The President takes the stand that a settlement of the shopmen's strike depends upon recognition of the Railroad Labor Board and the authority vested in it by Congress. In his proclamation of July 11 the President stated that both the labor unions and the executives had repudiated the ruling of the Labor Board, the former by not accepting its wage reduction and the latter by making outside contracts. He still stands by that proclamation, and it was indicated today that he believes that the Federal Government would be placed in an undignified position if any settlement was reached that upset the findings of the Labor Board.

The restoration of seniority privileges, denied by the railroad executives, remains the vexing question in attempts to settle the rail strike. The Administration apparently believes that since the strikers have given way on the point of accepting wage cuts it is now up to the executives to yield a point on the seniority matter to clear up a state of affairs that by crippling transportation may contribute to a fuel famine, regardless of whether coal operations are resumed. The suggestion has been made in official quarters that if the executives are so solicitous about rewarding the loyalty of men now working in the shops they can do so and at the same time restore seniority privileges to strikers returning to work. It is believed that this suggestion in some form may have been made to the executives or possibly will be made in the near future.

So far as disorders are concerned, the last twenty-four hours have been quiet. No reports of any serious demonstrations were received at the Department of Justice today. The same was said at the War Department.

Gompers Answers Loree.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, replied this afternoon to the statement of L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson, who said that the danger of a railroad tie-up caused by the strike was passed. Mr. Gompers said:

Mr. Loree's statements are interesting. Some of the railroad workers have said that humor will win the strike. I am free to say there is much in Mr. Loree's statement that is humorous. He apparently believes the people of our country are credulous.

"But the more serious side of the situation is the proof which Mr. Loree's

Strike Leaders Meet B. & O. Officials in Parley for Separate Peace, and Will Continue Today

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 25.—Representatives of striking shopmen on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad gathered today at the B. & O. central building on invitation by the road officials for a conference looking toward a separate settlement of their demands. After delays the meeting opened at 2 o'clock and adjourned at 6:30 until tomorrow without reaching any agreement, especially on the seniority question.

It is understood that no matter what agreement is reached during the conference it will have to be referred to the national headquarters of the shopmen for final ratification.

Vice President C. W. Galloway, spokesman for the company and in charge of its negotiations, declared that he went into the conference with an open mind in regard to seniority rights, the point that has held up a national agreement. He said that his road was not acting with the Eastern group of railroads, and another high official said the B. & O. did not want a fight with its old employes.

The following statement was issued from the Baltimore & Ohio offices this evening: "The meeting was devoted to a general discussion of the wage reduction and the various rules and working conditions as handed down by the Labor Board. No conclusions were reached and the conference adjourned until tomorrow morning. The discussion was harmonious."

Many officials of the railroad had feared that the discussion would not last a half hour. As time passed and the doors of the assembly room remained closed, their hopes rose. It was evident that both railroad officials and workers had found at least a common basis of discussion, despite previous statements that no separate peace could be sanctioned.

Neither side would talk for publication. It was agreed within the conference to make the proceedings public only by means of official communiqués.

ROADS UNITE TO ASK PROTECTION FOR MEN

MANY TAKE STRIKERS' JOBS

Eastern Lines All Report Progress—Strike Leader Says They Are 80 Per Cent. Short.

Progress toward filling the places of the striking railroad shopmen was reported yesterday by practically all of the Eastern railroads, who in an appeal to the public last night urged that protection and support be given the loyal shopmen and new employes who had helped the railroads to continue in operation during the present emergency.

The announcement on Monday by L. F. Loree, Chairman of the Eastern Presidents' Conference, that shop forces had been recruited to 60 per cent. of normal, brought from John J. Dowd, Chairman of the Central Strike Committee, the assertion that "less than 20 per cent. of the normal number of men are now in the shops." He added that half of these were guards and most of the others unskilled workers.

Backing up Mr. Loree, the Pennsylvania in a statement last night said:

"The most favorable situation that has existed on the Pennsylvania system at any time since the shopmen's strike was disclosed in today's reports from all regions of the system. The total number of shopmen actually working on the entire system is 42,836, an increase as compared with a week ago of 420 men actually working; the central region has gained 746 men; the Northwest region 331 and the Southwestern region 354.

"From the point of view of 'on time' performance, the freight movement last week of arranged and scheduled service was practically 100 per cent. perfect. Promptness of dispatching was considerably above normal and unusually good records were made in the returns of empty refrigerator and stock cars in order that the transportation of food supplies could be maintained uninterruptedly.

"'Normal' on time' performance was maintained in passenger service throughout all portions of the system."

The present strength of the Erie Railroad shop forces throughout the country is about 45 per cent. of normal, according to F. D. Underwood, President of the road. The New York region shows 52 per cent., Hornell 40 per cent., Ohio 49 per cent. and Chicago 36 per cent., he said, adding that of 70 commuters' trains operated Monday but one was late, while the freight movement registered 12,185 loaded cars as against 11,000 cars on the same day a week ago.

Investigation by a representative of THE NEW YORK TIMES showed that there was no serious delay yesterday on the

COAL STRIKE TROOPS DENOUNCED BY LEWIS

SAYS HARDING HAS FAILED

Men Will Not Be "Driven Back," He Says—500,000 Tons Ordered From England.

The American coal miners will not be "driven back to work at starvation wages" and the strike can be settled only on a national basis, John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, declared in a statement issued here last night. He said:

"The miners are anxious to settle this strike and resume the production of coal. We are ready to meet in joint conference with the coal operators at the earliest moment that such a conference can be arranged in harmony with the contractual obligations of the coal companies and in line with the procedure which has prevailed in the industry for more than a quarter of a century.

"Ten days have elapsed since the President directed the coal operators of the country whose mines are on strike to return to their homes and resume the production of coal, following which he telegraphed the Governors of the several commonwealths urging them to accord military protection to all coal companies employing strike breakers. Despite the promulgation of this policy by the Federal Government and its punctilious application by several Governors, there has been no increase in coal production.

"Not a single union miner has returned to work throughout the length and breadth of the land, and it must now be obvious to all that the American miner will not be driven back to work at starvation wages and under non-union conditions by any fanfare of trumpets or vain military display. The assembling and parading of engines of war to awe American citizens who are merely exercising their inherent constitutional right to cease work in order to maintain their industrial and social status as citizens of the Republic would be a national farce did it not possess the elements of tragedy.

Assails State Troops.

"The presence of State troops in large numbers in communities where no transgression of the law has occurred in itself constitutes a menace to domestic tranquility and creates a situation repugnant to the ideals of every free born American. Aside from the questions of equity and constitutional rights which are involved, the public is being heavily taxed to maintain military forces in the field to assist mining corporations who deny industrial justice to their employes and are applying labor-crushing anti-union policies. The employment of citizen soldiery of our country in the protection of imported strike-breakers in the mining industry is bound to lessen the respect of a large part of our citizenship for the National Guard as an impartial institution.

"The coal strike, now in its seventeenth week, involving more than 500,000 men and affecting the welfare of our nation, is in itself a colossal industrial tragedy which reflects no credit upon our antiquated industrial relations or American statesmanship. Such a condition, by every rule of reason and logic, is indefensibly wrong and is an outrage to every moral and economic principle.

"In the meantime the coal strike continued to be marked by diminishing production and increasing coal prices according to coal trade reports issued here. The anthracite shortage is growing more

Senator Schuyler M. Meyer, after a stormy meeting in the headquarters of the Republican Club of the Fifteenth Assembly District, 1,041 Madison Avenue, was endorsed for renomination to the Senate shortly after midnight this morning by the members of the Republican County Committee in the Seventeenth Senate District. The action of the County Committeemen was in opposition to the vote of election district captains in the Fifteenth Assembly District last Thursday night, when they voted for the nomination of Assemblyman Joseph Steinberg in Senator Meyer's stead.

Opponents of Senator Meyer declared during the five-hour argument which preceded the endorsement that the Senator would prove a "dead weight" to the Republican ticket this Fall because of his connection with the Legislative Committee which investigated the City Administration last Summer. Friends of the Senator declared he would prove an asset to the ticket.

Senator Meyer's friends pulled their trump card during the session when one of them read a letter from Governor Miller endorsing the Senator on his legislative record. At the close of the meeting it was announced that Assemblyman Steinberg would enter the coming Senatorial primaries for the nomination.

PRIORITY ORDERS ARE ISSUED

I. C. C. Decree Declaring Emergency Sets Forth Preferential Rules.

JOINT COMMITTEE TO RULE

FEDERAL INQUIRY TO WAIT

Presidential Board Will Not Be Named at Present—Borah Proposes a Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The Interstate Commerce Commission late today issued orders declaring a public emergency to exist because of the rail and coal strikes, and formulated regulations effective tomorrow, under which the available coal supplies are to be distributed where the need is the greatest and the facilities of all railroads east of the Mississippi River placed under the direction of the Government.

When the conditions warrant, carriers are directed also, if they cannot handle all traffic, to give priority to essential commodities in the following order: Food for human consumption, feed for live stock, live stock, perishable products, coal, coke and fuel oil.

The regulations were comparable in scope to some of those promulgated by the Government during the war and served to emphasize the gravity of the situation confronting the nation. Coal and other essential commodities are to be sent over the shortest routes, regardless of the desires of shippers or carriers, and public utilities, industries producing essentials and hospitals and public institutions are to be served among the first with coal for current use, but not for storage.

To Be Directed by a Committee.

The direction of this vast work is to be in the hands of a committee representing the Department of Commerce, Interstate Commerce Commission, the Department of Justice and the Interior Department, to be selected by the President, which will have representatives in all important producing and consuming centres. It was reported tonight that these district representatives might be selected from the transportation experts of the army. It also was reported that the committee would be named tomorrow.

Shortly after the Interstate Commerce Commission issued its emergency orders the operators of the non-union bituminous mines now producing coal gave their approval to the tentative plan decided upon yesterday at conferences with Administration officials for the distribution of output and control of prices. They promised to co-operate with the Presidential commission in an effort to prevent profiteering and in carrying out the Commerce Commission regulations. Before being accepted as final the tentative plan will be submitted to all of the operating districts, as a few were not represented at the conferences here.

While the commission was at work on its regulations today the President and his Cabinet devoted three hours to a discussion of the industrial crisis facing the nation. There was said to be some conflict of opinion, but an announcement was made at the White House following the meeting that the President within a short time would appoint the promised Federal commission, representing the American people, in another attempt to force a break in the deadlock in the unionized bituminous coal fields.

To Allow Operators More Time.

No date for the appointment of this commission was mentioned, but the statement was made that it would not be named during the present week and that the operators would be allowed a little more time to demonstrate whether they could produce coal in the unionized fields under the protection of State troops.

A spokesman for the White House said the President was firm in his conviction that protection should be afforded to men who desired to work. But, he added, if it developed that enough men did not desire to work under such conditions to produce the coal essential to the welfare and safety of the nation other means would be found.

It was indicated that, while the proposed Federal commission would have as one of its duties a thorough investigation looking to a reorganization of the coal industry, its immediate task would be to bring about a settlement of the conflict between operators and workers and get the mines manned. As a result, following guarded statements made at the White House, it was the general opinion that a commission would be named next week, especially if production was not resumed by that time in the union mines on a substantial basis.

There was no further information given, however, it being stated that the White House was unwilling to speculate about its plans for getting men back into the unionized mine fields. The President, it was stated, was willing simply to reiterate the declaration he made recently to Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania that a Federal commission would be appointed in due time and steps taken to obtain the coal needed by the country.

While the long Cabinet debate and the information made public later at the White House concerning the early selection of a commission led to the hope that there would be a break in the situation soon, the outstanding development today was the action taken by the Interstate Commerce Commission in declaring a public emergency to exist, and virtually placing the Government in control of the operation of the railroads and in the distribution of available supplies from the non-union fields.

The more important of the orders, establishing priorities and providing for car supply at the producing mines, practically suspended all rules, regulations and practices of the railroads with respect to car service.

Commission's Priority Order.

At a session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 4, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 26th day of July, A. D. 1922:

It appearing, in the opinion of the commission, that an emergency which requires immediate action exists upon the lines of each and all the common carriers by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce act, east of the Mississippi River, including the west bank of such river, and because of the inability of said common carriers properly and completely to serve the public in the transportation of essential commodities, it is ordered and directed:

1. That each such common carrier by railroad, to the extent that it is currently unable promptly to transport all freight traffic offered to it for movement or to be moved over its line or lines of railway, shall give preference and priority to the movement of each of the following commodities: Food for human consumption, feed for live stock, live stock, perishable products, coal, coke and fuel oil.

2. That to the extent any such common carrier by railroad is unable under the existing interchange and car service rules to return cars to its connections promptly, it shall give preference and priority in the movement, interchange, interchange and return of empty cars intended to be used for the transportation of the commodities specially designated in paragraph numbered 1 hereof.

3. That any and all such common carriers by railroad which serve coal mines, whether located upon the line or lines of any such railroad or customarily dependent upon it for car supply, herein termed coal-loading carriers, be and they are hereby authorized and directed, whenever unable to supply all uses in full, to furnish such coal mines with open-top cars suitable for the loading and transportation of coal, in preference to any other use, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange or return of such cars; provided, that the phrase "suitable for the loading and transportation of coal" as used in this order shall not include or embrace flat (fixed) bottom gondola cars with sides less than 36 inches in height, inside measurement, or cars equipped with racks, or cars which, on July 1, 1922, had been definitely retired from service for the transportation of coal and stenciled or tagged for other service.

4. That all such common carriers by railroad other than coal-loading carriers, herein termed non-coal-loading carriers, be and they are hereby authorized and directed to deliver daily to a connecting a coal-loading carrier or carriers, or to an intermediate non-coal-loading carrier for delivery through the usual channels to a coal-loading carrier, or carriers, empty coal cars up to the maximum ability of each such non-coal-loading carrier to make such deliveries and of each such connecting coal-loading carrier to receive and use the coal cars so delivered for the preferential purposes herein set forth.

5. That all such common carriers by railroad be, and they are hereby, authorized and directed to discontinue the use of cars suitable for the loading and transportation of coal for the transportation of commodities other than coal, so long as any coal mine remains to be served by it with such cars; and as to each non-coal-loading carrier, so long as deliveries of any such cars to connecting carriers may be due or remain to be performed under the terms of this order.

6. That all such common carriers by railroad be, and they are hereby, authorized and directed to place an embargo against the receipt of coal or other freight transported in open-top cars suitable for coal loading, by any consignee, and against the placement of such open-top cars for consignment to any consignee who shall fail or refuse to unload such coal or other freight so transported in coal cars and placed for unloading, within twenty-four hours after such placement, until all coal or other freight so transported in coal cars and so placed has been unloaded by such consignee, and shall notify the commission of such action. This authorization and direction as to embargoes shall not interfere with the movement of coal to tidewater or the Great Lakes for transshipment to water, nor shall it apply where the failure of the consignee is due directly to errors or disabilities of the railroad in delivering cars.

7. That in the supply of cars to mines upon the lines of any coal-loading carrier, such carrier is hereby authorized and directed to place, furnish and assign such coal mines with cars suitable for the loading and transportation of coal in succession as may be required for the following classes of purposes, and in the following order of classes, namely:

Class 1—For such special purposes as may from time to time be specially designated by the commission or its agent therefor. And subject thereto:

Class 2 (a)—For fuel for railroads and other common carriers, and for bunkering ships and vessels; (b) for public utilities which directly serve the general public under a franchise therefor, with street and interurban railways, electric power and light, gas, water and sewer works and plants which directly serve the public generally with ice, or supply refrigeration for human foodstuffs; hospitals; (c) for the United States, State, county or municipal governments, and for their hospitals, schools, and for ship other public institutions—all to the end that such common carriers, public utilities, quasi public utilities and governments may be kept supplied with coal for current use for such purposes, but not for storage, exchange or sale. And subject thereto:

Class 3 (as to each coal-loading carrier which reaches mines in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama)—For bituminous coal consigned to any Lake Erie port for transshipment by water to ports upon Lake Superior. And subject thereto:

Class 4 (as to all such common carriers by railroad)—Commercial sizes of coal for domestic use. And subject thereto:

Class 5—Other purposes.

No coal embraced in Classes 1, 2, 3 or 4 shall be subject to reconsignment or diversion, except for same purpose in the same class or a superior class in the order of priority herein prescribed.

That all rules, regulations and practices of said common carriers by railroad with respect to car service as that term is defined in said act are hereby suspended so far as they conflict with the directions hereby made.

8. That this order shall be effective from and after July 26, 1922, and shall remain in force until the further order of the commission.

10. That copies of this order be served upon the carriers hereinabove described, and that notice of this order be given to the general public, depositing a copy thereof in the office of the secretary of the commission at Washington, D. C.

By the commission, Division 5:
GEORGE B. McGINTY, Secretary.

Another order dealt chiefly with the routing of all shipments by the shortest routes and also was effective July 26.

Service Order on Routing.

The subject of routing of freight traffic being under consideration and it appearing to the commission that an emergency exists upon the lines of all carriers by railroad, in the United States subject to the Interstate Commerce act, which requires immediate action; and that each of such carriers by reason of unfavorable labor conditions and shortage of fuel supply, is unable to transport the traffic offered it so as to properly serve the public;

Therefore, in order best to promote the service in the interest of the public and commerce of the people, it is ordered and directed:

1. That from and after July 26, 1922, and until the further order of division

gon carriers by railroad are hereby directed to forward traffic to destination by the routes most available to expedite its movement and prevent congestion, without regard to the routing thereof made by shippers or by carriers from which the traffic is received or to the ownership of the cars, and that all rules, regulations and practices of said carriers with respect to car service are hereby suspended and superseded in so far as conflicting with the directions hereby made.

2. That inasmuch as such disregard for routing is deemed to be due to carriers' disability, the rates applicable to traffic so forwarded by routes other than those designated by shippers, or by carriers from which the traffic is received, shall be the rates which were applicable at date of shipment over the routes so designated, unless the rates applicable over such designated routes are higher, in which event the rates applicable over the route of movement will apply.

3. That in each instance where the traffic is routed, or rerouted, by carriers by railroad under the authority of this order, the carrier responsible for such routing or rerouting, shall, within twenty-four hours thereafter, deposit in the United States mail a notice addressed to the consignee of the traffic, stating: The car numbers and initials, places and dates of shipment, the routing, and respective routes over which the traffic is moving and their charges for the transportation of the traffic including transportation and schedules of rates, fares and charges as those terms are defined in said act, will be the same as they would have been if such routing, or rerouting had not taken place unless, as above provided for, the rates applicable over the route the traffic moves is less.

4. That in the case of shipments in private cars, which are subject to equalization of empty mileage, and also of fruits and vegetables, live poultry and other shipments customarily reconsigned upon instructions of the consignor, a telegraphic notice of the diversion shall be sent to the consignor by the carrier responsible therefor.

5. That in executing the directions of the commission contained in this order, the common carriers involved shall proceed without reference to contracts, agreements or arrangements now existing between them with references to the divisions of the rates of transportation applicable to said traffic; that such divisions shall be, during the time this order remains in force, voluntarily agreed upon by and between said carriers, and that, upon failure of the carriers to so agree, said divisions shall be hereafter fixed by the commission in accordance with pertinent authority conferred upon it by said act.

6. That copies of this order and direction be served upon all carriers by railroad in the United States subject to the Interstate Commerce act, and that notice of this order be given to the general public by depositing a copy of the order in the office of Secretary of Commission in Washington, D. C.

By the commission, Division 5.
GEORGE McGINTY, Secretary.

It was said after the Cabinet meeting that the President was prepared to employ every force at the command of the Government in making effective the rulings of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the terms of the tentative plan agreed upon yesterday to keep down soaring coal prices. The Administration believes, it was stated, that its effects in both directions will be successful, and that the immediate demands will be met so that there will be no suffering at this time and interstate commerce and public utilities will be maintained.

The President, a spokesman said, was not unmindful of the seriousness of the situation confronting the nation and was seeking to do the best he could to handle a difficult problem with fairness to everybody and to see that the dignity and majesty of the Government was upheld.

Some Uneconomic Phases.

The President, it was stated, realized that the coal industry was embarrassed by many uneconomic conditions and that reorganization was essential to permanent peace. He felt that there were 200,000 to 300,000 too many miners and at least 300 more mines than were necessary, and that many of the men worked less than half of the time. No industry could be conducted successfully on such a basis of employment, the President felt.

It also was indicated that the President believed if some suitable form of storage for bituminous coal could be found great progress would be made in reaching a solution of the problem of the coal industry.

About six weeks ago the President submitted to operators and miners a plan which had been suggested to him and which he thought feasible. This would have established a minimum wage, with the operators guaranteeing employment for from 240 to 250 days a year. The union leaders had thought it not practical, but the President was not prepared to agree with that opinion. It was considered acceptable by some of the operators and rejected by others. The President realized, it was said, that the scheme could not now be employed to bring about an immediate settlement, but indicated that it probably would come before the Federal commission to be named when that commission had handled the immediate emergency and had reached a consideration of the permanent reorganization of the industry.

It was the opinion of the President that the plan would meet conditions in the efficient mines and, while it might force a shut-down in other mines which were inefficient and whose production was not essential to the needs of the country, such a result was economically sound.

So far as the strike in the anthracite fields is concerned, the President and his Cabinet are about satisfied that it is impossible to recruit men from other coal fields to operate these mines. This viewpoint was accepted as a conviction that direct Federal intervention must come if the union miners in the anthracite fields refuse to return voluntarily to work.

At the War Department it was said today that all requests for Federal troops had been refused up to this time, the position being taken that the States must first demonstrate more fully its ability to handle the situation.

NO PLAN TO DEPORT ALIENS.

Report That President Contemplated Step Is Denied at White House.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—President Harding today authorized a flat denial of reports from New York City that he had decided to deport all aliens in mining districts. It was emphasized at the White House that the President cannot deport aliens unless they are convicted of crime or in some other way fall within the deportation provisions of the immigration laws.

The statement was authorized at the White House that the President had not heard of the report until it was brought to his attention through newspaper inquiries today, and that published statements to that effect were "bunk with a capital B."

LABOR TERRORISTS ACCUSED

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Testimony against "Big Tim" Murphy, "Frenchy" Mader, "Con" Shea and other labor leaders was given today by "Smash" Hanson, a former private detective and handy man for the labor terrorists. Murphy, Mader, Shea and two others are on trial for the murder of a police lieutenant.

Hanson testified that "Frenchy" Mader, now President of the Building Trades Council, when Business Agent of the Fixture Hangers' Union attempted to hire him to shoot "Umbrella Mike" Boyle, who was pardoned by President Wilson. Eleven years ago, Hanson testified, Mader hired him to shoot Isadore Bravermann, at that time President of the Fixture Hangers' Union.

The witness told of the storing of large quantities of dynamite in labor union headquarters for use against shops, factories and residences whose owners were not prompt in meeting the demands of the unions. He told of immense bribes demanded by the unionists to permit work to continue on buildings and to permit them to stand after being [illegible]

COAL STATES FAIL TO SWELL OUTPUT

ABANDON HOPE IN ILLINOIS

Indiana Governor Fails to Bring Disputants Together—No Coal Mined in Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, July 25 (Associated Press).—There was no concealing the fact today that grave concern had been given Government officials by verified reports concerning the dwindling of coal output in the various States. Almost no new production has been attained in Pennsylvania unionized coal fields since troop protection has been furnished, and non-union production in West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky has decreased far below levels maintained in June.

President Harding was represented as unwilling to anticipate in advance what course might be taken should the coal output fail to be augmented to the required tonnage, but for the present week at least, it was stated, he would withhold creation of the suggested Federal coal commission.

The possibility was said to have been advanced in the Cabinet session today that the President might call another conference of the miners' union officials and coal mine operators, this time including the spokesmen of operating associations in West Virginia and Pennsylvania who were not willing to attend the former meetings.

Urge Indiana Legislative Action.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 25.—Calling for a special session of the Legislature to repeal the Miners' Qualification law and to enact such other legislation as may be necessary in the coal strike situation has been suggested to Governor McCray, it was learned tonight. This step, it was said, would follow the failure of attempts by the Governor to bring about a State conference to adjust differences between miners and operators in Indiana.

Indiana coal operators, meeting here this afternoon with the Governor, pledged him their full support in any plan he may adopt for a resumption of the coal mining industry in this State. It was said the pledge was made for either a partial re-opening of coal mines or a plan to settle the strike. Shortly after 5 o'clock the conference was concluded, but the operators declined to make a statement.

Indiana coal miners reiterated in their conference with the Governor in the morning that they would deal with the coal operators only in a four-State conference and told the Governor that the opening of the Indiana mines under protection of the National Guard would serve only to aggravate conditions.

The only statement forthcoming from the Governor late today was:

"I am at work on plans which I think will materialize within sixty hours. Until that time there will be no announcement as to what took place at either the conference with the operators or miners this morning."

Deadlocked in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 25.—Illinois Coal Operators' Association members said today there was no hope of immediate reopening of Illinois mines.

After a meeting of the association President Miller said all hopes of reopening of the mines had been abandoned. Nothing short of martial law and the suspension of State mining laws by the Governor could start work in the mines, Mr. Miller added.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 25.—Acting Governor Fred E. Sterling today offered his services as mediator in the mine strike in a telegram sent to Frank H. Farrington, President of the Illinois United Mine Workers.

"I desire to tender to yourself and your organization," the wire said, "the good offices of the Governor of Illinois for any service which may assist in bringing about an adjustment of the differences between the coal miners and operators of this State and the prompt reopening of Illinois coal mines. The coal situation in Illinois is becoming more acute and distressing every day, and I sincerely hope that your board will take steps which will bring early results and relief."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 25.—Responding to Acting Governor Sterling, Frank Farrington, President of the miners, today telegraphed that he did not know "of anything the Governor can do to bring about a settlement of our difficulties."

Southwestern Owners to Act.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 25 (Associated Press).—Immediate action toward resumption of coal mining in the States comprising the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators' Association will be taken, according to a statement to The Associated Press today by W. L. L. Johnson, general commissioner of the association. Committees appointed at a conference of Southwestern operators yesterday to confer and arrange with county and State authorities in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas, for "the protection of life and property in the mining industry, will begin their work at an early date, Mr. Johnson said.

The members of the Missouri committee left here last night for Jefferson City, where they were to confer with Governor Hyde on plans for "resumption of normal coal production in this State," and the committees of the other three States will start like negotiations with the Governors of those States as soon as possible, the commissioner said.

SAGINAW, Mich., July 25 (Associated Press).—Officials of the Michigan district of the United Mine Workers of America tonight rejected two proposals submitted to them by Governor Groesbeck suggesting that they return to the mines to produce coal for State and municipal purposes. Indications were that the Governor would appeal to the miners themselves to disregard the action of their officials and resume operations in the mines under State direction.

WELSH COAL PRICE HIGHER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 25.—Orders for America are keeping up the boom in Welsh coal. During the morning a quantity of the best Admiralty coal was sold at 28 shillings F. O. B., representing an increase of 4 shillings a ton within a week. Later the price jumped up to 30 shillings and seconds reached 27 shillings to 28 shillings.

It is believed that no fewer than 750,000 tons of coal for America have been arranged for up to the end of August. Arrangements have been made locally for loading 250,000 to 300,000 tons up to Aug. 10.

It is reported that the American Shipping Board has ordered steamers in Bristol Channel or within easy reach to load from Welsh ports at rates varying from 7 shillings 6 pence to 8 shillings 6 pence, and even general cargo boats are being pressed into service. One firm already has chartered seven boats aggregating more than 50,000 tons to load up to Aug. 10.

Cowbells on Fugitive Miners.

PINEVILLE, Ky., July 25.—Three non-union miners in the Fonde mine were captured by alleged strikers here today and after cowbells were tied to their necks and their hands bound, were told to "run for it," while shots were fired as they ran, according to reports reaching here tonight. No injuries were reported.

BORAH ASKS BOARD TO FIX COAL POLICY

In a Senate Bill He Proposes Creation of a Commission of Three to Get Facts.

NOT TO ACT ON THE STRIKE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The appointment by the President of a commission to investigate the coal industry with a view to "aiding, assisting and advising the Congress relative of legislation either in the nationalization or the regulation of the coal industry" by the Government, was proposed in the Senate today by Senator Borah. Senator Borah explained that his bill is not intended to deal with the present coal situation, but contemplates what should be done in the future to prevent the recurrence of such situations as now confront the country.

The commission would be known as the United States Coal Commission and would be composed of three members whose nominations would be subject to confirmation by the Senate, one member to represent the coal operators, another the miners and the third the public. No member of the Senate or House of Representatives would be eligible for service on the commission, while the member representing the public must be a person in no way connected with the coal industry.

It would be the duty of the commission to ascertain and report to the Congress, and also to the President, first, the ownership and title of the mines; second, the cost of production, and thirdly, the profits realized by the operators or owners of the mining properties during the last ten years, and, further, labor costs, wages paid, irregular production and suggestions as to the remedy for the same, and all facts, circumstances or conditions which would be deemed essential in determining and establishing "a wise policy relative to the industry by the Government."

The commission also would be required to submit recommendations relative to:

"1. Standardizing the mines upon the basis of their productive capacity and regarding the closing down of mines which by reason of their natural limitations fall below the standard.

"2. Standardizing the cost of living for mine workers and the living conditions which must be supplied or afforded in order to surround the workmen with reasonable comforts, recognizing the psychological effect of such surroundings in respect to their efficiency.

"3. Standardizing a basis of arriving at the overhead cost of producing the coal and delivering it at the door of the consumer, recognizing in this compilation that the standardized cost of living to the miners must be the first and irreducible item of expense.

"4. The advisability or necessity of nationalizing the coal industry.

"5. The feasibility or necessity of governmental regulation and control of the coal industry."

The commission would be required to render its first report as soon as practicable and not later than nine months after the enactment of the law. Data and other information obtained by the commission would not be made public except in the form of reports to the President or to Congress or in compliance with the request of the President or of Congress.

Unless otherwise provided by Congress, the life of the commission would be one year. The salaries of the commissioners would be $8,000 a year.

Anthracite Parley Inconclusive.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 25.—Mayors of the six leading cities of the anthracite region, who last week conferred with President Harding in connection with their efforts to aid in a settlement of the hard coal controversy, today met with William J. Brennan of this city, Thomas Kennedy of Hazleton and C. J. Golden of Shamokin, District Presidents of the United Mine Workers of America in the hard coal belt. "Nothing definite was arrived at," the official statement issued by the three district union chiefs after the conference said. "The Mayors will continue their efforts to try to effect a satisfactory agreement between the operators and mine workers."

Clerks and Southern Road Agree.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—An agreement has been signed at Chattanooga, Tenn., between officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and the Southern Railway, which definitely averts the threatened walkout of clerks on the Southern and its affiliated lines, local officials of the brotherhood announced tonight. Concessions were made on both sides, the clerks accepting reductions of three to four cents an hour, while the management agreed to grant twelve days' vacation with pay annually, full pay for a definite period during sickness and no half holidays on Saturday.

Resolute Late in Sailing.

The sailing of the steamship Resolute of the United American Lines for Hamburg, which was scheduled for 10 o'clock yesterday morning, was delayed for more than three hours by engine trouble.

acute, it was stated, and the supply for New York City was estimated to be from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 tons behind the normal quantity needed to meet the Winter demand for 1922-1923.

Preliminary estimates place the total bituminous output for last week at not over 3,500,000 tons, it was stated, as compared with 5,363,000 tons mined during the week prior to the shopmen's strike. Hope to meet the soft coal shortage is being placed to a considerable extent in the importation of British-mined coal.

Figures on tonnage ordered abroad and on the number of ships chartered to bring British coal to America are incomplete, but the latest computations place the tonnage at more than 500,000 and the number of vessels chartered at sixty-two, besides two vessels which have arrived in this country and eight on the seas. American railroads and public utilities are reported to be eagerly buying British coal, which, because of soaring bituminous prices, can be delivered from $1.50 to $2 a ton cheaper than the American-mined coal. Coal experts said yesterday that American-mined coal delivered in New York cost $10.60 a ton, while the same grade of British coal would cost only $8.40.

At the offices of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Corporation it was stated that the following notices had been posted at its mines in Pennsylvania:

"We believe that a request by the President is a command and that the future welfare of every citizen depends upon willingness of every group of individuals to bow to the will of the majority as voiced by President Harding."

President Watkins of the concern is now personally visiting the Pennsylvania mines in an effort to persuade the miners to return to work.

According to the reports received here yesterday the Mayors of the anthracite region cities are attempting to get the miners to agree to return to work at the old wage scale pending an investigation into the industry by a commission of five persons selected from outside the industry. This proposal, while reported acceptable to a majority of the coal operators, is not approved by the miners, it was learned. Mr. Lewis, it is understood, will confer with the anthracite mine leaders today regarding the matter.

$50,000 GO ON STRIKE IN CLOAK INDUSTRY

Union Leader Calls It Fight on Sweatshops—Predicts Speedy Victory.

The fight to purge the local cloak and suit industry of undesirable conditions was launched yesterday morning when more than 50,000 workers, according to the estimate of Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, answered a call to strike. Approximately 2,600 shops were affected by the walk-out, and in terms of employers they represent about 800 manufacturers and 2,800 submanufacturers and contractors.

"By the end of the week," said Mr. Schlesinger, "we expect that shops in which at least 80 per cent. of the strikers are employed will have settled, and that by Monday their workers will be back in the shops.

"In our fight on the sweatshops we will endeavor to protect the small shop which is willing to live up to the terms of the new contract recently entered into with the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association and the American Cloak and Suit Association representing about 900 shops."

Schlesinger said that the walk-out was of the most orderly nature, and that there was only a small amount of picketing.

NOTED NO POISON GAS.

Prosecutor's Physician Testifies at Exterminator's Trial.

Dr. Ernest N. Vaughan, attached to the District Attorney's office, was the principal witness yesterday at the trial, in the County Court, Brooklyn, of Albert J. Bradicich, vermin exterminator, charged with manslaughter as a result of the deaths at the Hotel Margaret Annex of Mr. and Mrs. Fremont M. Jackson on April 26. The physician testified that he examined the bodies of the Jacksons on the day they were found, and was present at the autopsy performed on them by Dr. Charles Wuest, Assistant Medical Examiner.

Dr. Vaughan said he did not detect cyanogen gas in the basement of the hotel, which had been fumigated the day before, or in the Jackson apartment, or on April 27 at the autopsies. He said he heard Dr. Hu Hsin, Assistant Medical Examiner, say he smelled cyanogen gas. Dr. Vaughan said he made no objection to the report of Dr. Wuest that the deaths were caused by an unknown poison.

Dr. Vaughan testified, under cross-examination, that hydrogen, oxygen and carbon, forming the tissue of the lungs, also were the constituent elements of cyanogen and that it was possible for bacteria, in breaking down animal tissues to form new chemical combinations containing the same elements.

ARREST IN LOEWE SLAYING.

Suspect Called Aid of Liverpool Jack in Pistol Duel.

A tentative charge of homicide was laid by three Brooklyn detectives last night against John Doyle, a printer, of 738 Second Avenue, Manhattan, whom they charge with complicity in the slaying of Patrolman Arthur Loewe of the Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, station, early on last Saturday morning. Loewe died of wounds after a pistol battle with four men who were surprised trying to break in at the rear of L. E. Heberlein's woodenware plant at 290 Seventh Street. John Walsh, alias Liverpool Jack, an elderly safecracker with an international record, died of wounds from Loewe's pistol.

Detectives Quinn, Blank and Dwyer, who made the arrest, suspected Doyle of having been one of Walsh's accomplices. It was said that Doyle formerly lived near the Heberlein plant. The prisoner refused to answer pertinent questions and the detectives locked him in Brooklyn Headquarters, pending further investigation.

ON HER WAY TO WED OSER?

Mathilde McCormick Starts for New York, Setting Chicago Speculating.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Miss Mathilde McCormick started tonight at 6 o'clock for New York. She left Chicago alone and to none did she give a reason for her departure.

Her trip aroused speculation as to whether she had started for Switzerland to become the bride of Max Oser or whether she was going to meet her father, Harold F. McCormick, in Paris, whether she was bent on a tour of Europe and postponing her wedding, or whether she was merely going on a visit to New York.

Neither the reportorial nor the pictorial attack elicited more than a smile and a negative shaking of the head.

Reports tonight had it that Miss McCormick intended to sail from New York on Saturday, that she would meet her father in Paris and that he would accompany her to Zurich and attend her wedding to Max Oser on September 2.

ACCUSE KLAN OF CONTEMPT.

Judge Orders Ku Klux Officials to Appear and Show Cause.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 25.—Charges that officers of the Ku Klux Klan have violated an injunction order granted by the Fulton County Superior Court and a prayer that they be brought into court to answer to contempt of court are set forth in a petition filed by Harry B. Terr, former Grand Goblin.

It is contended that in the original injunction order, which is still in force, the Klan was restrained from making any change in its status at that time, from paying salaries and from taking numerous other steps, all of which were enumerated. Since that time, it is charged in the petition, many steps have been taken which violate the order.

Judge George Bell has issued an order requiring Colonel W. J. Simmons, H. W. Evans and others to appear before him Sept. 2 to show why they should not be adjudged in contempt.

FANNIE WARD BADLY HURT.

Copyright, 1922, by the Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, July 25.—Fannie Ward, American film actress, lies in a serious condition in her London home tonight following a fall yesterday at Pourville, near Dieppe, when she fractured her upper right arm and then proceeded here without medical attention.

Miss Ward attended the opening of Pourville-over-the week-end and during the jollification last night some one in the main hall downstairs switched off all the lights in the Grand Hotel while Miss Ward was descending the stairway. She tripped and fell, breaking her arm.

WILSON FELICITATES JEWS.

Acknowledges Thanks of Zionists for His Assistance.

The National Executive Committee of the Zionist organization yesterday made public the following telegram from Woodrow Wilson in reply to its message of thanks to Mr. Wilson for his assistance in the establishing of the Palestine mandate:

"Thank you warmly for your telegram. I am proud that it should be thought that I have been of service to the Jewish people.

"WOODROW WILSON."

Hundreds of similar telegrams have been received by the Zionist organization congratulating it on the establishment of the Jewish national homeland.

LEAGUE TO WIPE OUT ART COUNTERFEITING

Will Prosecute Those Selling Fakes and Forged Paintings of Masters.

WARNING GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Investigation Covering a Year Leads to Action Endorsed by Large Dealers.

Counterfeiting of paintings, reported to be a flourishing industry just now in Paris, is being carried on quite as extensively in this country, according to a statement yesterday by Julian Bowes, Managing Secretary of the League of American Artists, Inc., an organization designed to aid and protect American painters.

The only difference between the French and the American technique, Mr. Bowes says, is in the degree of boldness. In Paris, cable dispatches have said, the "manufacturers" of the fakes have turned out only old masters. Less timorous, their American confreres have been turning out bogus examples of the work of living American artists, as well as dashing off an occasional "old master."

Three times within the last year George Wesley Bellows has found fakes being offered for sale as products of his genius. Emil Carlsen has been another victim, and the total output of the counterfeiters, in terms of money and round figures, has been hundreds of thousands of dollars, according to Mr. Bowes, who said that as a result of an investigation by the league two small and unknown dealers in paintings have been marked for prosecution in the Fall term of court. Evidence has been gathered, Mr. Bowes said, which the league considers justifies prosecution.

"The recent exposure of the forged paintings of the late Eugene Carriere in Paris," said Mr. Bowes, "as well as forgeries of the celebrated painters of antiquity, has caused the league to make public the investigation it has been making in this country.

"The investigation has been going on for more than a year. Among the celebrated artists of today the works of George Bellows and Emil Carlsen have been faked the most. Both these artists are members of the league, and recently we brought face to face with begus paintings bearing their forged signatures, which were in the hands of so-called reputable dealers. Other members of the league have been victims.

"We warn the public to beware of forged copies of modern masters and to get into communication with the artist whose name is signed to the picture. All artists can be reached through the league's office at 119 East Nineteenth Street."

When Thomas Gerrity, manager for M. Knoedler & Co., 556 Fifth Avenue, was informed of the league's plans, he expressed what seemed to be the general sentiment of the larger dealers. He said:

"It will be hard to prevent bogus pictures from being distributed throughout the country as long as the public will not take the necessary precaution to look into the status of the persons with whom they are dealing. There are numerous reputable firms that guarantee the works they sell and take the trouble to look up the history of the painting and thus establish its authenticity before offering it to their clients."

REOPENS WAR DISPUTE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 26.—Piquant correspondence has passed between Major Gen. Sir F. Maurice, formerly Director of Operations of the Imperial General Staff, and Lloyd George. The correspondence, which appears today in The Westminster Gazette, reopens the controversy between them over the Prime Minister's assertions in the spring of 1918 at the time of the big German advance that, despite the heavy casualties of 1917, the British Army in France was stronger on Jan. 1, 1918, than on the corresponding date of the previous year.

General Maurice, in demanding a withdrawal of the imputation that he had supplied the Prime Minister with such information, the correctness of which he afterwards publicly challenged, asserts that the Prime Minister, in defending his statement of April 9, 1918, a month later, in the House, knew from the returns that the fighting strength had been diminished. The Prime Minister, through his private Secretary, replied as follows to General Maurice's letter:

"What he (the Premier) said in 1918 he said in good faith upon information supplied to him, and he does not think it will be injurious to the public interest or unjust to you if he leaves your criticism, like much more of the same character, to the unprejudiced judgment of posterity. As regards your threat to publish, he would refer you, with all courtesy, for answer to the short observation made in similar circumstances by the Duke of Wellington."

The observation referred to was "publish and be damned."

CULBERSON STILL BEHIND.

Run-Off Election in Texas Will Be Between Mayfield and Ferguson.

DALLAS, Texas, July 23.—Former Governor James B. Ferguson will oppose Earle B. Mayfield in the run-off election August 26, for the Democratic nomination as United States Senator, unless the unexpected happens in the few remaining incomplete returns still out, the Texas Election Bureau announced tonight.

The bureau announced that no more reports would be issued unless later returns show a substantial gain for Senator Culberson who sought renomination. At that time Ferguson was leading Culberson by 19,782 votes.

The figures were:
Mayfield, 140,358.
Ferguson, 116,149.
Culberson, 90,807.
Cullen F. Thomas, 77,049.
Clarence Ousley, 51,899.
Robert L. Henry, 37,847.

Barry Miller, campaign manager for Senator Culberson, telegraphed Mr. Ferguson late today offering his services to the former Governor in the run-off election against Mr. Mayfield. This is generally accepted as Mr. Miller's admission of Senator Culberson's defeat.

Army Officers Indicted.

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—Major Max Elser, Quartermaster Corps, and Captain Frank Tingley, U. S. A., were indicted today by the Federal Grand Jury here, with six dealers in army supplies on charges accusing them of conspiring to defraud the United States Government by manipulating sales of supplies at Camp Kearney.

STATE TROOPERS AID IN BLOCKING WEDDING

Special to The New York Times.

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y., July 25.—The aid of the State Constabulary and influential friends was invoked last night by Mrs. Henry Pearce of Philadelphia, a guest at the home of Commodore and Mrs. Thomas Henry Wheeler, her parents, to prevent the runaway marriage of her 16-year-old daughter, Leta Nelson, and William May, four years older.

Following a dance at the Thousand Island Club, Mrs. Pearce discovered that her daughter and May were missing. They had not appeared when she returned to the Wheeler home at Wau-Win-Net Island, and Mrs. Pearce, who, with the May family, has objected to the marriage because of the youth of Miss Nelson and William, consulted John M. Gibbons, attorney for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Mr. Gibbons inspected the garage and discovered that May's speedster was missing. He then telephone to Major Daniel Chandler, a friend of the Wheeler family and organizer of the State Constabulary, explaining the situation.

With all roads watched Mr. Gibbons telephoned to Frank Kearn, attorney for the Canadian Pacific Railroad in Montreal, learning at a garage that the young folk had inquired the way to that city. Mr. and Mrs. Kearn watched at the main road leading into Montreal and met Leta and William just before morning. They persuaded the two from carrying out their plan to be married at least until Miss Nelson had had a talk with her mother.

Mrs. Pearce, accompanied by Mrs. William R. DeWart, her sister, and Mrs. J. Christie, started this morning by automobile for Montreal.

Miss Nelson is Mrs. Pearce's daughter by a former marriage, her father being Captain Jurgie Nelson, U. S. N., who was decorated by Italy, France and England during the war. William T. DeWart, her uncle, is President of the Frank A. Munsey Company. Commodore Wheeler, her grandfather, who is a retired Vice President of the Standard Oil Company, has a New York home at 214 West Seventy-second Street.

The Mays are socially prominent in Philadelphia. The families of the two young people are intimate friends, it is said.

HELD IN $4,500 BOND THEFT.

Young Salesman is Traced Through Woman Friend.

Joseph E. Birley, 23, bond salesman, of 65 Russell Street, Brooklyn, was locked up in Police Headquarters last night charged with forgery and larceny. He is accused of having obtained $4,500 worth of Liberty bonds from Hornblower & Weeks of 42 Broadway, by means of a forged certified check on April 18 last.

He disappeared when the police began looking for him, but was trapped yesterday at Thirty-first Street and Madison Avenue by detectives who had shadowed a woman friend. He denied the charge.

RAIL EMBARGOES CUT SOME FOOD SUPPLIES

OVER 300 TRAINS ANNULLED

Cancellations Affect 300,000 Miles—Motor Trucks Move Mails and Perishable Freight.

CHICAGO, July 25 (Associated Press).—Existing embargoes on freight have caused a shortage of commodities in several cities and lack of transportation has reduced the supply in a few lines. In Chicago a leading chain grocery firm yesterday announced that the sale of sugar would be limited to ten pounds to a customer. Similar action previously had been taken in several small towns.

Curtailment of train service continued. The Pere Marquette announcing that the "Resort Special" from Chicago to Detroit would be placed on a tri-weekly basis and thirteen other trains suspended.

CINCINNATI, July 25.—Train service between Cincinnati and Delhosie, Ohio, will be discontinued on July 31, according to an announcement today by R. N. Bird, Superintendent of mails in this district. The cancellation of trains is due to financial conditions of the Dayton, Toledo & Chicago Railway growing out of the rail strike, according to Superintendent Bird.

Two passenger trains will be affected, it was stated. Mails will be carried between here and Delhosie by interurban cars and by motor trucks, Superintendent Bird said.

The cancellation order was issued by the Common Pleas Court of Miami County, under whose direction the road has operated since receivership proceedings were instituted about a year ago. The road is to be abandoned on July 31, Superintendent Bird stated.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—More than 300,000 miles of train service throughout the country has been discontinued since the railroad strike was declared, according to Government officials charged with keeping tab on the rail strike situation. At least 300 trains have been dropped from service, it was said, and in the zones where strike conditions are more seriously full motor truck service has been resorted to for the movement of mail matter and perishable foodstuffs.

WAY MEN AND B. & M. AGREE.

Decide to Submit Their Disputes to the Labor Board.

BOSTON, July 25.—The Boston & Maine Railroad met the employes of its maintenance of way department today and agreed to submit the questions at issue between them to the Railroad Labor Board for decision, company officials announced tonight.

The employes asked for restoration of the wage scale in effect previous to the cut recently ordered by the Labor Board, and restoration of working conditions which had been varied by the board.

"Only a 'reasonable' length of time will be allowed the Railroad Labor Board to hold its hearings on the maintenance of way men's complaint, definitely and hand down a decision," Vice President G. H. Flanton of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Shop Laborers, said after today's conference. "If undue delay is shown the workers will 'take a vacation,'" Mr. Flanton added.

"It is impossible for anybody to present any new evidence on our wage question," he said. "We will show why our cut in wages was an injustice and why the money should be restored with the increase retroactive to July 1. We will also show that by cutting off overtime pay for the ninth and tenth hours the working day was extended unlawfully.

"The railroads can present whatever evidence they believe is necessary to offset our case, but if an attempt is made to prolong the hearing with witnesses and arguments, then our men will simply take a vacation. The length of this vacation will depend on the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board. If this decision is satisfactory and fair, the vacations will end. If it is not, the vacation will continue until our men get justice."

MARTIAL LAW ORDERED FOR DENISON, TEXAS

Governor Neff Sends Five Companies of Infantry There—Small Disorders Elsewhere.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 25.—Martial law has been declared at Denison, and five infantry companies here are preparing to move there at once, Governor Pat Neff announced late today.

The action taken was due to disorders growing out of the shopmen's strike, it was stated.

Rangers called to Denison will be shifted to Childress and Sherman under the "open port" law, the Governor said.

Martial law becomes effective at 5 A. M. tomorrow. Detachments of rangers from Denison also will go to Cleburne, Temple, Amarillo, Marshall, Lufkin, Kingsville, De Leon and Waco to do guard duty and protect railway shopmen. However, these localities are not being placed under the provisions of the open port law. Any other railroad towns or points needing protection will be afforded it in the same way, the Governor said.

The Governor made a short address to the National Guardsmen, 250 men in all, just before they departed for Denison tonight, admonishing them to enforce the law but to conduct themselves as gentlemen. All of Denison is not placed under martial law.

TRAFFIC CLUB GETS A HOME.

Leases $12,000 Quarters in Waldorf-Astoria Basement.

The Traffic Club of New York, meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria last night, voted to establish a permanent club home in the basement of the hotel. Alterations are to be made in the rooms and they probably will be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1. The rent will be $12,000 a year and a five years' lease is approved.

The clubrooms will occupy a total floor space of more than 4,400 square feet and will be designed to furnish an atmosphere of fellowship for the thousands of railroad and business men in the organization.

words offer of the truth of the declarations that we have made as to the real issues involved in the strike.

"Most railroad executives are anxious to settle the strike by negotiation with the workers. They are restrained by a few. Western and Mid-Western lines are practically helpless before the dominating presence of a small group of Eastern executives, and these Eastern executives who dominate are what we may call Wall Street trustees—they manage in the interest of the great financial powers.

"Transportation is secondary in importance with these powers; financial operations are of paramount importance. That is the key to the present situation.

"Mr. Loree indicates a belief that the strike-breakers now at work will be formed into unions to replace the regular, bona fide unions. This reminds me of the silly grand of a Professor Garner, who went to Africa to study the language of the monkeys. He speaks of numbers of strike-breakers employed and says that the roads are getting along satisfactorily.

"Of course that is a by-play. Such unions would be about the last word in company unions. They would be company-owned organizations of strike breakers. Even if the plan could be worked, which it cannot, the enslavement involved would be too apparent to be accepted by the American people. The company union has never been anything but a burlesque and a failure. The company union formed of strike breakers would be something for which we have yet no adequate characterization.

"The roads are not getting along satisfactorily. They are in serious condition. Rolling stock is rapidly becoming useless. Trains are running behind schedules. Annulled trains are not being ordered back, but more trains are being annulled. The strike is effective and it will be effective until railroad management agrees upon terms of employment with the men now on strike.

"Each passing day demonstrates more clearly the correctness of labor's analysis of the issues and of the fact that labor's partisment of joint agreement between workers and employers is the only one fundamentally correct and sound for American industry. The idea of Government courts and tribunals, such as the Railroad Labor Board and the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations, has been proven a farce and a failure. The whole idea has become ridiculous. Not only that, but it is a menace to industrial peace because it makes peace impossible and conflict inevitable.

"Industrial peace on the railroads and in all industries controlled by financial power, for financial purposes in which the dominant idea and demand is for profit and in which service is an after-thought, if thought of at all, may be difficult enough under any circumstances, but under the Government court idea it is impossible.

"The sooner we have a return to fundamental principles, getting away from the concept of force and compulsion, the sooner we shall be again on the road to industrial order and prosperity. There is no reason for delay except the reason that greed is too much blinded by a misconception of its own interest."

Labor Board Not Moving.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 25.—While President Harding has determined upon a hands-off policy in the railway strike, there is every indication that the Railroad Labor Board's conciliation activities have been abandoned for the time being at least.

Ben W. Hooper, Chairman of the Labor Board, on his return on Sunday from a conference with the President, announced that "the Labor Board contemplates no further action at present." While Mr. Hooper declined to elaborate upon this, it can be stated that he has not changed his mind.

There is still, however, much interest in efforts to prevent a spread of the strike among organizations which threatened to join the walkout of the 300,000 railway shopmen. This interest today centred in the Labor Board office in the Transportation Building here. A delegation representing nearly 300 general Chairmen of the Clerks and Freight Handlers' Brotherhood, who had been in session, was received by Chairman Hooper and W. L. McMenimen, one of the three labor members of the board. Headed by E. H. Fitzgerald, President of the organization, the general Chairmen presented their grievances, which include the recent wage cut authorized by the Labor Board and certain working rules. They asked assurance of a speedy adjustment.

It is understood that no further strike action will be taken by this group pending additional negotiations.

Roads Announce Improvement.

CHICAGO, July 25 (Associated Press).—Adhering strictly to its hands-off policy in the railway shopmen's strike, the Railroad Labor Board today turned its attention to routine matters.

Despite statements from Washington that any Government action in the rail controversy might come through the Labor Board, the board took no action today, and from officials it was learned that none is in prospect.

With the board contemplating no action, the Western Presidents' Committee on Public Relations of the Association of Railway Executives issued a statement tonight, asserting that Western lines, with headquarters in Chicago, are moving freight as offered, passenger trains are being operated normally, and "transportation conditions are normal everywhere."

"Large numbers of men are being added to the shop forces," the statement said. "The number of these men at work ranges from 25 to 75 per cent. normal on the different roads."

Executives and representatives of railroads in the Southwest, meeting at St. Louis today, issued a statement that seniority rights of striking shopmen would not be restored.

The Pennsylvania Railroad issued a statement tonight asserting that "the most favorable situation" on the road since the strike started was shown yesterday, shopmen actually at work on the system, the statement said, number 42,318, an increase of 1,851 over a week ago. The freight movement during last week, the statement said, was the heaviest since the last week in March. Freight schedules, according to the statement, were "practically 100 per cent. perfect," and "normal on-time passenger service was maintained everywhere," the statement said.

An invitation has been extended by executives of the Southern Railway to the general Chairmen of the shop crafts of the system for a conference for the purpose of attempting to reach a settlement of the issues involved in the shopmen's strike, it became known at Knoxville.

HEARST UP-STATE TOUR TO AWAIT NOMINATIONS

Vetoes Plan for Campaign There Before Primaries—Smith Statement Expected.

William R. Hearst yesterday vetoed the proposal that he make a personal campaign through the State with set speeches in the larger cities at the present time. The plan had been under consideration for some days in connection with the projected strengthening of the Democratic organizations up-State. The announcement was made by William J. Conners, manager of Mr. Hearst's pre-convention campaign, after a conference with the editor-politician.

"Mr. Hearst will not go up-State until after the nomination," said Mr. Conners. "It would hardly be proper for him to go before."

"Organization" of Hearst sentiment throughout the State is now being carried on at the Conners headquarters on a scale more intensive than before the meeting of the Democratic State Committee last week.

There were reports yesterday that an announcement of importance might be expected before the week is over from ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, to whom "independent Democrats" and other opponents of Hearst within the party are now looking for leadership in their fight on the former Independence League boss. Friends of Mr. Smith, however, declared that they did not look for any formal declaration of war on Hearst by Smith much before the primaries.

Tammany Leader Murphy sent word to Tammany Hall yesterday that he would be at his desk today ready to receive callers. The Tammany Hall General Committee will meet this evening to issue the formal call for the Fall primaries.

SEEKS $178,250 PAYMENT.

L. V. Davies Files Judgment Against A. C. Harrison in Alienation Suit.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—Judgment was entered here today at the Prothonotary's office against Alfred C. Harrison, sugar broker, formerly of this city, to the amount of $178,250 in favor of La Verne Davies, former army officer, of New York.

The judgment is an outgrowth of alienation of affections proceedings three years ago in New York, in which Davies won a $150,000 damage verdict from a Sheriff's jury, Harrison failing to defend the case. The damages have never been collected, and the judgment was certified here after the local court went over the New York proceedings in another attempt to collect.

Harrison was alleged in the suit to have won Mrs. Davies's affections while her husband was at war. The sum for which judgment was entered is the $150,000 award, plus $28,250 interest.

DARE LEADS TO DEATH DIVE.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 25.—William Githens, a professional diver and swimmer of West Philadelphia, was drowned here last night when he dived into the Allegheny River with his hands and feet tied.

After companions had doubted his ability to perform the feats he boasted of, Githens, accompanied by J. Semon, S. Okin and Grant Duff, went to the river. He donned a bathing suit and had his hands and feet tied. Then he dove from a diving board. When he failed to appear after ten minutes Duff dove for the body and recovered it. The police had been summoned, and Okin and Semon were arrested on the spot.

Duff was arrested while he was in bed in a hotel and, with his two companions, was held for appearance today on a charge of manslaughter.

TWO BROOKLYN BOYS KILLED BY AUTOS

LAD STRUCK IN STREET

Driver Whose Car Frightened Child to Death Held in $2,500 for Manslaughter.

Jack E. Nelson, 12 years old, of 273 East Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, while riding a bicycle, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon at Newkirk and Nostrand Avenues. A five-ton automobile truck, driven into the curb by the chauffeur in an effort to avoid running over the boy, overturned on top of him. The chauffeur, Harry Lanchman, of 120 Middleton Street, Brooklyn, was thrown off the truck, receiving a fractured leg and internal injuries. He was taken to the Kings County Hospital where a charge of homicide was lodged against him.

The father, Charles Nelson, said the boy was to have left last night for a camp in Maine to stay the rest of the Summer. He was on his way to have his hair cut when struck by the truck. Firemen had to be called to lift the truck from the boy's body.

In running across Broadway at Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, last night, Charles Bayer, 9 years old, of 1,001 Gates Avenue, was knocked down and killed by an automobile. Albert Rosenthal of 178 Norfolk Street, Manhattan, the driver, was locked up in the Ralph Avenue Station on a technical charge of homicide. Hundreds of persons witnessed the accident and several women fainted. The crowd became so great that the reserves from the Ralph Avenue Station were sent to the scene to clear the sidewalks.

William C. Koch, a salesman, of 412 Stretford Road, Brooklyn, driver of the automobile at Manhattan Beach Sunday evening the wild course of which, according to the police, frightened Willard Tilly, 7 years old, to death, was held in $2,500 bail by Magistrate Short in the Coney Island Court yesterday for hearing on Friday on a charge of manslaughter. Koch pleaded not guilty.

BIDS ON BRIDGE PLAZA ALTERATION RECEIVED

Estimates for Work Extending B. R. T. Service Range From $67,570 to $83,600.

Bids ranging from $67,570 to $83,600 were received yesterday by the Transit Commission on the steel work alterations at the east end of the Bridge Plaza Station, Long Island City, required for the extension of Brooklyn Rapid Transit service to that point from the present terminus at the Plaza Station in Manhattan.

The B. R. T. plans to run elevated trains to Astoria and Corona when the proposed connection is completed. From the Plaza Station connections will be made with the subway trains operated through Manhattan to all points of the B. R. T. system, and this will greatly extend the B. R. T.'s 5-cent fare zone. The Interborough is the only rapid transit line at present serving Astoria and Corona.

The bidders on the required alterations to the steel structure, and the amount of their offers, as stated by the bidders, but not checked by the engineers of the commission, are as follows: The Johnson-Gifford Company, $67,570; Gotham Construction Corporation, $77,200; Charles Meads & Co., $83,600.

The commission also received eight bids ranging from $200,000 to $365,000 for an additional approach track for the Lenox Avenue branch into the Interborough yards at Lenox Avenue and 147th Street.

ROADS UNITE TO ASK PROTECTION FOR MEN

Pennsylvania system and trains from Washington were arriving on time. The Pennsylvania lines do not anticipate any trouble with the strike, according to Station Master Egan.

Of a total of forty-one trains arriving in the Grand Central Terminal yesterday afternoon from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock at night, checked by a representative of The New York Times, four were more than an hour late, and out of twenty-five fast trains from the West eleven were on time. The others were from ten to thirty minutes late.

Most of the suburban trains were on time, and when they were late it was only a matter of three or four minutes. Most of the fast trains which came on time were from the North. The four which were more than an hour late were all from the West. The Lake Shore Limited, due at 3:25, arrived at 7. The Knickerbocker Special, due at 5, arrived at 6:55. The Metropolitan, due at 6:15, arrived at 7:10. The Chicago Express, due at 3:30, arrived at 4:42.

Of the eight Boston expresses, one, the No. 66, arrived fifty minutes late. Two arrived a few minutes ahead of time, and the rest were on time. The late train was brought in by a freight engine when its regular engine was disabled after leaving Providence. The train dispatcher at the Harlem yards attached little importance to the delay and said it was nothing unusual to bring in a delayed train with a freight locomotive.

O. H. Wilson, Superintendent of the Grand Central Terminal, when his attention was called to the figures, said they did not indicate an "unusual state of affairs." He said the service on passenger trains had not fallen off in comparison with that existing during the two weeks preceding the strike. "So far as this office is concerned," he added, "there is, for all practical purposes, no strike at all."

On the Baltimore & Ohio, the New York Express from Washington, due at 2:48, was delayed seventeen minutes.

Erie Against Outside Settlement.

The Erie Railroad last week sounded out its striking shopmen at Hornell with a view of arranging a conference similar to that in progress on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, President Underwood disclosed. When the men replied they would negotiate only through their national leaders, he said he had called everything off.

"We are going to settle this with our men," said Mr. Underwood, "and if they don't want to do it that way we are willing to wait. What's more, we can last just a little longer than the men can. I don't know a thing about these 'new unions,' and I don't care. All I want of a man is a day's work."

John G. Walber, Secretary of the Bureau of Information for Eastern Railways, said that 33½ per cent. of the shopmen at work were returned strikers who have migrated under assumed names from one road to another.

"Protection for the loyal shopmen and the new workers was ordered brought to the public's attention at the conference of Eastern executives here on Monday it was learned yesterday. The appeal was ordered printed in newspaper advertising columns beginning today. While all the roads subscribed to it, it is to be put out in each district over the signature of the railroad serving the district. The statement declares it would be "ingratitude of the grossest sort" to not aside the loyal men who remained at work and the thousands of new employes in order to restore seniority to the strikers.

Because he sent for State troopers to intervene in the railroad situation in Port Jervis, Mayor P. C. Rutan of that city was engaged in a sharp controversy with other public officials there yesterday as to the wisdom of seeking outside police help. Supervisor James Tierney, who holds a county office, declared that the State troopers were not needed. He held that the city police had the situation well in hand. Mayor Rutan defended his action and his opponents are trying to get the Aldermen to pass a resolution overriding the action of the Mayor. Captain J. A. Warner of Troop K and seven troopers are on duty there.

Train With Prisoners Ambushed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, July 25.—A passenger train which contained rebel prisoners guarded by National troops was ambushed at Killurin, seven miles from Wexford, last evening. Fire was opened on the train from both sides of the line by a large party of irregulars. Two of the Government soldiers, both Dublin men, were killed and seven wounded.

Shortly after the train had left the tunnel about 500 yards on the Wexford side of the Killurin Station, two shots were fired. Almost immediately the train pulled up and from heights on the left of the line and a wood on the right a hail of fire was directed to two coaches occupied by the National troops. The doors of the carriages were locked and they were obliged to scramble out through the windows in the face of the rebel volleys. Most of the soldiers escaped from the train and fought the attackers, who were pursued up the hills.

After driving off the insurgents the national troops re-entered the train, which arrived at Enniscorthy, where priests and doctors attended the wounded.

Later, when the train arrived at the Harcourt Street Station, fire was opened on the guard from the roofs of houses and by irregulars who were mingled with the people. In the hall of the station an officer was attacked by three irregulars, two of whom were arrested, another rebel who attempted to seize a rifle and wounded a doctor was captured. The driver of the train was arrested. The military prisoners were transferred to another train and a new driver having been provided the train resumed its journey to Dublin.

County Mayo Being Cleared.

DUBLIN, July 25 (Associated Press).—The national forces operating from Claremorris, County Mayo, are continuing their advance. They have occupied Castlebar without the firing of a shot. The irregular troops prior to the evacuation burned numerous buildings, including the jail, the court house and the barracks.

Irregulars attacked the barracks at Eyrecourt, County Galway. The garrison of eight men was compelled to surrender. The irregulars then burned the barracks.

As in the other districts evacuated by the irregulars the first work of the Free State troops has been to supply the inhabitants of Claremorris and Castlebar with badly needed food. In both these places there was a great shortage in foodstuffs owing to the irregulars having requisitioned or looted the stores during the last three weeks.

It is believed that the meeting of the new Parliament fixed for next Saturday again will have to be postponed owing to the delay in suppressing the irregular revolt. No official announcement of the postponement has been issued, however.

Captain Kennedy, one of the leaders of the irregular forces, has been captured by Free State troops near Thurles. He was disguised as a woman.

The Lord Mayor of Cork and other delegates have arrived here on a peace mission, according to the correspondent of The London Times, who says he learns their proposal is that the members of the new Irish Parliament and of the old Dail Eireann shall meet forthwith for the purpose of reaching terms of settlement. He expresses the belief, however, that the Provisional Government officials will consent to nothing short of complete surrender and the laying down of arms by the Republicans.

Latest news from Cork, contained in a message received yesterday, is that the city is quiet, but expectant.

Eamon de Valera accompanied the insurgents last Sunday to Tipperary but, according to reports, left for Cashel, twelve miles distant, the next day. The strain of recent events is said to have left him pale and wan.

The irregulars are said to have burned the military barracks at Cashel and Tipperary.

GAVAN DUFFY RESIGNS.

Approves Military Measures, but Objects to Other Policies.

DUBLIN, July 25 (Associated Press).—George Gavan Duffy has resigned as Foreign Minister of the Provisional Government.

He announces that while he agrees with the Government's military policy he opposes its policy on certain other grave and urgent issues so strongly that he cannot longer honorably remain with the administration.

SIX WOUNDED BY BOMB.

Four Women Among Victims of Attack in Dublin.

DUBLIN, July 25.—Six civilians, four of whom were women, were wounded by a bomb thrown at a lorry in which National soldiers were riding in York Street this evening.

No soldiers were injured, although companions of the bomb throwers fired ten or twelve revolver shots at the troops. Two men were arrested.

CIVIL WAR THREAT IN BAVARIAN STAND

By CYRIL BROWN.

constitute misdemeanors and crimes against the republic and the penalties and punishments, but the Bavarian Government by virtue of these ordinances announces its intention as its sovereign right to apprehend, try and punish malefactors against the republic in Bavaria. In other words, Bavaria refuses to accept the authority and jurisdiction of the new national tribunal established especially to try political cases. It likewise refuses to let the national criminal police operate independently in Bavaria.

To justify its stand the Bavarian Government invokes Article 48, Paragraph 4, of the republic's constitution. This paragraph empowers the Governments of the several German States to promulgate "extraordinary measures" if there is "danger coming." These extraordinary measures correspond to those which, under Paragraph 2 of the same article of the constitution, the Reich President can promulgate under similar circumstances, and which President Ebert actually did promulgate immediately after the Rathenau murder, but which were afterward superseded by the new laws for safeguarding the republic.

Bavaria argues that if it is attempted to enforce the national laws for safeguarding the republic there will be an explosion of aroused Bavarian public opinion and, as this constitutes "danger coming," the Bavarian Government is justified in promulgating its own emergency ordinances.

The Minister President, Count Lerchenfeld, made a statement to the Bavarian Landtag late this afternoon. The Bavarian Government can count on the sure support of 96 votes against a theoretical opposition of 51. But there is a suspicion that the Bavarian Democrats who ostentatiously pulled out of the Government are secretly in sympathy with the Government's measures, and it is reported that these Bavarian Democrats have turned their "benevolent neutrality" to the Lerchenfeld Government and will abstain from voting.

The real opponents are the Social Democrats, Independent Socialists and Communists. A curious feature of the internal political situation is that industrial Northern Bavaria, where the Socialist and radical influence is much stronger than in Munich and the agricultural part of Bavaria, appears strongly against the State Government and all for the republic. Telegrams of protest have been sent from all over Northern Bavaria to the Munich Government and the Landtag, while the Burgomasters of twenty-one North Bavaria cities and towns, including Nuremberg, Würzburg and Bamberg, waited on Premier Lerchenfeld in person to protest.

The entire press of Germany is engaged in agitated and prolix polemics over the Bavarian crisis. The Democratic Vossische Zeitung says:

"The relations between Bavaria and the Reich have become so acute as not to be surpassable as long as Bavaria does not deliberately secede from the republic. With all due respect to the intentions of the Bavarian Government, the undertaking which Bavaria began with the promulgation of its ordinances means the beginning of the internal dissolution of the Reich."

Stinnes's Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the organ of the German People's Party, strongly condemns Bavaria's action, saying:

"This is the first case of open resistance of a State to the Reich. The unconstitutionality of Bavaria's ordinances is already proven. No State has a right to incite its citizens to open resistance against national laws."

The Catholic Germania headline reads: "Bavaria's Resistance; the Republic's Unity Endangered."

STINNES EDITORS RESIGN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 25.—A remarkable conflict has broken out in the office of Hugo Stinnes's chief newspaper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

Not long ago Stinnes took the remarkable step of appointing Paul Lensch to be acting chief editor of the paper. Lensch was formerly one of the best-known Socialist writers and journalists in Germany and though as a result of the war he changed his views to some extent he may still be regarded as a revolutionary Socialist of the moderate type.

The policy of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung was in consequence of this appointment somewhat changed and as a protest against this all the members of the editorial staff handed in their resignations, strongly protesting against the paper's political attitude under its new editor. They insisted on the payment of their salaries for the period fixed for such cases by the latest wage agreement, but Stinnes has informed them that they have become definitely and that their salaries will not be paid as suggested. The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung meantime is appearing as usual.

STUDENTS FIGHT RADICALS.

One Dead, One Dying in Disorders at Klausthal.

BERLIN, July 25.—A revolver duel has been fought between Communists and students at Klausthal, according to the Vorwaerts. One Communist was shot dead by a student.

A crowd attacked the student, who was later taken to the hospital in a dying condition. Further disorders took place later, which resulted in two students being injured and taken to the hospital.

Neck and Neck

"Did you see our Company's awful advertisement about those cannibal golfers drinking Horses' Necks?" asked Winnie of her Knickerbocker team mate Ned. "Yes, but there's nothing awful about it, Silly—Don't you know a Horse's Neck is just about the most delightful drink ever, and that it's named for us because it's long and graceful?"

"I know what my own neck is," preened Winnie, "but how's the other kind long and graceful?"

"It's a tall glass," explained Old-timer Ned, "a chunk or two of sparkling, crystal clear Knickerbocker Ice, a slender lemon-peel draped gracefully from the bottom to the top of the glass, then the glass filled with fizzy ginger ale—That's the Horse's Neck everybody is drinking this weather!"

than that which confronted the Mayor, played a leading role in dealing with the most spectacular phase of the situation and in staying the possibility of awful panic in the tube under the river. The instant fear that leaped through every official mind, once it was known that five trains were at a standstill in the blackness far below the water's surface, was that some, perhaps unduly nervous and apprehensive because of the casualties incident to the Lexington Avenue short circuit and fire, would begin to pull around inside and start a panic-stricken rush for freedom.

Those five trains of the Fourth Avenue and Brighton lines of six and seven cars each with a rush-load capacity of 200 persons were known not to be heavily laden so soon after 5 o'clock, but it was estimated that at least 3,000 passengers were prisoned in them.

Trains Back to Manhattan.

Two of them, those nearest Manhattan, were stalled by the action of the automatic signal system which sets all emergency lights as soon as the power fails. The current at the Manhattan end of the tunnel is supplied from an Interborough power house, and those two, therefore, were able to move. As soon as their conductors had ascertained that the line behind them was clear they backed slowly toward Manhattan, inching along, but just the same carrying their relieved human burdens nearer and nearer solid rock with no tons of water piled atop it.

Mr. McAneny, with Robert Ridgway, chief engineer of his commission, reached the Whitehall station just as the second of these trains crawled back from the river level. He at once demanded from the motorman how many other trains were in the river portion of the tube.

"Three," the motorman answered.

Then came a confirmatory nod from a B. R. T. official and the motorman took his empty train back under the river. The doors of the train ahead of it were opened and the passengers were invited to ride back to Manhattan. Most of them scrambled into the relief train gladly enough, but there were a few wise ones who were sure the trouble was being exaggerated and who insisted on sticking on the chance that presently they would be hauled homeward.

Their wait would have been a long one had not the B. R. T. mobilized a heavy force of guards and train dispatchers at the Montague Street end of the tunnel and started its own relief expedition from the opposite direction.

These men entered the two trains nearest Brooklyn and explained to the passengers that there wasn't a spark of power in the third rail.

Taken to Emergency Exit.

With this reassurance, the passengers were shepherded out onto the "bench," the footwalk carved shoulder-wise out of the side of the tunnel, and conducted to the emergency exit at Furman Street on the Brooklyn side, about fifteen feet beyond the East River's edge. With them went those who had first elected to remain in the third train.

Meantime the Mayor, having hurried to Brooklyn Bridge, arrived in time to see the plaza black with a throng that was growing by thousands every minute. The Mayor telephoned to Acting Chief Inspector Samuel Belton and gave orders that the Police Department assume charge of the situation and exert every means at its command to prevent accident. Next Mayor Hylan telephoned to Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, directing him too to use every available means to help the Mayor's fellow boroughites stalled this side their suppers.

As a result of those two orders and the manner of their execution, coupled with the work done by Mr. McAneny at the tunnel's mouth, there was not a single ambulance call sent in throughout the actual tie-up except one for a man run over and killed by a bus which he tried to board.

Work of the Police.

Of the police measures divided themselves into two parts, first to deal with the congestion and prevent crowd accidents and second to join their energies with Mr. Whalen's in furnishing emergency transportation. Reserves were summoned from virtually every precinct in lower Manhattan and from a number in Brooklyn, including those at Poplar Street, Butler Street, Bergen Street, Classon Avenue and Grand Avenue. Borough Inspector Murphy took charge of the men assembled in Brooklyn, sending them in strong forces under Captains to the Brooklyn, Manhattan and Williamsburgh Bridge Plazas, to Borough Hall, a transfer point and traffic centre, where congestion was extreme, and to the Hoyt, Nevins and Atlantic Avenue stations of the Interborough.

The Interborough meantime had acceded to a request from the Transit Commission that it maintain its maximum service until the emergency was passed and thousands who were pouring across the bridges afoot were storming its way stations and trying to hurl themselves onto trains already almost unbelievably jammed. With these, with crowds at Atlantic Avenue who were overflowing into the Long Island Railroad Station for rides to Nostrand Avenue, Railroad Avenue and local stations between that point and Jamaica, the police dealt gently but effectively, keeping every one moving and good natured and preventing the crushes from reaching the danger point.

In Manhattan a more widespread job was laid out for the police. From Times Square down exit gates had been closed once those in the stations had been herded to the street, entrances had been blocked and guards on stairways and at the street levels were turning back would-be passengers. At Times Square, when those trying to force their way in and others trying to work their way near enough to find out what it was all about, were joined by those turned back from underground, the jam became so thick about 6 o'clock that automobile traffic could make only slow progress through the press. At some other stations where B. R. T. ticket sellers ran out of passes entitling their holders to a rain-check ride and patrons had to depart without the return of their nickels, there were some arguments which the police had to quiet.

Vehicles Pressed Into Service.

While a portion of the forces assembled were dealing with traffic jams, others were going throughout Manhattan begging and borrowing pleasure automobiles, trucks, sightseeing buses, Fifth Avenue buses and everything else that ran on wheels and was propelled by gasoline. This motley array of vehicles was rushed downtown, some going to the Manhattan end of the Williamsburg Bridge and the rest to the Brooklyn Bridge. Joined to the collection was every municipal bus Mr. Whalen could divert from regular duty; all the police "flivvers" with their single seats and running boards offering room for a few "fares," nearly every patrol wagon in the city and every prison van the police could lay their hands on. Similarly in Brooklyn a vehicular army was mobilized and rushed across Manhattan Bridge to turn there and go rolling back.

For all this emergency transit system the police put into effect a rule even sharper than the "women and children first" of the sea. This time it was "women and children only" and every misguided man who suddenly saw a capacious vehicle begin to load up for Brooklyn and made a dash for it found a stalwart blue-clad arm to stay him.

Even as this tide was setting forth Mr. Whalen had rushed orders to the ferry terminal at the Battery which directed that all boats on the Atlantic Avenue, Hamilton Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street lines be hurried into immediate service, that they make as many trips as possible and that they keep it up until the pressure was over.

The ferries, the city cars and those of private owners, the Long Island local service, the Interborough's Lexington Avenue and West Side lines all helped. In addition the Three-cent line on Manhattan Bridge, supplied with power from this side, kept going, and the Third Avenue and New York Railways lines across Williamsburg Bridge—the Post Office, Desbrosses and Fourteenth Street cars—continued back and forth on their unaffected cables.

But in the end the real means of getting to Brooklyn was the footways on the three big bridges.

Cars and trains of virtually all Brooklyn lines were on the bridges when the power suddenly died. Their passengers sat or stood patiently at first, but as the wait became protracted they got restless. Then as word came that the tie-up might be a long one, they demanded their freedom. As soon as guards and conductors were satisfied that the emergency was a real one and that the power was off, they freed the swarms gradually.

On the Williamsburg Bridge passengers spilled out of the trains, made their way gingerly to the emergency stairways at each of the river spans and thus got down to the pedestrian level. On Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges, guided by policemen and trolley employes, they worked their way slowly to the footpaths. The jam was so great on Brooklyn Bridge that the south roadway was closed to vehicles and turned into a footpath.

A March on Brooklyn.

Thereupon there ensued a march on Brooklyn such as seldom has been witnessed. It looked like rain and many ventured fearfully. As they deployed by thousands at the Brooklyn end, they looked happy and hungry and there were heard many expressions of a resolve for diurnal exercise that boded ill for the B. R. T.'s nightly gathered flock of nickels.

It was 6:10 P. M., according to an informal memorandum prepared in the offices of the Transit Commission, when partial traffic first was resumed. By then the tide across the bridges was in full swing. It was well that it was so, and that the seemingly endless vehicles were helping, for it was a long time after that before the road, stricken in every part, was able to extricate itself from its difficulties and set into motion long lines of stalled trains and cars and get things going effectively.

Meantime officials were trying to turn their dismay at the sudden blow into helpful knowledge. The huge power house, as fireproof as it can be made, is constructed on a sectionalized plan for the very purpose of preventing disastrous fires. But the single spurt of fire across the main switchboard in an isolated room had fired the insulation of the cables.

Without turning in a city alarm, the power house had mobilized its own fire department and promptly put out the blaze. But the smouldering in the insulation was another and a more tedious matter. It was virtually an hour from the start of the fire when it had been extinguished to the extent that every bit of that burning insulation had been quenched. Long before that the Brooklyn Edison Company had switched on an emergency circuit and sent life once more glowing through the lamps in tunnels and trains, but it was powerless to aid in lifting the power load.

Things were in that condition when Mr. McAneny, having done his utmost at Whitehall Street, sped over to the main power plant, raced up the four floors and stepped into the room that a few minutes before had been immaculate and gleaming with its cables, switches, indicators and fuses. He found a tumbled, puddled place in which men streaming with sweat, their eyes smarting from the burning rubber, were making repairs in the very teeth of the fire. The Chairman of the Transit Commission edged closer to see what was toward.

"I'm sorry, Sir," said a polite but firm superintendent, "but we've got to fix this up and we've got to have room."

The biggest transit boss in New York stepped back with a murmured word of apology, a courteous phrase in commendation of the promptness and efficiency with which things were being put to rights, and went back to his own office, to keep his finger on the pulse of the situation from there.

In the first hurried report of the situation given out from Mr. McAneny's office, there was this summary of the way the smart was untangled and traffic was resumed:

"When the fire was put out and the power turned on again at 6:10 o'clock the company began moving the trains on the subway and elevated lines and the cars on the surface lines toward the terminals, but did not at first accept any additional passengers. At 7 o'clock everything on all lines was reported moving, but full service was not yet restored until 8:10.

There was one fatality due to the aftermath of the B. R. T. traffic tie-up. Patrick McLaughlin, a workman, 40 years old, of 44 North Oxford Street, Brooklyn, tried to board a moving automobile bus at Fourth Avenue and Seventeenth Street, fell under the wheels and was crushed to death. Joseph Vabab of 1,419 Eighth Avenue, owner and driver of the bus, took McLaughlin to Samaritan Hospital, where it was said he had been killed instantly.

In the crush on an overcrowded trolley bound for Brooklyn over the Williamsburg Bridge, Henry Greenhagen, 70, of 45 Division Avenue, Brooklyn, was pushed off at Suffolk and Delancey Streets and his right foot was broken. He was taken to Gouverneur Hospital.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 25.—New regulations regarding notaries public, designed to prevent irregularities, have been prepared at the direction of Governor Miller, the most important of which declares:

Under former regulations recommendation by two attorneys was the only requirement.

'HENRY AND ME' MEET ON SAME PLATFORM

ALLEN WANTS LAW UPHELD

Chastises "Old Bill" as Martyr, but Says He Became "Dangerous" to the State.

Special to The New York Times.

EMPORIA, Kas., July 25.—Governor Henry Allen came to Emporia, William Allen White's own home, today to plead to the people of Kansas for a new baptism of belief in respect for the law.

The Governor spoke to more than 3,000 students and townspeople of Emporia. Several times he turned and spoke directly to White, who was on the platform, and had introduced the Governor.

Governor Allen explained how White had violated the law and why he had to be arrested. The crowd apparently approved the Governor's stand, for he was interrupted several times by sharp applause.

Soon after the Governor reached the Normal School to address a rally of students, Mr. and Mrs. White and their son arrived. Mrs. White was the first to greet the Governor. Then "Old Bill" came through the door.

"Hello, Will," said the Governor.

"Hello, Henry," said White, and they shook hands warmly, without discussing the matter of White's arrest.

Mrs. White had sent Governor Allen a telegram saying:

"Hope you can eat fried chicken with us. Bill can eat the bones in the dog house, if necessary."

In his introduction of the Governor White explained that it didn't just happen that Kansas had led in the cause against slavery or against the liquor traffic.

"It was because Kansas people are Americans who think and reason and are willing to make sacrifices for principles," he said. "We are now in a great crusade for industrial justice in Kansas. We must decide whether we are going to have turmoil and dissension or peace and prosperity, and it is our Governor who has laid out the course which we are now following."

"When I compare the introduction of my friend Bill White with what I have been trying to do to him in the last four days, I would put him in the class of self-sacrificing martyrs," said Governor Allen.

"The strike of the railroad shopmen may be the test of our civilization to solve a quarrel between capital and labor. This Government ought to have given the Railroad Labor Board the complete power of termination of questions, subject only to one appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"Kansas is the only State with an anti-picketing law, and for the violation of this law my friend here has been arrested. In the temporary parting of the ways I will not think any the less of him, but I may think less of his judgment.

"The only freedom now guaranteed by this Government of ours, except in Kansas, is the right of any man to work at an honest job. The labor leaders have attempted to take away the sacred right of the freedom to work.

"I have no doubt that the strikers had a constitutional right to have those cards printed declaring 100 per cent. sympathy with the striking shopmen, but when they distributed those cards and the merchants put them up it became a form of intimidation which could not be permitted.

"If at any time there was an effort made here to break down law and order Bill White would be a leader of the posse to guarantee law and order to every man in Emporia. The only time 'Old Bill' is dangerous is when he sits down at his double-action typewriter and writes out of his emotions at a time like this. When Bill White put that card in the window of his office he became dangerous to the peace of the State because of the faith we have in him, in his good purposes and his potential leadership.

"What we need in this country now more than anything else is a feeling of obligation to our Government, to our laws and obedience to authority. It is the duty of every citizen to obey the laws."

HELD AS WALL ST. ROBBERS.

Three men alleged to have robbed Redmond & Co., bankers at 33 Pine Street, of $44,000 in negotiable securities on June 21, 1921, were locked up at Police Headquarters yesterday. Benjamin Katz of 580 Broadway, Brooklyn, and Reuben Hirsh of 1,646 Forty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, were arrested in Chicago and brought here, and Benjamin Weitman was arrested in this city.

The police say that Weitman had been employed at the office of a messenger company in Pine Street and had sent Katz to deliver the securities for Redmond & Co.; that Katz, by previous arrangement, turned the securities over to Hirsh, who was to sell them for cash, and that on June 23, according to Weitman's confession, Hirsh met the other two and told them that he had been held up and robbed of the securities while on his way to sell them.

The three will be taken to the Criminal Court this morning to answer indictments charging them with grand larceny.

The Great August Furniture Sale

Because It Is the Big News of the Day

* * * * * *

NEW YORK is just waking up to the fact that right here in our own city is going on now the greatest building boom in homes in the history of our country. A grand total of 38,363 families are being provided with new homes by the residential construction under way during the first six months of this year.

BUT our eyes tell even more than statistics. Wherever we go we actually see houses and apartments shooting up almost overnight. In the Bronx (which, by the way, leads all the boroughs), in Brooklyn, down Long Island and on Staten Island; out Westchester way, and up into New England; in Jersey—everywhere new houses are being provided. In New York State and New Jersey alone during June—one month—$79,383,000 was invested in new residences; from January to July 1, $256,528,000, an increase of 89 per cent over last year.

Sensing ahead this great boom in homes, we prepared ahead more largely than ever the furniture that is to go into them.

AND we bought the furniture at the lowest prices in seven years. It is an actual fact that furniture prices are now lower than they have been since before this country entered the war.

So, the new homes, the new furniture and the new low prices all link up happily together in this great August Sale

WE use the word "great" because we have a right to use it. Any sale of any kind that is the largest in the world, and that renders the largest service, is entitled to use the word "great." As a fact, people from every State in the Union and from some foreign countries attend this August Sale and send from it furniture into their homes because they can buy it to better satisfaction and greater economy (even when paying freight) than in any other place. This statement goes for our Philadelphia Store, too.

Expansion of the demand has forced expansion in our stocks and selling space this year. Furniture in the sale will be found on the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth galleries of the new building, at Astor Place.

THERE is more than a million and a half dollars of furniture provided for the Sale. All of our regular stock is included. And hundreds of thousands of dollars of special purchases from our regular manufacturers who made great concessions in price because of our large and long time dealings with them. On all of this Wanamaker furniture.

Prices are lowered 10 to 50 per cent with an average reduction of one-third.

Bedroom Suites for as little as $104 and for as much as $5,000.

Dining-Room Suites for as little as $157 and for as much as $2,046.

Living-Room Suites for as little as $123 and for as much as $1,331.

THE variety is two and three times as large as will be found in the usual furniture store.

225 matched bedroom suites—each different
176 matched dining-room suites—each different
224 matched living-room suites—each different
379 separate upholstered chairs.
Thousands of separate individual pieces.

ALL in all, it is a sale that will satisfy every demand made upon it. After looking over the furniture, seeing it in its various settings in the store, carefully examining its quality, and comparing the prices, we feel free to say, not as a brag, but merely as a statement of fact, that this is the best August Sale we have ever presented.

Active Selling Begins To-day

TODAY, Thursday and Friday of this week, and Monday of next week are Courtesy Days, on which selections may be made at the special August prices marked on each tag. Those who have charge accounts with us will not be called upon to pay for the furniture until September, or if a little extra time is required arrangements may be made with our Credit Office.

As a special accommodation for those whose new homes are not yet ready, deliveries will be held as late as November first. We are anxious to do everything we can to enable as many as possible to share in this sale, because its service is so extraordinary. Any one expecting to buy furniture within the next six months can buy it to greatest advantage now.

Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Galleries, New Building

THOSE of our patrons who particularly like the Belmaison reproduction furniture, selected largely by the director of the Belmaison Interior Decorative Service, will be glad to know that this entire stock is included in the sale—at reductions of 10 to 40 per cent, averaging a third.

Fourth Gallery, New Building

AND business men intending to refurnish their offices this Fall will find that they can save 10 and 15 per cent by buying now, because our entire stock of office furniture is made a part of the August Sale.

ENRIGHT WELCOMED BY OFFICIAL THRONG

"OURS AS GOOD AS THE BEST"

As Traffic Handlers, He Says, Our Men Surpass Even the Competent London "Bobbies."

From the moment the White Star liner Majestic anchored off Quarantine at 10 o'clock yesterday morning until she was safely made fast at pier 59 North River, she was serenaded vocally and instrumentally by the band of the Street Cleaning Department and the Police Glee Singers, who sailed down the Bay to welcome Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, returning with Mrs. Enright from Europe after two months' absence from the city. The welcoming committee was too large for the Police Boat so the city steamboat Manhattan was requisitioned to carry the civilian delegation, who were decorated with white sash ribbons bearing the inscription, "Citizens' Committee of Welcome to Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright." In addition to the two official steamboats there were four large power boats filled with admirers of the Police Commissioner.

When he took up a position at the rail of the Majestic on the promenade deck clad in a gray suit with a fedora hat of the same color with a black band and bow at the back in Tyrolean fashion, the cheers from the committee and his other friends made the welkin ring. Passing steamboats tooted shrilly and sooty firemen came on deck from the stoke holes and waved their hands. A conquering hero could not have been wished a warmer greeting.

Parade After Landing.

Practically every prominent city and police officials except Mayor Hylan, who was detained at City Hall by municipal affairs, and Deputy Police Commissioner Joseph Faurot, who is on his vacation, was either down the bay or at the pier. The reception ceremony concluded with a parade from the pier, to Twenty-second Street to Fifth Avenue to Fortieth Street and then across to Park Avenue where luncheon was served.

On the deck of the Majestic the Commissioner expressed to the reporters his gratification at the welcome accorded him in every city he had visited in Europe. Comparing conditions in Europe with those in this country the Police Commissioner said:

"After visiting every large city in Europe and examining the police methods and organizations I am sure I will not be criticised for saying that our department is as good as the best abroad and better than many. In the direction of street traffic we are away in the lead, even of London, although London has 20,000 policemen to handle a population composed almost exclusively of English people while we have in New York but 12,000 to handle a population in which the foreign element is very heavy, 30 per cent. against 4 per cent. in the British metropolis.

Britons Police Best He Saw Abroad.

"The London police were the best men I saw during my trip and are about the same quality as our men. They are no better, but a fine type. They never carry any firearms and now because of the murder of Sir Henry Wilson recently there has been a demand from the people, voiced through the newspapers, that they should be furnished with revolvers to protect themselves. The 'bobbies,' as they have been called for the last fifty years by the London public, are opposed to it because they believe they will lose their prestige, which is based on moral suasion.

"Here criminals mistake liberty for license and when arrested their first thought is how to get out of it. In England when they are arrested they know they are on their way. I found that the so-called crime wave in this country was duplicated in Europe. It appears to have been a condition bred by the war."

After the Commissioner came down the gangway the police band played "Hail to the Chief," and then ex-United States Marshal Thomas F. McCarthy read an address of welcome to which the Commissioner responded. Among the admiring audience were 250 members of the Steuben County Society, of which Enright is a former President, with badges bearing the inscription, "The Steuben County Society welcomes home its ablest son, Richard E. Enright."

GIRL DROWNED FROM CANOE.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 25.—In a canoe accident on Owasco Lake, near Auburn, Miss Belle Aberson of Syracuse was drowned this afternoon. Her companion, Bernard Simon, managed to cling to the side of the capsized canoe until help arrived.

Simon, who is a reporter on The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, took Miss Aberson for a canoe ride. They had paddled about three miles up the lake when Simon reached over the side of the boat and dipped up some water in his hand. As he did so the craft capsized.

The young man made a frantic effort to reach Miss Aberson, but she sank and did not reappear. When help arrived Simon was taken ashore, but all efforts to reach the girl by diving failed.

Simon came here three weeks ago from New York, where he was a senior in Columbia University. His home is in Pine Bluff, Ark. The drowned girl, of the same age, was a daughter of M. J. Aberson of Syracuse.

Keep Hair In Curl On Hot or Windy Days

Here's a hair curling method that is decidedly worth while. Just apply a little liquid silmerine before doing up the hair on curlers, using a clean tooth brush for the purpose, drawing this down the half from crown to tip. In a few hours you will have as beautiful curls and waves as you could wish for. The waviness will look so natural no one will guess it was artificially acquired. And it will last ever so long, regardless of heat, wind or dampness.

You can obtain liquid silmerine at drug stores, and a few ounces will last a long time. It is neither sticky nor gummy, and is pleasant to use. It is doubly useful because of also serving as a beneficial dressing, keeping the hair soft, silky and lustrous. It's fine for both long and bobbed hair.

SAYS SAWYER HALTS HELP FOR VETERANS

Colonel Sprague Appeals to Him to Allow Hospitalization to Go On.

TELLS OF DELAYED PLANS

President's Physician Denies American Legion Official's Charge That He Is "Penurious."

CHICAGO, July 25 (Associated Press).—Colonel A. A. Sprague, Chairman of the American Legion's National Rehabilitation Committee, in a letter to Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to President Harding and chief co-ordinator of the Federal Board of Hospitalization, made public today, charges that General Sawyer is standing in the way of proper care for wounded and shell-shocked veterans and holding up hospital plans voted by Congress.

Appealing to General Sawyer to "stand aside," Colonel Sprague said more than 4,500 mental cases still were confined in contract institutions and of the remaining 4,715 victims of mental disorders only 2,500 were in Government institutions devoted entirely to their care.

Quoting from a letter received from General Sawyer, in which the chief co-ordinator said "I am convinced that the peak of hospitalization has been passed" and that the Government had sufficient beds, except in two districts, Colonel Sprague replied:

"It is almost unbelievable that, having satisfied Congress that these hospitals were needed and that they should be built to capacity, we now have to reply to your statement that they are unnecessary.

"The reply of the American Legion and every real American is: 'Give these men the best care that medical science can provide in Government institutions maintained at the highest standard of equipment and administration—and near to their own homes so that if rehabilitated they can be returned to civil life with greater ease, and, if doomed to hospitalization, they can be near those whom they lost best.'

"Four years have already passed and the veteran has not yet been provided for. A belated program is now being held up and changed. It is being changed to meet your approval.

"I appeal to you, sir, to stand aside and allow this program of the Veterans' Bureau to go into effect and at once."

The Sprague letter follows one written by the General July 12 to Colonel Sprague dealing with the legion's demands for hospital care of the wounded under the Langley appropriation bill.

Replying to charges that he was "penurious and mercenary," General Sawyer said:

"God forbid that a dollar should ever be considered in comparison with the results we are seeking for the World War veterans, but at the same time let me say that it is our duty to oppose wastefulness and senseless expenditure wherever it is found possible to do so.

"Because we have money is no reason why we should waste it. Because the Langley bill has given us these millions of dollars, not mandatory, thank Heaven, to use, let us be careful in the disposition of it."

New York Veterans Back Sprague.

Colonel E. Garnett Day and William F. Deegan, commander of the Department of State of the American Legion, issued last night a statement in which they say in part:

"The Hospitalization Committee of the American Legion for the Second District, which comprises New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, through its Chairman, Colonel Lee Garnett Day, and the New York State commander, William F. Deegan, thoroughly indorses and backs the attack of Colonel Sprague of Chicago. We believe that the attitude and general policy of Dr. Sawyer in the past has been truthfully and without prejudice quoted in Colonel Sprague's report.

"New York State, especially from the ex-service man's standpoint, is in the worst situation of any State in the country. Dr. Sawyer has offered the Legion hospitals for New York veterans in North Carolina, Illinois and other distant States and has been only too willing to tear down the existing facilities without tendering a single Federal hospital, with the exception of the Kingsbridge Hospital, which contains today 322 patients. Due to lack of personnel and other equipment, the capacity of 1,000 will probably not be reached for several months.

"We cannot and will not permit, with due respect to our disabled comrades, one individual who from his own statements during the last six months is so thoroughly unequipped, to wreck a constructive program which has been tottering for four years."

FOUR YEARS IN BATH, WOUNDED OFFICER DIES

Lieut. Mackall Retained Courage to the End, Though His Spine Was Shattered.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 25.—Lieutenant Milton B. Mackall, who had been in a bathtub almost continuously for the last four years as a necessary requirement of the novel treatment for a severe spinal wound which he received in battle in France, is dead at Fort McHenry Hospital.

At 6 P. M. the body was taken to the fort chapel, where an armed guard will keep watch until the funeral services at 8:30 A. M. tomorrow. This is an honor never before rendered to any soldier, irrespective of rank, at Fort McHenry.

Highest military honors will be rendered during the service, attended by the Fourth Regiment of the Maryland National Guard, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. The body will then be sent to Port Republic, Calvert County, Md., to the home of an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Bowen, with whom he lived before coming to Baltimore. Burial will be in the Christ Church graveyard.

When President Harding was last in Baltimore and spoke at the unveiling of the Francis Scott Key Monument in the fort he visited Lieutenant Mackall. His cake appealed to the President, and the two talked for several minutes. The President thanked Walter Curtis, the Sergeant who had been a faithful attendant on Mackall during his illness, and left an autographed picture of himself that became a treasure of the wounded man.

Mackall's death brings to the institution its severest loss. For all the pity he inspired for all the sympathy that was bestowed upon him, he was himself the most efficient agent for cheering others. While many regarded his as the saddest case, he never considered it such.

Lieutenant Mackall had been receiving flowers regularly each week from Mrs. Harding, wife of the President, who became interested in his case when she was last in Baltimore. Last week a box of pink roses came by a special messenger, and only yesterday a personally written letter from Mrs. Harding was received, offering her regrets that his condition had not shown marked improvement.

Lieutenant Mackall's spine was shattered, but what is figuratively called backbone—pluck—he had in abundance to the very end.

Lieutenant Mackall was a son of Richard J. Mackall of Baltimore, and a nephew of John W. Mackall, Chairman of the State Roads Committee. The family is from Southern Maryland.

MAJESTIC ARRIVES AFTER FOGGY TRIP

Brings Lord Shaw to Speak Before American and Canadian Bar Associations.

E. J. BERWIND BACK

He Thinks Mines Will Soon Be in Operation if Government Protects Workers.

The White Star liner Majestic, from Southampton by way of Cherbourg, which docked at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was delayed several hours by fog. The master, Commander Sir Herbert Hayes, D. S. O., said the fog commenced at the mouth of the English Channel and continued daily at intervals to the Nantucket Lightship.

Among the notables on board was Lord Shaw of Dunfermline, one of the six Lords of Appeal in the House of Lords and a former special pleader at the Scottish Bar, who has come here to deliver an address before the annual convention of the American Bar Association in San Francisco. He will later speak before the Canadian Bar Association. Lord Shaw said he was confident that the commerce and industry of the British Empire would gradually recover from the slump it had suffered through the war. He added that the labor situation in England was better and that the working classes were beginning to understand the economic situation.

Another passenger was Edward J. Berwind, the coal operator and financier, who said that he had been across the ocean simply for a rest and had spent less than a week in England. Asked if his firm had bought coal in England, Mr. Berwind replied:

"I only know of a cargo sent to Havana because the ship was crossing empty. It looks to me as if coal would be lower in England before long because there is a dearth of business there."

With regard to the situation here, all he would say was: "I believe that if President Harding says that those who go to work will be protected the mines will soon be in operation. The critical thing, of course, is to supply the great Northwest with coal before the annual freeze-up."

PROTESTS AGAINST FIGHT.

Pastor Asks Mayor Hague to Prevent Leonard-Tendler Contest.

Protest against the Leonard-Tendler fight to be held at Boyle's thirty Acres, Jersey City, tomorrow evening, was made yesterday afternoon to Mayor Hague of Jersey City by the Rev. Harvey L. Wyatt, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Jersey City. Dr. Wyatt is Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the recently incorporated society of New Jersey for the prevention of crime, and he said that he also appeared in behalf of the Jersey City Clergyman's Community Club, which opposed the Dempsey-Carpentier match last year.

Dr. Wyatt asked the Mayor, as the acting head of the Department of Public Safety, "to prevent a certain crime in Jersey City, which would consist in giving a demoralizing exhibition, and that if the crime did actually take place, to see that the law for the punishment of crime is enforced." He said the Mayor thanked him and said nothing more.

"I told Dr. Wyatt," said the Mayor, "the men would not fight with pickaxes but with gloves and according to law. I told him that I could not assume that an accidental injury received at a boxing exhibition was a crime."

INJURIES IN AUTO FATAL.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 25.—Mystery surrounds the accident that caused the death of John Arbuckle, 29 years old, of 128 Irving Avenue, Brooklyn, in Bass Brothers' Hospital here today.

Arbuckle, who is married, was brought to the hospital in an unconscious condition on July 15. He was suffering from a fracture of the upper cheek bone and death was due to meningitis, following the fracture. Several young men brought him to the hospital and said that they would return in a short time to see him. Twice since then one has called to inquire about his condition.

In the meantime the parents of the injured man asked his companions of the whereabouts of their son and they replied that he was "having the time of his life." Later one admitted that Arbuckle was injured and in a Newburgh hospital. It was not until Saturday that the parents were told the true condition of their son and where he was.

The parents gave the names of the other members of the party, but all they would say was that the car struck a tree and that Arbuckle was hurt. Officials are investigating.

BODDY'S WIFE IN PRISON.

Will Not See Husband Before He Dies for Slaying Detectives.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, July 25.—Members of the State Board of Parole, which held its monthly meeting at Sing Sing today and ordered fifty-seven prisoners to be released shortly, announced that they refused to parole Mrs. Luther Boddy, wife of the negro slayer in the death house, from Auburn Prison. This means that Boddy, who is to die in the Sing Sing electric chair the week of Aug. 28, will be unable to see her again.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Boddy, whose husband shot Detective Sergeants Buckley and Miller, was acquitted on a charge of larceny. It now develops that she was out on parole from Auburn Prison when arrested. When she was discharged in court, the State Prison Department re-arrested her.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 25.—William Sergeant Kendall, until recently Dean of the Yale Art School, today confirmed a report that Mrs. Kendall, who has been in Paris with her daughter for a number of months, had obtained a divorce from him in that city.

Mr. Kendall yesterday said he not only was shocked at the report but failed to understand it. He had expected Mrs. Kendall to return home soon. Mr. Kendall was supposed to have relinquished the office of Dean to devote his entire time to painting.

Woman Scares Burglar Away.

Mrs. H. E. Fritz sleeps these Summer nights with her little daughter on the front porch of her home in Poplar Avenue, Chester Park. When she was awakened on Monday night by the noise of a burglar in the house, she hurled a chair across the porch with a crash. The burglar dropped a handful of silverware and fled through the back door, while Mr. Fritz added to the commotion by firing a pistol at him from an upstairs window.

Black, a business man of New Orleans and one of the leading Republicans of the South. Mr. Black was accompanied by J. Stuart Marlowe of Bingham, Ala. Since 1837 there is one thing we have never been able to improve—the enduring quality with which every Knabe is endowed. Especially noteworthy is the durability of the Knabe soundboard. Made of selected and perfectly seasoned wood, it is practically immune from the commonest and most fatal of piano weaknesses—the soundboard crack.

Among the many instruments, which we have accepted in exchange for the Ampico, are old Knabe pianos, but, despite their years of service, their soundboards are still immaculate.

GIANTS BEAT CARDS AND INCREASE LEAD

RALLY IN THE NINTH FAILS

Toney Stops Uprising With Tying Tally on First Base—Young Plays Great Game.

The Giants got away to a running start yesterday in their battle with the Cardinals to see who is going to finish second in the National League race. At present writing, up to and including games played yesterday, the Cards have the call—they're still in second place. They brought their championship aspirations and their big bats to the Polo Grounds and almost beat the Giants with a great ninth-inning rally. The score was 9 to 8.

When they hung the fifth inning up on the municipal scoreboard in St. Louis there must have been widespread desolation among the populace. One big inning, seven big runs, and the Giants had a lead that was too wide for Rogers Hornsby and the Larruping Legion. Eleven batters went to the plate. Six of them hit safely. Seven of them crossed the plate, and near the end of the destruction Bill Doak, the star spitballist of Branch Rickey's staff, took off his glove and went away from there.

When the carnage had stopped and the maimed and dying were removed, the Giants were five runs ahead, 8 to 3. The Cardinals, besides finishing with a great clatter, started with an equal rush. They maced the wild Fred Toney for three runs in the opening inning. Rose Young took back one of the three in the second by belting a home run into the left field bleachers. Then the Giants scored their seven runs, and the game looked over and done with.

Giants Score Another in Eighth.

As a mere matter of decoration the Giants attached another tally to their total in the eighth after the Cardinals had scored one themselves. It looked like gilding the lily to add more runs to the champions' score, but as events turned out that obscure and unsung tally in the eighth represented the difference between victory and a tie game.

In the ninth big Toney got careless. He pitched too fast, refused to throw what Snyder was calling for, quarreled with the catcher, and, with two out, nearly lost the ball game. Stock opened the inning by singling to right. "Spectacles" Toporcer batted for Clemons and lined to Meusel. Schultz hit for Lavan and fanned. Two down, and Toney lobbed them over easily to Shotton, batting for North. The pinch hitter walked, putting men on second and first. Flack jammed a single to centre, scoring Stock and sending Shotton to third. The crowd tittered at this little flurry. Smith jammed a double to right centre and Shotton came home.

With the score 9 to 6 and runners on third and second, the great Hornsby was up, and the fans began sitting up and sliding out to the edge of their chairs. Rogers swung as unconcernedly as if he were in batting practice, and a single skipped inside third base. Meusel played the ball deep near the fence and held Rogers to first, while Flack and Smith chased over the pan. The tying run was on first base and the Giant bull pen was full of pitchers when Toney pulled himself together and got Heinie Mueller on a grounder to Rawlings.

Sly Fred was wild in the first inning. His arm looked too tight, and he walked Flack and Smith, the first two batters. Hornsby singled to left and went to second on the throw to stop Smith at third, Flack scoring. On Mueller's long fly to Young, Smith slunk over and Hornsby moved down to third. Jacques Fournier burned a single over second base, and the third run came in.

Toney Pitches Well.

After that Toney found himself and yielded only two more singles up to the eighth inning. In four innings only the regulation three men faced him, while the Giants thrashed around trying to solve Doak and his spitball. Young started the second inning by catching a fast one on the end of his bat and laying it on a line in the left field bleachers, close to the foul mark. Doak, however, had lots of stuff and mixed his spitball with a slow ball that had the Giants breaking their backs.

Bancroft walked with one out in the third, but Rawlings fouled to Clemons and Frisch, caught dead naileup, turned his head to argue with Bill Klem while Doak shot a third strike over. In the fourth Doak hit Young with one down, but fooled Kelly on strikes and stopped Casey Stengel on a grounder to Hornsby.

There was no stopping the champs in the fifth, however. Snyder, the first batter, gave Stock a chance to make a glittering stop between third base and short. Doak walked Toney, a bad misstep, and Bancroft faced to left for a base. Up came "Lucky John" Rawlins, as good a hitter as the Giants have in a pinch. John smacked the first ball on a line over Stock's head for a two-bagger, Toney scoring and Bancroft pulling up at third. With two strikes on him Frisch bunted. Doak got the ball on one knee and made a desperate toss to Clemons. But the throw was low and slow, and Bancroft slid over the plate.

This put Rawlings on third, and he had lots of time to score on Meusel's long fly to Flack. On the hit and run with the count three and two Young singled to right and when Flack fumbled for a fleeting instant Frisch was off like a shot for the plate. He dove head first and made it in a cloud of dust. Young got to second, and Stock then fumbled Kelly's grounder, admitting Young to third.

North Replaces Doak.

There were two out, but the Giants weren't near through. Old Casey Stengel, broken jaw and all, poked a vicious double over Fournier's head to the right field stand. Young scored easily and Kelly followed him in by dint of a desperate sprint and a long slide around Clemons. Snyder, up again, singled between Stock and Lavan, and Casey hurried around third and over the disk. This was enough for Doak, and North came in to strike out Toney and finish the inning.

Nothing more for either team until the eighth, when the Cardinals got a run on Flack's single to the box, Hornsby's double to left and Meuller's sacrifice drive to Meusel. Irish misjudged the ball and then saved the day by jumping up and spearing the pill with his glove. Hornsby stayed at second and Fournier popped weakly to Kelly.

In their half the Giants got the run back on Snyder's double off the right field wall, Toney's short single to right and Bancroft's long fly to Smith. Rawlings hit into a double play by way of North, Lavan and Fournier. After that came the ninth and near disaster.

It was a great game, although not too well played. The Cardinals showed some ragged baseball, especially their southpaw outfield, and errors by Stock and Flack were expensive. However, it was a triumph for the Giants, who are so badly crippled that three-quarters of the team limps. Young, with his shoe cut open to relieve pressure on a bad ankle, played one of the finest games of his life and dove recklessly to the plate and the bases. Snyder ought to be on the bench. Frisch, Bancroft, Stengel and Kelly are all crippled. The only thing that isn't damaged is their spirit.

SHOCKER SHUTS OUT YANKEES IN OPENER

Browns' Ace Allows Only Six Hits in First Game of Series—Score Is 8-0.

WILLIAMS GETS HOME RUN

Makes 22d Circuit Clout of Season—Mays Is Chased to Cover Despite Great Support.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—The New York Yankees were slaughtered this afternoon in the opening game of their series at Sportsman's Park for the edification of nearly 20,000 fans who came to cheer a St. Louis victory and remained through to the bitter end of a one-sided struggle. Despite the size of the score, 8 to 0, the contest was not lacking in interest.

Urban Shocker, the St. Louis spitball ace, made a great comeback. Shocker, who had been subjected to four consecutive defeats by the Yankees, pitched a superb game. He allowed six hits, but one of these might have been declared an out by Umpire Tom Connolly. This was a high bounder by Wallie Pipp in the ninth inning with two out. It was a fast play, and Sisler started for the club house, and the crowd swarmed out of the stands when Connolly yelled "He's safe!" It mattered little, for Ward forced the lanky first baseman.

The Yankees got only two men to third base, and fine plays cut them off. One of these was a throw by Kenneth Williams which retired Babe Ruth at the plate, and the other a leaping catch of Scott's fly by Sisler, who converted it into a double play with the help of Bronkie. The partisan fans, who seem to be deeply stirred by the recent Red Sox-Yankee trade, roared themselves hoarse as inning after inning was played with no runs for the New Yorkers.

Browns Collect Eleven Hits.

However, it was the hitting of the Browns that won the day. The home players pounded Carl Mays and Frank O'Doul for eleven hits. No fewer than six were bunched in the sixth. In this inning the Browns bunched doubles by Gerber, Sisler and Bronkie with a triple by McManus and singles by Tobin and Jacobson. Mays was knocked out of the box in this frame, when four smashes rang out. The triple by McManus was the last blast directed against Mays.

The hitting of the home clan had to be clean, for the Bugmen played brilliantly in the field. Ward made great leaping catches of solid smashes. One of these robbed Williams of a double and the other was at the expense of Tobin. Joe Dugan, playing his first game as a Yankee, got a double and aided in a double play.

Waltie Schang singled through the box to start the second inning, and Pipp sent him to third with another single. After Ward had fanned, Scott decided to squeeze the run over, but as Sisler rushed in Scott tried to poke the ball over Sisler's head. The agile George leaped high in the air and made a fine catch, throwing to Bronkie to double Schang.

The Browns rallied to the support of Shocker in the fourth inning and cut down Ruth at the plate. The Babe opened the inning by coaxing a base on balls from Shocker, and after Schang had been retired Pipp came through. Ward was easy for Shocker, but Scott lifted one over Bronkie's head for a single to left and Ruth jet sail for the plate. Williams rushed in, and, scooping up the ball, shot a perfect throw to the plate, where Hartley Ward was waiting. Severeid grabbed the ball and put it on Ruth, retiring the side.

Ward Makes Great Catch.

The Browns got together in the last half of the fourth and sent two runs over. Tobin started the inning with a smash toward right centre, but Ward jumped high and snared the ball with his gloved hand. Williams then slammed the ball into the right field stands for his twenty-second home run of the season.

After a fruitless fifth inning, the Browns proceeded to hammer Mays right out of the game in the sixth. Gerber opened fire with a two-base hit, which landed on the chalk line in left field. Tobin bounced a single off Scott's foot, and Sisler's poke to left was good for two bases, scoring Gerber and putting Tobin on third. Williams hit a sacrifice fly to Meusel, Tobin scoring the plate while Sisler took third. McManus tripled, scoring Sisler. That was the end of Mays.

O'Doul then came in. Jacobson singled to centre, scoring McManus, and then Bronkie popped a fly which Scott pursued until he struck the foul line back of third. It was a double and scored Jacobson from second.

There was no need for the Browns scoring any more, but they did just the same. In the eighth, with one out, McManus walked and took second on a wild pitch. A single by Jacobson scored him. Passes to Severeid and Bronkie filled the bases, but Shocker bunted a fly to Pipp and Bronkie was doubled off first.

WHITE SOX STOP BOSTON.

Score 3 to 1 Victory in Opener—Mitchell Plays Shortstop.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Ted Blankenship held Boston to five hits, only two of which were bunched in the last inning, while Chicago hit Pennock opportunely and won the first game of the series, 3 to 1. Mitchell, who came to Boston from the Yankees in the Dugan deal, played shortstop.

STARS COME FROM BEHIND AND WIN

Kircher's Fine Work as a Relief Pitcher Defeats Jersey City by 6 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 25.—Canceling a three-run lead in the early innings, the Stars captured the third game of the series from the Skeeters here today by a score of 6 to 5. The contest was hard fought throughout and was featured by the gallant relief work of Mike Kircher and the timely hitting of Jake Wimer and Sammy Barnes.

Kircher did some of the best relief pitching of the year, letting the Skeeters have only two hits in six and a third innings. Glenn Killinger, with two errors on one play, assisted the Stars in winning the game, the round wherein the Skeeters were subdued being the sixth.

There will be a double-header here tomorrow and Manager Egan will probably work Tecart and Hanson, while Manager Shaughnessy expects to send his ace, Walter Stewart, or either Montgomery or Schulz to the mound, in an effort to clean up on the series.

CLEVELAND, July 25.—The Cleveland Indians defeated the Athletics, 4 to 0, today in the first game of a double-header and then lost the second, 11 to 4.

Guy Morton, who allowed only seven hits in the first game and fanned seven batters, tried to pitch the second game also, but was knocked out of the box in the fifth.

Buccaneers Settle Game in Seventh Inning When They Hit Grimes for Four Runs.

The downtrodden Robins were further humiliated yesterday when the aspiring Pirates, who, having proved that they were not afraid of the Giants, trimmed the Brooklyn outfit at Ebbets Field by a score of 5 to 3. By this victory the Buccaneers widened the gap between them and Robinson's crew and prepared to set sail today for the Reds. It was a dull and gloomy afternoon over in Flatbush, and the fans did not overcrowd the accommodations to watch Burleigh Grimes lose his game in the fatal seventh.

Up to the seventh Grimes had let the visitors down with only four hits.

"I closed the Scotchman this A. M."

"It was a $15,000 equipment deal with a hard headed Scot and the negotiations had seemingly reached an impasse. The student, an experienced salesman in the Middle West, called on us for special instructions. A few days later he wrote us as follows: 'You will be more than pleased to know that I followed your advice and closed the Scotchman this A.M.; so I will have to give you all the credit.'"

A New York student has just written us: "I utilized the instruction in Lesson 20 in approaching the presidents of the largest New York banks and have had no trouble in making appointments with them. Yesterday I called on five New York bank presidents (by appointments thus made) and was successful with two of them."

A famous Princeton football and baseball star, who is now a successful salesman, writes us: "I gained more in the first four lessons than I did all last year in taking the course in salesmanship at one of the large universities. If a man can't sell after studying your course, it is either because he is dumb or has merely read and not studied what you say."

These are extracts from three of the many enthusiastic letters that come to us daily. Our course in salesmanship is unique in that, as one of our students has aptly said, we "not only tell what to do and say, but exactly when and how to do and say it."

If you can sell yourself, you can sell anything

The Maxwell method of teaching salesmanship is founded on the great truth that a man must be able to sell himself before he can expect to sell his merchandise or his ideas.

William Maxwell, "America's Best Known Sales Manager" has devised a Self Analysis Chart which, when conscientiously filled out by you, enables us to advise you what qualities to cultivate to improve your ability to sell yourself. Our opinion costs you nothing and puts you under no obligation. Yet it and our free booklet, "How to Sell Yourself" may be of great help to you. Send for them today.

Special Notice to Employers

We are prepared, without cost to an extent, to place employers in touch with salesmen and sales executives, who have thoroughly demonstrated their intelligence, industry and powers of application.

TWELVE SURVIVE IN METROPOLITAN PLAY

WASHBURN DEFEATS DAVIES

Veteran Davis Cup Star Forced Through Three Torrid Sets to Win, 5-7, 8-6, 6-2.

Twelve men were left in the play for the metropolitan lawn tennis championship when activity ceased yesterday afternoon on the courts of the Crescent Athletic Club at Bay Ridge. As a result of the playing of thirty-three matches, all of the second and third rounds were cleared up by Chairman Charles Chambers and his associates of the Tournament Committee, and four men advanced as far as the round before the semi-finals. They were Vincent Richards, Zenzo Shimizu, Philip Neer and Howard Kinsey, all seeded players.

Watson Washburn, who, along with Richards, Shimizu and S. Howard Voshell, is a favorite to reach the semi-finals, finished his incompleted match with James Davies successfully. When these two had stopped play on the preceding day Davies had won one set at 7-5, and it looked for a time in the second set yesterday as though he would accomplish an upset. He was neck and neck with the old Davis Cup star right down to the finish, Davies led at 2-1, and then Washburn seesawed into a 4-2 advantage. They were level at 4-all, and then the games were twice deuced. Neer might have won the match had he been able to take his own service toward the end. But his first ball was missing the lines, and Washburn was handling his second without mercy.

Washburn had the set point up when he was leading at 6-5, but he had to play three more games before he could win it. He steadied strongly and served out the final game with Davies at 15. Washburn's playing was admirable all through the latter stages of this session. The tide turned in his favor when he began to go to the net, his firm control of his shoulder-high volleys giving him many clean-cut aces. Davies played well, but with not quite the severity of hitting on the sharpness of placing which he has revealed in some others of his many fine performances this season.

Washburn Gains Confidence.

Winning the second set gave Washburn supreme confidence, and he waded through the third and decisive chapter in short order, taking it at 6-2. A few moments later he took the court with Frank A. Seller of Montclair and defeated him in two 6-3 sets. Today Washburn will play Harold Taylor of Princeton, and, if he wins, will meet Howard Kinsey in what should be one of the best of the fifth-round matches, leading into the semi-finals. Kinsey had peculiar luck yesterday. He met two men who, though excellent players, would not usually be considered formidable rivals for him. In both cases he dropped the first set, was pressed closely in the second and won a love set for the rubber. He was a strong finisher.

Kinsey's first opponent was George G. Moore Jr., whom he defeated by 5-7, 6-4, 6-0, and his second was Cedric A. Major, who lost by 2-6, 6-3, 6-0. Both Moore and Major were in top form. While Kinsey, especially in the two first sets, demonstrated that he is rapidly getting into practice in this, his first week of the season on grass.

Richards won his two matches handily, taking the first set in love in both instances and then easing up sufficiently to allow his opponent a few games in the second. He eliminated Robert J. Davis of Montclair by 6-0, 6-4 and Kenneth D. Fisher, Staten Island champion, by 6-2, 6-2. Richards is in excellent shape and his strokes are working as smoothly as possible, with his headwork always unimpeachable. But he will have to speed up his strokes and get better control of his fast first service if he is to beat Shimizu in the semi-final. Richards should beat the Japanese if he can get to the net. But he can't reach that desirable position against Shimizu unless his service and drives are speedier than they have been thus far.

Shimizu's first match yesterday provided the fans with excellent tennis, as Carl N. Jolliff of Montclair furnished stouter opposition than might be imagined by the scores of 6-3, 6-2. The Japanese then allowed I. T. Bliteiik of New York University only one game in two sets.

Voshell Extended to Win.

Voshell was extended to three sets to beat Hugh G. M. Kelleher, winning by 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Kelleher, always a dangerous opponent, handled Voshell's speed well. Philip Neer defeated the veteran Alfred A. Dabney in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3. Others of the day's winners included Fred C. Bagge, Philip Bettens, Howard C. Osborne and Stephen W. Brubaker, who obtained a highly creditable victory over Murray Vernon.

The Tournament Committee was lucky that the rain held off. There was a drizzle during the early matches, but not enough to damage the courts seriously. The fifth round will be completed today, the semi-finals will be played tomorrow and the final on Friday. Play for the metropolitan doubles championship will also be on this afternoon's program. Three of the leading teams entered are Zenzo Shimizu and Bunichiro Kashio of Japan; Robert and Howard Kinsey, champions of the Pacific Coast, and Philip Neer and James Davies, intercollegiate champions.

The summaries:

MISS BAYARD VICTOR IN TENSE NET DUEL

Jersey Girl Eliminates Miss Mills, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8, in State Title Play.

Miss Martha Bayard, who is one of the most brilliant of the younger tennis stars of the Atlantic Coast, triumphed yesterday over Miss Helen Wills, the foremost girl player of the Pacific Coast, in a long and tense struggle at the Green Meadow Club, Harrison, N. Y., in the tournament for the women's New York State singles championship. Miss Bayard beat the girls' national champion by 6-3, 4-6, 10-8. This was the feature match of a day of excellent tennis during which Mrs. Molla Mallory, national champion, Mrs. Thomas C. Bundy, former national champion, Miss Leslie Bancroft, Miss Helen Gilleaudeau and Miss Martha Hellister reached the round before the semi-finals.

Miss Bayard had to come from behind in two sets to beat Miss Wills. In the first the Coast star led at 5-love, and in the third at 5-love. Later, leading at 6 to 5, Miss Wills needed but one more point in the twelfth game to win the match. That shows just how well the two were matched.

Miss Wills Improves.

Miss Wills is showing a constantly surer grasp of court tactics and technique. She played always with foresight and judgment. At times her work was brilliant. She had none the better of the breaks in the last part of the long third set, and the lining of the match might have been improved upon. Over anxiety seemed to be the chief fault of the western wonder, leading her to make mistakes at the wrong time. Miss Bayard, on the other hand, was steadiest when the situation was most critical. She stroked with excellent pace and control and brought off some keen passing shots. Never in fact, has the Jersey girl played better. Mrs. Bundy, yesterday. She had to take her game to an unprecedented height to beat Miss Wills, and it was a sterling performance on both sides with honors as even as they well could have been.

Total games—Miss Bayard, 20; Miss Wills, 17. Total points—Miss Bayard, 120; Miss Wills, 116.

Mrs. Bundy made her first appearance of the year on the grass court and demonstrated that the glowing accounts of her present tennis form that had preceded her from the Coast were amply justified. She first took two love sets from Mrs. R. Shope and then defeated a clever girl player in the person of Miss Marie Hesters by 6-4, 6-2. She seems to be in exceptional condition physically, even more a picture of health and grace than she was a year ago. Her drives were superbly executed, beautifully placed and far too fast for either of her two opponents to deal with effectively. Today the former Miss Sutton will meet a severer test when she plays Miss Gilleaudeau.

Mrs. Mallory Not Extended.

Mrs. Mallory was also playing excellently, though she, like Mrs. Bundy, was not greatly extended. The champion defeated Mrs. Gertrude Chisholm, the former Miss Julia Terry, by 6-0, 6-0. Mrs. Chisholm won her service in the first and third games of the opening set and spent most of the rest of her time watching Mrs. Mallory's sweep by to unprotected places.

Miss Bancroft reached the fourth round by triumphing over Miss Edgerton V. Lynch by 6-1, 6-2. Miss Gilleaudeau advanced at the expense of Miss Helen Hooker, the former winning in straight sets.

The first day's play for the women's State doubles championship produced some excellent matches among the sixteen teams competing. Mrs. Bundy and her partner from Los Angeles, Mrs. William Henry, displayed excellent team work in eliminating Mrs. William Kelly and Mrs. Joseph Sachs, 6-3, 6-1. Mrs. Henry seems to excel in team play. She was beaten in the first round of the singles by Miss Percy Wilbourn. This was a close and well played match, with Mrs. Wilbourn enough steadier to win by 7-5, 10-8.

The summaries:

BETTING IS LIGHT ON TITLE CONTEST

The decks are being cleared for the world's lightweight championship bout tomorrow night between Benny Leonard, titleholder, and Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw, who is considered to be the champion's most dangerous rival. The work of preparing the huge arena on Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, progressed smoothly yesterday.

Speculation on the battle is quiet. Few large wagers have been reported or recorded. Followers of important sporting events whose custom it has been to act as stakeholders in championship ring struggles of the past have reported few sizable wagers to date. In what betting there is on the outcome Leonard is installed as the favorite. The champion laid at 3 to 1 to beat the popular newspaper decision, there is no official decision permitted under the Hurley law in New Jersey, in the wagers recorded. Most of the betting has been made on the decision. A number of wagers, too, have been made on a knockout being scored by the champion or challenger.

Wall Street odds favoring Leonard to gain the decision lengthened yesterday over quotations of last Monday. A jump to 3 to 1 was reported, but because of the scarcity of Tendler money little speculation was recorded. The odds before yesterday favored Leonard to win the decision at 7½ to 2.

W. L. Darnell & Co. at 44 Broad Street placed one commission of $6,000 against $2,000 on Leonard to win a majority of the newspaper decisions on the battle. At the close of the day the firm announced it had $15,000 more to place at similar odds, and on the same proposition. This, however, was the only large wager of the day in the financial district, where surprise was expressed at the absence of Tendler money from Philadelphia. The only Tendler commission in the hands of the firm last night was one of $1,000 against $4,000, equivalent to odds of 1 to 4, that Tendler will carry off the majority of the newspaper decisions. The odds, however, did not appeal to Leonard supporters, who exhibited no disposition to speculate. Darnell & Co. were offering, without any takers, $4,000 at odds of 7 to 5 that Leonard stops Tendler before the full twelve rounds have been traversed. Tendler's supporters on the other hand, were offering 7 to 5 that the challenger would last the limit. There is limited amounts, no wagers were recorded, however, on this proposition. A delegation of Leonard's admirers arrived from the West and, according to Darnell & Co., they have come to view the battle prepared to back the champion to any extent.

Speculators, it was learned yesterday, are asking exhorbitant prices for the pasteboards in their possession. The ticket brokers, true to tradition, have secured a number of the choice seats, ranging in price from $40 to $100 a pair for the regular tickets with a face value of $16.50 each.

Tex Richard, who is promoting the contest, decried the practices of the speculators. He said that reports had reached him of instances where ticket brokers asked as high as $40 a pair for ringside seats. He said he stated that to the best of his belief the speculators have secured only a limited number of tickets.

"Practically all the choice seats have been disposed of in the heavy advance demand for tickets," said Richard yesterday. "There remain however, some of ringside seats offering satisfactory views of the ring. Because of the sharp elevation in the arena the ring view in Boyle's Thirty Acres is superior to that in any other boxing arena I know of. There are plenty of ringside seats and a number of good seats at lower prices, so that there should be no dissatisfaction over seat location. For this reason I am advising prospective ticket purchasers to get their tickets at authorized ticket agencies rather than to drive at Madison Square Garden, where the largest supply is available. Reports have reached me that speculators are asking as high as $40 a pair for ringside seats which they secured through some unknown means at $16.50 for each ticket. This exorbitant speculator charge is ridiculous, and the only way I know of to discourage the practice is to purchase tickets in the regular way."

Dr. J. H. Farrell, Supervisor of Dental Hygiene of the Board of Education, Jersey City, yesterday announced receipt of notification of his appointment as official timekeeper for the title struggle. Dr. Farrell officiated in a similar capacity in the Dempsey-Carpentier bout.

CARPENTIER'S TITLE WON'T BE AT STAKE

French Boxing Body Rules Siki Is Not Worthy Opponent for Georges.

PARIS, July 26 (Associated Press).—The fight scheduled between "Battling" Siki and Georges Carpentier will take place either on Sept. 8 or Sept. 17, depending on the date of the completion of an arena, it was announced today. It will be a plain match, with no title involved, and officially it will be fought, though it will be fought under federation regulations.

The French Boxing Federation has ruled that the punilistic privileges of "battling" Siki does not qualify him to challenge Carpentier for the light-heavyweight championship of the world.

The federation has pointed out that the international regulations stipulate that a champion can only challenge for the highest title he holds. Carpentier, who is the light-heavy champion of France, Europe and the world, could only be challenged, therefore, for the championship of the world. The federation, passing on Siki's past performances, adjudged him unworthy to become a contender for the world's championship. The decision does not prevent the match, it is pointed out. But the question of title would not be involved.

AUSTRALIAN DAVIS CUP TEAM ARRIVES

The four members of the Australian lawn tennis team, which is to contest here for the Davis Cup starting next Monday, arrived yesterday on the steamship Majestic. They are scheduled to play France in Boston and Spain in Philadelphia, and, if successful in these two series, will meet the United States in the challenge round at Forest Hills Sept. 8 and 9. The team is made up of Gerald L. Patterson, Captain; James O. Anderson, Pat O'Hare Wood and R. O. Wertheim.

Patterson was the winner of the recent Wimbledon tournament, upon which the International Tennis Federation bestows the world's championship crown, but said he would not like to claim the title unless he could defeat Tilden in a special match, which he hopes could be arranged. Wood, who was Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen's partner in winning the mixed doubles championship at Wimbledon, said that in the women's singles Mlle. Lenglen outplayed Mrs. Mallory so far as to outclass her.

The party was met at the dock by President Julian S. Myrick and other officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association and conducted to the Vanderbilt Hotel, which will be its headquarters.

Twenty Teams Entered.

The second of a series of two-hour team races will be conducted Friday night at the New York Velodrome, with an entry of about twenty cycling teams. Reggie McNamara and Al Grenda, winners of the last race, and Alf Goullet and Eddie Madden are among the teams scheduled to ride. Several amateur races will precede the professional exhibition.

Art Competitions to Have Part in Next Olympic Games

PARIS, July 26 (Associated Press).—The French Executive Olympic Committee, desiring to give effect to the idea of associating art competitions with athletic sports, as held by the original founders of the Olympic Games, will institute five international competitions during the 1924 meet, in architecture, literature, music, sculpture and painting, it was announced today. These medals, similar to those to be awarded to competitors in athletics will be awarded in each of the five art competitions. Full liberty as regards subject matter will be allowed, except that the work of art must be directly inspired by the ideas of sports.

LEONARD FINISHES INTENSIVE TRAINING

Special to The New York Times.

BUDD LAKE, N. J., July 26.—Benny Leonard's intensive training campaign for the defense of his lightweight championship against Lew Tendler is practically at an end. Save for a short session of sparring tomorrow morning, the titleholder will do no more work before entering the ring in Jersey City to defend his title Thursday night against his Philadelphia rival. An early morning jog on the road, a strenuous seven-round sparring session against three camp assistants and a short period of calisthenics constituted the last of the heavy work for the champion. A crowd of 2,000 visited the champion's training quarters, despite a threatening sky, to witness Leonard going through his preparatory paces for the match.

Leonard was up and about early. He was out on the road at 6 o'clock this morning for one more dog at the heavy road work which has proved so beneficial to the titleholder. After a session of go as you please, in which he sprinted, jogged and walked alternately, Leonard returned to camp, and at 11 o'clock devoured a hearty meal. While Leonard was eating, Manager Billy Gibson arrived at the camp, and after the meal the champion and his business mentor repaired to a quiet corner of the training camp for a private conference. The subject under discussion was not divulged. Gibson left immediately after the conference, while Leonard rested preparatory to entering upon his final afternoon's workout.

The champion went through seven rounds of easy sparring in the matinee session, enlivening the proceedings with witty repartee at the expense of his boxing partners. Leonard boxed three rounds with Mike Carrier and two each with Johnny Martin and Sammy Berne. Following this the titleholder devoted his attention for ten minutes to shadow boxing and rope skipping, with a little body calisthenics.

At the conclusion of his workout Leonard appeared in perfect condition. His breathing was normal and, judged from appearances, he could have proceeded with an hour of strenuous gymnasium work if the occasion demanded. Down to 134 pounds in weight and feeling superbly in every respect, Leonard refrained from overdoing his training. Unless he changes his plans he will box five rounds tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and then will await the summons to journey to Jersey City Thursday afternoon for the weighing-in ceremony at 3 o'clock.

Leonard lost his accustomed jovial demeanor at one stage of his sparring today, when he protested against seating among the spectators and objected to the onlookers crowding too close about the ring. This, however, was accepted by camp officials as an indication of his good condition as the day of battle approached. As he left the ruffled mood of his trainer Maurice Bourman after the workout Leonard declared himself as confident of victory.

Freddie Welsh, from whom Leonard took the title in 1917, and Vincent (Pepper) Martin, Brooklyn featherweight, were visitors to the camp. After seeing Leonard in his work-out, Welsh professed confidence in Leonard's ability to defeat Tendler.

TENDLER'S HEAVY TRAINING IS OVER

Special to The New York Times.

DELANCO, N. J., July 26.—Tendler, Philadelphia's star lightweight, who is preparing for his battle with Benny Leonard, did not exert himself much today as his hard work is at an end. He took a jog over the near-by Jersey roads this morning and spent the rest of the day more than usual on account of the sudden change in weather. For the last week he has been pounding away on the sun-baked roads with the thermometer hovering around the 90 mark, but today the temperature was around the 70 mark and Lew put on an extra sweater.

This afternoon Tendler boxed three rounds with Harry (Kid) Brown, the former South Philadelphia light heavyweight, who is also a lightweight, in the Full Glassman stable. It was evident today that Tendler's heavy work is over, as Tim Droney, the Lancaster mauler, did not face him at all. The sparring with Brown was done to keep Lew right on edge. Brown is noted for his cleverness and he steamed in and out of Lew's guard but just whipped little jabs instead of hollo punches. Shadow boxing wound up the afternoon's work.

Charlie White, the veteran Chicago lightweight, who has Tendler's chances, and Jack O'Brien, the old-time light heavyweight, were included in the list of camp visitors today. White was amazed at Tendler's speed and said that if Lew works his body punches the way he has been practicing there will be plenty of trouble in store for Champion Leonard.

Tomorrow Tendler plans to do a little shadow boxing and may jog a few miles in the morning. He will motor to the Jersey City arena Thursday afternoon.

Tendler received a surprise gift morning from his wife in the form of a bathing suit from Atlantic City home and paid him a visit just to wish him success when he meets Leonard.

GOLDSTEIN WINS BOUT.

Long Range Work in Final Rounds Earns Him Honors Over Edwards.

Abe Goldstein, Harlem bantamweight, was entitled to a shade in the honors of his bout with Danny Edwards, negro bantamweight of the Pacific Coast, which served as the feature twelve-round attraction last night at the Oakland A. A., Jersey City. Goldstein's relentless and accurate long range work during the closing three rounds earned the honors for the local lad. For nine rounds there was little to choose between the combatants. Goldstein ripped his rival's left eye open with a steady two-fisted fire in the fourth round and had Edwards bleeding through the remainder of the bout. In the fifth session Edwards staggered his rival with a crushing right to the jaw. But Goldstein recuperated quickly and avoided Edwards's attempts at applying a finishing punch. Both boxers weighed fifty pounds.

Forfeits for Bout Posted.

Forfeits were posted yesterday to bind the battle between Abe Herscovitch, Canadian middleweight, and Tommy McAleer of the west side, which will be the feature twelve-round attraction at the Commonwealth Sporting Club of Harlem Saturday night. Unusual interest is reported in the bout.

KRAMER RIDES LAST RACE IN NEW YORK

Frank Kramer's last appearance on a bicycle in New York at the Velodrome last night was an impressive one. He will motor across the Hempstead plains to-morrow from 8,000 fans who believed the Westerner entitled to ride the Eight Orange marcel ride.

The band struck up "Auld Lang Syne" as Kramer straddled his wheel for his one-sixth mile record trial. The strains were the signal for everyone in the big stadium to stand up and bare the heads.

Kramer acknowledged the chorus with a broad smile, the veteran of twenty years roared to the limit of his powerful lungs, pleased over the ovation. He then attempted to better his own record of 10 4-5 seconds for a mile of a mile, one circuit of the track. Kramer had Gaston Ponell for his pacemaker, leading him up gradually. At the report of the pistol Kramer streaked around the course, minus and negotiated the lap in sixteen seconds, a fifth of a second slower than he ever rode the distance.

The announcement of the time took the occasion for another outburst of applause. Kramer received a large bouquet of flowers and circled the course for a hour of honor and then retired to his training quarters. Kramer will make his last appearance as a wheel in Newark tonight.

Kramer has competed for twenty-seven years, twenty-three years as a professional and four years as an amateur. He held the professional championship of Chicago eighteen times, the world's championship once, in 1912, the only year he competed for it, and the amateur title two years. He also holds the world's record for one-quarter mile, one-third mile, one-half mile and three-quarters of a mile.

Clarence Carman of Jamaica, L. I., won the fifty-mile motor-paced race behind the Indianapolis pacing of Harry Hunter of Newark. Carman took the lead at the end of the first mile and held it to the finish. Jerry Memmo, the French star, battled Carman for a session of time, but at the thirty-five mile mark lost the pace, dropping two laps before he could regain it.

Victor Linart, the Belgian star, moved up into second place when Miguel lost his pace. A short time later Memmo dropped out, leaving Carman and Linart lately last. It was in this order that they finished.

Carman covered the fifty miles in the time of 1 hour 11 minutes 29 4-5 seconds, a new track record. The former mark, held by Miguel, was 1:15:42 2-5.

RAMBLERS TRIUMPH IN FINAL POLO GAME

MATCH GOES 11 CHUKKERS

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., July 25.—In a polo game which went into the eleventh chukker, the Meadow Brook Ramblers today dealt the Meadow Brook Orange County four in the final match of the high-goal tournament for the Meadow Brook Cups. The score was 10 to 9. It was a shot by Robert E. Strawbridge Jr., after four and one-half minutes of the third extra period, which won for the Ramblers the longest game, so far as is known, ever played on a Meadow Brook Club field. Two of Orange County's nine goals were by handicap, so that the victors earned three goals more than the losers.

In addition to Strawbridge, at back for the winners, the Ramblers had R. Penn Smith Jr. at No. 1; Raymond Belmont at No. 2 and F. S. von Stade at No. 3. W. Averill Harriman played No. 1 on the Orange County team. Fred Post was No. 2, Elliot C. Bacon No. 3 and Morgan Belmont back. The total of handicaps was 17 for the Ramblers to 15 for Harriman's aggregation.

The match, which was played on the International field on a turf made soft by last night's rain, stood at 3 to 6 in favor of the yellow jackets at the end of the seventh chukker. In that period Harriman made two goals, to one scored by the white vested Ramblers, and it began to look as if Orange County could outride the Ramblers and win the cup. But that was to reckon without Strawbridge.

Strawbridge Plays Great Game.

Hardly had the eighth period got under way than the Bryn Mawr mallet-wielder scooped the ball out of the scrimmage after the throw-in, which was some ninety yards from the yellow goal, and with able defense, drove it down with short, accurate strokes for the count. Harriman, for his side, tallied about midway of the period, after Orange County had brought the sphere from the middle of the field. This left Orange County still ahead, 6 to 7. But Harriman's was the last tally made by his team.

The Ramblers were fighting for the game, and with but three minutes to go Von Stade was shaken free of the Orange swarm for a score. One goal was needed by the Ramblers to tie the count. Strawbridge got a free hit on the foul, but Orange County's defense was too close, and the ball went wide. Play swayed back and forth, and the gong was about to ring when Strawbridge got the ball in mid-field. There was a crescendo of dull thuds as the galloping white riders charged for the Orange County goal and the yellow crew pressed beside them in what was a vain attempt to ride Strawbridge and his men off. The ball was shot between the posts by Strawbridge, and the match tied at nine—all.

Ramblers Strong on Defense.

After the stubborn fight of the eighth session it was hardly to be wondered that the Ramblers were unable to score in the first extra period. That they could hold the stampeding Orange County four was what brought the spectators to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Orange County looked to Fred Post or Averill Harriman to shoot a winning tally. Post was riding like a demon and Harriman was driving the ball up to him. Twice Orange County had a clear field, only to find Strawbridge, on one of the fastest mounts of the day, arriving in time to save the goal.

The tenth chukker was a repetition of the ninth except that the play was slower, as the mounts were all but ridden out. A council of both teams and the referee was held after the whistle blew, and it was agreed that the match should go but one period more. It was terminated, however, after four and a half minutes of play by Strawbridge's shot, which sped like a bullet past three of the defense for the game and the cups.

The first score of the game went to the credit of Elliot Bacon in the first chukker. Orange County could not add to this in the second frame, whereas a goal by Strawbridge was chalked up for the Ramblers. Belmont added to this in the third period, but Post offset the count by scoring in the frame preceding the intermission. In the fifth stanza the White four showed its power, registering three times and holding Orange County to a blank. Orange County forged ahead in the sixth, with the Ramblers failing to get into the credit column. What followed has been told.

GOODWOOD, England, July 25 (Associated Press).—Tetrameter, by The Tetrarch out of Mandola, won the Stewards' Cup, a handicap of 1,000 sovereigns, for three-year-olds and upward, six furlongs, run here today. Champion Three-Year-Old Trotting Gelding Wins First Race of Season at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 25 (Associated Press).—Czar Worthy, champion three-year-old trotting gelding, for which Thomas E. Murphy last Fall received $25,000 from Henry Bowles of Springfield, Mass., today won his first race of the season when he defeated a big field of 2:11 trotters in the Shepard and Swisher Stakes, the feature event of today's Grand Circuit program at the Columbus Driving Park.

The Laurel Hall was a contender in the first two heats, finishing second, and then was drawn for the third mile on account of lameness. Peter the Brewer, by virtue of his taking second place in the last heat, was accorded second place in the race. Czar Worthy trotted the second heat in 2:04¼.

The 2:12 class pace saw Abbacy, the favorite, distanced in the first heat. Lulu Brooke won the race in straight heats. Colonel Sparks was second.

Fagan won the 2:14 class pace after dropping the first heat to Lady Todd, which finished second.

NORTHCLIFFE WINS THE SWIFT PURSE

Although the fields of thoroughbreds sent to the post in yesterday's racing at the Empire City track were of mediocre quality and there was no event worthy of any prestige on the program, still the goodly throng that gathered had a good time. Four favorites and two heavily played second choices wandered home in front of their fields, and this adherence to form on the part of the racers was sufficient to make the occasion enjoyable to those who like to back their opinions with their coin.

Johnny Loftus, the one-time crack jockey, who looks after the destines of the Oak Ridge Stable's string, sent Northcliffe, the three-year-old son of Sea King and Doria to the post for his season's debut in the Swift Purse in great form. The well built chestnut youngster disposed of eleven others, all of his own age, although older horses were eligible, with extreme ease over the course of about six furlongs. At the finish line A. J. Bedell's Jaunebar, an outsider in the betting, was nearest to the victor, while J. J. O'Toole's Dan Bolling dropped into the show position. The Greentree Stable's pair, Pirate Gold and Sedge, favorites in the betting, failed to flatter their supporters much at any stage of the contest.

The Dictator and Jaunebar were out in front with Northcliffe in the first three furlongs of the sprint, but the latter raced them down going to the half mark, and The Dictator, a fine looking animal, stopped badly. Jaunebar, liking the soft going, clung to his task behind the flying Northcliffe, but could never thereafter get near enough to bother him. At the line Northcliffe was eased up to beat Jaunebar by nearly three lengths, while the latter was several lengths ahead of Dan Bolling, which finished strongly from a bad beginning.

Edict Best of Fillies.

Sam Hildreth saddled the winner of the Fairfield Purse, a five-furlong dash for two-year-old fillies which had not won as much as $3,000. This was Edict, the Rancocas Stable's daughter of Jim Gaffney, which showed the way home to the Greentree Stable's Sunday Best and the Allies Stable's Paula Shay, her foremost competitors at the close.

Edict was rated off the pace by Laverne Fator for two furlongs and then came along to mow down James Butler's Driftwood, the leader, with consummate ease and win as the jockey pleased. Sunday Best was much better than any of the others and took the place from Paula Shay by an ample margin. The latter lacked early speed, but closed steadily in the last quarter. Edict was a heavily played favorite, losing backed from 8 to 5 to close at 11 to 10.

Scratches reduced the field in the second race, a test at a mile and seventy yards, to a trio of starters, of which Bridesman was so much the best that he won in about the way Grey Lag would beat Lord Herbert. After indulging Normal with the lead for half a mile, Callahan took the brown veteran to the front, and he merely galloped in that position the rest of the way. Normal hung on pretty well, and was less than two lengths to the rear of the winner at the close.

Bridesman was considered so far to outclass the other two that the layers held the son of Lonsdale at 1 to 5 at post time. Liberal odds were offered against the chances of Normal and Episode.

Teddy R. Spreadeagles Field.

The fourth number on the card engaged the services of five fair racers, of which J. B. McKee's Wrack colt Teddy R., was so much the best that he simply spreadeagled the others at the close. Merimee rode the horse with fine judgment, keeping him under restraint until five furlongs of the journey of a mile and seventy yards had been completed, and then letting him down, whereupon he picked up the leaders without ado and came on to win breezing, five lengths ahead of W. V. Casey's Knight of the Heather. The latter outgamed Sea Mint, the early pacemaker, and took the place by a nose. The winner was the public choice, and was backed down from even money to 3 to 5. After the race the stewards set down Jockey Carroll for three days for rough riding on Knight of the Heather.

Black Won't Compete in Detroit.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 25.—Golfers from various sections of the country have gathered here for the annual Shawnee open championship which opens tomorrow. Play will be at seventy-two holes, thirty-six to be played on the opening day and the final rounds on Thursday.

Just as was the case last year, although the situation was then a trifle different with the tournament staged in advance of the open instead of after it, interest centres in the showing of a pair of British stars. Last year it was Duncan and Mitchell, this year it is Taylor and Herd. Among others who are expected to contest with the invaders for the title are Jim Barnes, Pelham pro, who won the Shawnee title two years ago with what was then the lowest aggregate score known in tournament golf, 288; Willie Ogg of Worcester, Mass., winner of the honors last year; Gene Sarazen, the national open champion, who will try to repeat his Skokie conquest; Charles Hoffner, the Philadelphia open title-holder; Johnny Farrell, young Quaker Ridge home-bred, who finished in the money in the recent Chicago classic, and a score of other notables in the professional golf world.

Hopes were for a time entertained that Walter Hagen, the British open champion, and his traveling partner, J. H. Kirkwood, would be on hand for the event, but their exhibition tour will prevent their appearance. Duncan and Mitchell, the first of whom ran into double figures for the first time in his career at the fourth hole here a year ago, will not be among the starters, being engaged with matches in the Middle West at the present time.

Taylor and Herd arrived here today and had their first look at the course, which is in excellent condition for tomorrow's play. Many of the metropolitan pros also arrived today, and several low scores were turned in during the practice round.

PITTSBURGH HONORS NEW GOLF CHAMPION

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 25.—Nearly a thousand golf players and enthusiasts assembled at the William Penn Hotel tonight to do honor to Gene Sarazen, the new open golf champion of the United States and professional at the Highland Country Club. Every professional connected with the clubs in the Pittsburgh district was present, as well as the foremost amateur players of the Oakmont, Highland, Allegheny, Pittsburgh Field, West Moreland and other clubs in Western Pennsylvania.

The champion arrived from the East this morning especially for the dinner and left again this evening for Shawnee-on-Delaware, where he will play in the open tournament beginning tomorrow. The cup won by Sarazen was presented to the Highland Country Club by James Francis Burke, ex-Congressman and a prominent member of the Oakmont Country Club. W. E. Wells of East Liverpool, Ohio, a member of the Oakmont Club, was the toastmaster.

Among the speakers were W. C. Fownes, former amateur champion and captain of the international golf team; H. F. Hetzel, President of the Highland Country Club, and E. Ellsworth Giles, a prominent player and writer, who told of the last few moments of the new champion's play at Skokie. President Hetzel, on behalf of the Highland Country Club, presented Sarazen with a gold watch, suitably inscribed, and a purse of gold subscribed by the members of the club that employs the popular professional.

Sarazen is expected home next week to take part in the elimination tournament to decide on the five entries in the national professional championship tournament at the Oakmont Country Club in August.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, JULY 26, 1922.

THE RAILWAY STRIKE.

Ill advised and wanton from the first, the strike of the railway shopmen now shows signs of waning strength. Its original plan and strategy included strikes by other railway workers. But the maintenance men and the signalmen and the telegraphers failed to come to the aid of the shopmen, evidently seeing defeat written upon the strike of the latter. And as soon as the first claims of the strikers were given up, and it became a question merely of seniority rights—that is, on what terms the men could get their jobs back—it was certain that many of the old employés would presently be applying for their former positions, as some are now doing. The strike leaders see the ground slipping from under their feet.

One of their gross miscalculations has just fallen to the earth. The President has refused to intervene in their behalf. They sought Government help, but he sides points them to the Railroad Labor Board as the sole Government agency established by law to deal with precisely such cases as theirs. The strikers had defied and flouted the Labor Board; now they must go back to it if they are to make any further argument at all. In deciding to keep his hands off, Mr. HARDING must have come to believe that the railway managers knew what they were talking about when they said that they would soon win the strike if let alone.

MAKING WALL STREET SAFE.

The Better Business Bureau is a corporation of which the aim is to prevent foolish ventures in Wall Street. It is to co-operate with "existing legal agencies." With the aid of the District Attorney, there will be a better prospect of controlling the activities of the bad as well as of the foolish. "Wall Street" is really a state of mind, rather than a place. Broadly defined, it is any meeting place of those who have money to spare and want something else. There are many streets full of people ready to separate the foolish from their cash. The foolish need education and the bad need control.

One particular proposal of the Better Business Bureau shows its perception of what the case calls for. If all the rascals who infest the highways and byways of investment had been punished by existing legal agencies, there would be less need for the Better Business Bureau. But prosecutors are only intermittently active; they must await wrongdoing before they can punish it. At present the District Attorney is calling for added laws, although there is good ground for believing that those existing are adequate both for the education of the foolish and the punishment of the wicked.

It is easier to administer law than to make wisdom acceptable to those joined to their idols. Who would have thought that the son of his father would have made such investments as those just published? Yet but a short time ago that same list of investments would have passed the censorship of the sophisticated. Where even the Stock Exchange is sometimes misled, it would be a marvel if the Better Business Bureau did not itself sometimes err in judgment. There is always an experimental stage in enterprise, within which success is divided from failure by a narrow margin. Edison's quadruplex has now been far outdone, but when it was announced that several messages could be carried at the same time in opposite directions on the same wire, many doubted, and few appreciated the investment significance. The wireless, radio, trolley transportation, flying, the telephone and many other mechanical marvels are instances where the event is wiser than the wisest prophet. The Better Business Bureau should not counsel its clients against miracles. It will find enough to do in protecting them against frauds. Many of the latter will be obvious to such men as are lending their names and services to the new departure. But they would be the last to proclaim their ability to make Wall Street safe for the overcredulous.

OFFICE BY DIVINE RIGHT.

According to the custom of the country, Mr. SAMUEL S. KONIG, Chairman of the County Republican Committee, and certain other eminent sages of the Republican Party of these parts are perfectly right. A certain State Commissioner's job has been voided of its illustrious occupant. Great excitement, terrible loss of life. The most sacred interest of the people; the one thing that gives them prosperity or disaster, is involved. Tax appraiserships are at stake; and if they don't go to the right "party" the wide arch of our ranged Union must fall.

Let Mr. KONIG and his associates in the art of expert politics enjoy themselves as they can. So far they have never collided with Governor MILLER except to their own abrasion. The faithful, unloved by anybody but themselves, impotent except in their own belief in their power, have been rather badly treated at Washington. What the best of them can expect to get out of "this man MILLER" is evident only to the eye of political faith.

PROLONGING THE IRISH AGONY.

From the strictly military point of view, the civil war in Ireland is over. The rebels, or irregulars, or whatever they choose to call themselves, have lost stronghold after stronghold and are no longer able to meet the Free State forces in the field. Yet there seems to be an intention on the part of DE VALERA's followers to take to the hills and to keep up a guerrilla warfare as long as possible. But if the Republican Army is reduced to the tactics of ambuscade and sniping, mining roads and bombing and burning houses, it cannot long maintain its prestige or its hold upon the affection of the Irish men and women who have been, mistakenly as we think, loyal to it. The question, therefore, is whether the champions of an independent Irish Republic will not now manfully accept their defeat and put an end to the long-drawn-out misery of the internecine strife.

If they are looking for a precedent, they could find a good one in the Civil War of the United States. One of the titles to greatness which General LEE won lay in his frank acceptance of the loss of the cause for which he had been fighting four years. There were not wanting military men and other advisers of his in the Confederacy to urge him to permit his beaten army to disperse and maintain irregular warfare to the last hour possible. But General LEE did not so see his duty. In the remarkable tribute paid to him years afterward by CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, great stress was properly laid upon the high-minded and patriotic decision which he made to surrender and make a clean end of the war. Further shedding of blood would have been a crime, in General LEE's judgment, because it would have been perfectly useless. Moreover, it would have tended to embitter and perpetuate the animosity between North and South, which it became from that day General LEE's desire to see extinguished.

It may be too much to hope that Mr. DE VALERA will be able to display magnanimity, like that of the Southern leader, but his lieutenants and supporters may prove less narrow and obstinate than he today seems to be. It is plain that there should speedily be a truce in Ireland. Outvoted in the election and defeated in the appeal to arms, the Irish Republicans ought now to join in summoning the new Dail Eireann, passing upon the proposed Irish Constitution, and setting the feet of Ireland upon the path of self-government and progress which she is at last free to tread.

WHAT CENSORSHIP CAN DO.

Mr. WILL HAYS optimistically tells Los Angeles that "censorship will fail in everything it undertakes. We are going to obviate the necessity of censorship." The logic of this is not altogether clear, but one gets the general meaning. Mr. HAYS was made dictator, or co-ordinator, or whatever it is, of the movie business in order to head off censorship. Champions of censorship have made that a ground of complaint. Anything that interferes with censorship is wrong, even if it removes the need of censorship. A censorship is a thing good in itself, and woe to that man who makes it unnecessary.

More interesting, however, is Mr. HAYS's statement that censorship fails in everything it undertakes. What does it undertake? Obviously, to censor; and it succeeds in that. It undertakes also, presumably, to safeguard the public morals. It has succeeded in keeping the inhabitants of Pennsylvania from learning that children are born, unless they obtain that information outside the moving-picture theatres. It has prevented citizens of Ohio from finding out that women smoke, unless they see it off the screen. It has succeeded in suppressing the fact that the Founder of Christianity was more tolerant than some of its modern exponents, unless that fact be learned from the printed page. It has succeeded admirably in taking out some of the little intelligence at present put into the making of moving pictures; but until it is extended to all other fields of human knowledge the public morals are still in peril. Of what use to keep the words of a great religious teacher off the screen if they can be found in the Bible?

If the protection of public morals is thus but imperfectly accomplished, censorship has succeeded brilliantly in some other respects. It has made jobs. It has restricted the field of possible motion-picture production, already narrowed by limitations of the producers—and of the public. It has enabled reformers to enjoy the sensation of aggrandisement of the ego and to gratify the instinct for persecution. Finally, the published decisions give us all a heightened self-esteem by enabling us to think how much more intelligent we are than the censors.

RUM ON THE WATER.

Between Great Britain and the American prohibitionists nothing lies except the waste of "territorial waters." Once the sacred limit was three marine miles. Senator STERLING of South Dakota had nobler and humaner instincts. He introduced a bill extending the Volstead act to six marine miles from the American coast. Naturally, certain questions have arisen, not merely between the severest, the moderate and the ordinary intelligent observers of the Volstead act, but between the British Government and our own. In the old days "territorial waters" had a certain meaning. The definition depended on the range of a certain canon, then the standard.

It isn't merely that that limit has long been exceeded by the technical devices of the sons of Belial. The real question is: "Shouldn't the liquor "traffic on the high seas be suppressed by international co-operation, as the slave trade was suppressed?" In this latter suppression, Great Britain had the principal hand. But all this talk about territorial waters, about the co-operation or want of co-operation of foreign ships, outside the three-mile limit, of "conspiracies" and smugglings and so on, is really beside the mark. If the United States wants to end liquor smuggling it can do it. It can make arrangements, not absurd and impossible, but permissible by international law. These violent and emotional laws proposed in Congress, this alteration of the intercourse between nations, not heretofore dependent on the theories of the Middle West, will interest not so much the Pollocks and the Stephensons as our own ROSCOE POUND and Attorney General DAUGHERTY.

LITTER IN STREETS AND PARKS.

In its campaign against rubbish in streets and parks, the Merchants' Association is attacking one of the great weaknesses of American character and manners. A correspondent cited yesterday the case of a woman in Central Park, faultlessly gowned and wearing pearls and white gloves, who bought peanuts for her children to feed to the squirrels and permitted them to throw the shells on lawn and pavement. Between her personal neatness and her public slovenliness there was, in all probability, no real contrast. Both sprang from a mind self-centred. New York will not be permanently tidy and clean until people learn to think of what they do in the terms of the comfort and enjoyment of others.

The Anti-Litter Bureau of the Merchants' Association has enlisted 8,000 juvenile inspectors and block captains to make reports which it forwards to the city authorities, and is now asking similar aid from employers in business districts. If ever telling tales is justified, it is in causes such as this, in which the rights of the community are daily infringed by people who know better. But the sounder method is that suggested by our correspondent, who saw Boston cleaned up summarily by the imposition of fines of five dollars. There was "a great outcry," but "five dollars shouts very loud in any language," and within three months both the objections and the nuisance ceased. Presumably, the enforcement of law was more intelligent than it has sometimes been in these parts. In Brooklyn, during a spasm of tidiness, a citizen who spread a newspaper beneath him on the damp grass was arrested and fined. The New York police lately attacked the subway smoker by arresting men who lighted cigarettes on the stairs coming out and fining them three dollars. For the enforcement of public neatness a true sense of decorum is as needful in the officers of the law as in the general run of citizens.

A Federation of Engineers. The problem is one of intelligent official control. On the city land that surrounds the reservoirs in North Westchester, motor picnickers have of late received a visit and a courteous word from the local Warden, with the result that paper bags, plates and cups are returned to the car. There has even been a sensible abatement of the nuisance on adjoining land not owned by the city. In the narrow area of our parks a similar method, reinforced at need by fines, should not be impossible. To strew litter about is to deprive the Park of precisely the value for which the offender himself resorts to it. If he is not restrained by home breeding and a kindly regard for others, the officer of the law should interpose.

An Administration that professes to cherish the good name of New York as an art centre cannot consistently permit its chief adornment to be daily rendered ugly and offensive.

The Minister to the United States for Czechoslovakia, Dr. STEFANEK, proposes another international conference, this time a "federation of engineers" to deal constructively with the problems of civilization. Just what specific projects are to be undertaken is not stated. The Chairman of the Engineering Division of the National Research Council endorses the suggestion and urges that the federation consist of "constructively minded men" able to take fresh views of the world's condition and suggest impartial, far-sighted plans for progress. The Presidents of the Societies of Civil Engineers and Electrical Engineers and Metallurgical Engineers and the Federated American Engineers all are actively backing the scheme.

MARCONI's expressed hope of promoting peace through science instead of wrecking the world by it accords with the conceptions of these modern scientific gentlemen, who have put a girdle around the earth, and made the seas grow civil, and the continents, that once were isolate, contiguous. This State registers and licenses its engineers. But there must be internationally minded as well as constructively minded engineers, to whom this proposed body will grant licenses to practice in the service of the nations as a whole—the world workers of the air, earth and water, who make the paths for statesmen.

A Phrase of Great Use. Sometimes a mere newspaper man invents, or blunders into, an expression worthy of a statesman. Lord BALFOUR himself might have devised the phrase used by the correspondent of The Associated Press who was reporting the attitude of the British Government toward the American proposal to prevent liquor-running from the Bahamas into the United States. He said that this attitude was "sympathetically noncommittal."

That is a very triumph of linguistic realism. "My dear Uncle Sam," says John Bull, "you know what a deep interest I take in all your affairs, and how delighted I should be to please you in any way open to me, and I assure you that just as soon as my Crown lawyers tell me how to do the impossible I shall be only too happy to do what now I do not see my way to undertake."

Sympathetically noncommittal is just what thousands of us have wanted to be in our dealings with pushing agents of various kinds, with peddlers of financial nostrums and often with politicians. The desirable thing is to be able to say: "On me they smiled, but unbeguiled I saw the snare." We should so love to close with their offer, but unfortunately we cannot at the moment commit ourselves to anything new.

Detroit Is Mightier Than the Sword. Nothing could be more logical than HENRY FORD's plan for intervention in Mexico. He is to invade it with factories. Keep the hands and minds of the people occupied and, obviously, "they will have no time for fighting." But they will have time for education. Having worked all day in the factory, the happy peon will attend night school. Operatives in automobile factories will learn industrial technique and those in tractor factories scientific agriculture. Thus will the whole land register progress "the most notable in history." For pens the happy-thoughtster of Detroit has small regard. The Ford is mightier than the sword.

The conception is not precisely original. Time was when it formed the whole basis of our Mexican policy. Commerce is the great educator. A busy and prosperous land must needs become happy. So we recognized CARRANZA and instructed our diplomatic and consular agents to give all possible aid to his Government. But the First Chief, thus propped up in a self-esteem already sufficiently erect, thumbed his nose at Washington, made himself the spokesman of Latin-American hatred of the Colossus of the North and continued to "expropriate" Americans in Mexico.

Why is Mexico so exceedingly unlike Detroit? Mr. FORD will not find that out by reading history, nor will the people by studying it at night school. Meantime, however, this little discussion provides excellent propaganda for car and tractor.

Objects but Obeys. The editor of The Emporia Gazette has taken down the placard of sympathy with the strikers which caused his friend, the Governor, to threaten to send the editor to jail. Meanwhile he boldly renews his defense of freedom of speech, and counsels his friends, the striking shopmen, to follow his example and bow to the law. They have done so, at least to the extent of taking down their placards, too.

In his letter to the strikers Mr. WHITE says that he has often criticised corporations which violate the law while a case challenging the law is litigated, and that he will not conduct himself in a manner which he condemns in them as a "crime against society." It would be hard to find a phrase more descriptive of the shopmen's strike. The strikers ought to obey the law, even though they challenge it, even as their friend the editor obeys the law which he challenges. The railways obeyed the Transportation act when they were ordered to raise wages, and obeyed the Interstate Commerce Commission when it ordered the railways to reduce rates. The strikers accepted the law when decisions were in their favor and struck at the first decision against them.

That "is not cricket." Nobody has objected to taking the law into the courts for construction. The railways have done so, and so have some unions. All unions and all railways should bow to the law as interpreted by the courts. But the railways should not be stopped while the courts are discovering where justice lies.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a little park just above that part of the speedway which runs between High Bridge and Washington Bridge stands a building that belongs to the City of New York. In former days it was a country residence; now it is used for offices by the Department of Parks.

It is the one outstanding building rising above the banks of the Harlem River. If any of the millions of travelers via the railway observe this building at all it is only to pay momentary attention to the dinginess of its appearance. But a few coats of white or buff paint with, say, the window sills treated with some attractive bluish green color would transform this old wooden residence into a charming spot on the landscape.

There are various places in New York where a little taste and a little attention could readily achieve grateful results of this nature, but none more effectively and inexpensively than the case of this old frame residence now under control of the city authorities.

GEORGE S. HELLMAN.

Truckman, Spare Those Trees.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Before it is too late please publish my plea for the preservation of the beautiful trees on upper Fort Washington Avenue.

Building operations are in full swing in this district, and this gloriously befoliaged Avenue echoes to the rumble of heavy trucks and blasts of dynamite, which is in order with desirable progress, but the toll taken of the trees, about one and a half to every building, is deplorable. Cruelty barked by the careless handling of aforesaid trucks, "shattered and sundered" by explosions—surely "some one has blundered."

These are the finest trees in New York City, and, prompted by the agitation concerning the trees in Central Park, I write in the earnest hope that steps will be taken to enforce the law which I am sure exists for the protection of city property.

MIDSUMMER.

Fragrance, the poetry of lovely flowers,
Is in the singing breeze as in the rose;
Aristocrat of beauty, and in those
Unpampered children of the wilding showers.
Grows
Fresh leaves for me, and at my morning's close
The red-winged blackbird gladdens blue-flag bowers.
Who so loves nature let him straightway fare
To wood and field when the midsummer bee
Pilfers a thousand sweets, and when the air,
Sun-scented, dreams of Autumn; there shall he Indulge his spirit, sensing everywhere

TYPHOID FEVER PREVENTION

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The fact that it is becoming more and more prominently the office of the physician, and of all guardians of health, to prevent diseases as well as to cure them prompts the writer to add a few words of warning to the seasonable suggestions of Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, State Health Commissioner of New York, as published in THE NEW YORK TIMES for Monday, July 24.

Approving all the precautionary measures mentioned by Dr. Biggs, it occurs to us to suggest that in the case of the milk it is just as efficient and far less trouble (in order to kill any suspected germs that it may contain) to bring the milk to the boiling point as it is to pasteurize the milk; especially where the implements are not at hand and the caretaker may not be familiar with the process of pasteurization.

Respecting the question of diet, we wish at this time to confine our attention to the danger that arises from eating raw celery, for we firmly believe that celery eaten raw is one of the prolific causes of typhoid fever. Certainly the medical profession has not forgotten the epidemic of typhoid fever that occurred a number of years ago simultaneously in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Harrisburg. It was noticed that the epidemic started, in each city, among the wealthy families, and upon investigation it was found that in every instance the disease first attacked a member of a family who was accustomed to procure celery that was grown upon a farm near Harrisburg; for it was the pride of the owner of that farm to produce the highest type of celery, and thus to obtain the patronage of the richest people in these cities.

And it is not a difficult question to answer why celery should thus be the carrier of the typhoid germ when we remember the process of growing and bleaching the plants. The celery is first planted in long, deep trenches in order that the rich dirt may be heaped up around the plant during the process of growth, and the higher the ground is heaped up around the plant the greater portion of the plant is rendered white and tender and delicious to the taste. The trouble is that it is the bleached stem that is used as a salad, and the most delicious part is the heart, and it is in the interstices between the tightly folded tender leaves of the heart of the celery that the germs of typhoid fever are hidden and cannot be removed by any manner of cleansing.

Another cause of the danger is the fact that in order to raise the richest forms of celery the ground must be fertilized to the highest degree. In the case of the Harrisburg farm, mentioned above, night soil was found to have been used. Of course, this form of fertilizer is the one most likely to be infected with the typhoid germs. * * *

Of course, if the separated leaves are thoroughly cleansed, or the celery is boiled and used in soups, there is no danger, but that is not the way we like it, and while the risk may be small and we are willing to run that risk, yet there is no doubt that there lingers danger when we eat the raw hearts of celery, and that many cases of typhoid fever could be traced to the eating of raw celery hearts.

Sir Charles Higham Misquoted.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There has been widely published an interview from The Pall Mall Gazette, London, quoting Sir Charles Higham, who has recently returned to London from a memorable visit to the United States, to the effect that he found Americans still dazzled by titles and that they are "delighted to greet a Lord and enraptured to meet a Duke."

Representing Sir Charles Higham in this country, I am able to say authoritatively that Sir Charles has been misquoted. A cable received from him this morning, and which may be seen at my office, says: "Entirely misquoted by Pall Mall Gazette. Did not mention titles in interview here. Never said anywhere Americans provincial. Cannot understand. Signed, Higham."

A grave injustice has been done Sir Charles Higham, unwittingly, I am sure. Received during his recent visit here with the greatest kindness and hospitality in New York, Washington, Chicago and Milwaukee, he left our shores expressing the deepest gratitude for and his amazement at the fine and generous quality of American hospitality. So far from dwelling in any way on the title conferred upon him by King George for his services as an advertising man to the British Government, he took constant pains to remind his hosts that all he knew about advertising had been learned on American soil and that he was always proud of the fact that his mother, who lives in Brooklyn, N. Y., was an American citizen.

It did not need, I am sure, Sir Charles Higham's categorical denial for those who knew him to be quite certain that he could not have been guilty of such bad taste evinced in The Pall Mall Gazette interview, where he was misquoted.

Poison Ivy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Reading what Dr. Biggs said in his radio health talk about poison ivy and poison sumac and which was published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of July 24, prompts me to offer a perfectly safe mental talisman against danger in the following simple six-line jingle, which may easily be committed to memory and will prove an ever-ready guide in one's walks:

Berries red,
Have no dread!
Berries white,
Poisonous sight!
Leaves three,
Quickly flee!

The five-leaded ivy (Ampelopsis quinquefolia) also called Virginia creeper and woodbine, need not trouble one because it is not a sumac but is allied to the grapevine, is perfectly harmless and is the one innocent victim that has to suffer from suspicion, being often destroyed under the impression that it is the "poison ivy."

A Charitable Judge.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an American mother and as the daughter of a Massachusetts lawyer who won honorable distinction in the capital city of the Puritan fathers I wish to call emphatic attention to the spiritualized and beautifully worded decision of Justice Finch in the case of the 15-year-old girl upon whom, through some irresponsible act, the burden of motherhood had been placed. This excellent Judge, following a greater example, found nothing to condemn. "This little girl has done no wrong" were chivalrous words to the youthful mother and humane father.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You receive no doubt letters of appreciation by the hundred, but I should like to add one more. In my opinion THE NEW YORK TIMES is the best newspaper in the United States. I especially approve of its editorial page; the articles are always good and always truly American.

As one soldier of our army, I wish to thank you for your fair-minded editorials on subjects relating to national defense and preparedness.

Mission Starts and Pope Promises $,500,000 Lire More for Relief.

ROME, July 25.—The members of the Papal Relief Mission to Russia were received this morning in the throne room by Pope Pius XI. before their departure for the stricken regions. The Pope addressed the mission, which is headed by Mgr. Joseph Kessler, Bishop of Tiraspol, who has worked almost his entire lifetime in Russia.

The members of the mission took only their personal belongings and a few medicines when they departed from Rome today.

The merchandise to be used for relief has already been concentrated in Constantinople and Moscow. In Constantinople, it is in charge of the Apostolic Delegate. In Moscow it will be in charge of Professor Walsh of the American Relief Mission, who was in Rome two weeks ago to confer about its distribution.

Professor Walsh also has the task of assigning the members of the mission, of whom there are eleven, to the various centres, which will include Moscow, Ekaterinodar, Rostov, the Saratov mission lands and Novorossiysk.

The Pope has ordered a special section in the Papal Secretariat of State to be organized for dealing with the Russian relief activities of the Vatican.

Pope Pius has addressed an Apostolic letter to the Patriarchs, Archbishops and Bishops, urging renewed efforts to aid Russian famine sufferers. The letter says that the Holy See will make a further contribution of 2,500,000 lire for relief work in Russia.

MORGENTHAU SEES THE POPE

They Converse About Their Experiences on Missions to Poland.

ROME, July 25.—Pope Pius today received in private audience Henry Morgenthau, former American Ambassador to Turkey, and had a long conversation with him about his experiences in Constantinople during the early days of the war. There also conversed about Mr. Morgenthau's visit to Poland as a member of the Wilson mission of investigation. The Pope, who at that time was Cardinal Ratti, went to Poland as an Apostolic representative.

NEEDS SECOND LIEUTENANTS

Army Is Practically Without That Grade, Department Officials Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—When asked today why a large number of men were taking examination for appointments to be Second Lieutenants in the army, when it was planned to weed out 2,500 officers on the recommendation of the plucking board, which met today, officials of the War Department furnished a very prompt answer.

Examinations are being held for Second Lieutenant vacancies because the army is practically without officers of that rank, and there is authority of law for filling these vacancies. The 2,500 vacancies to be made in the army cover all grades, running from First Lieutenant to and including Colonels, but no general officers are being eliminated, and there is no authority of law for the elimination of First Lieutenants.

As a matter of fact, officers to be plucked will be eliminated only under express direction from Congress contained in recent legislation, which calls for a reduction of the number of officers in particular grades. If the War Department had its own way in the matter these officers would not be eliminated; but Congress has directed that the elimination be made, and the War Department has no other recourse.

PICKS BRAZIL COMMISSION.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—President Harding today announced the selection of Admiral Jones, commanding the Atlantic fleet; Maj. Gen. Bullard and Chairman Porter, of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, as members of the American Commission to attend the opening of the Brazilian Centennial Exposition at Rio de Janeiro on Sept. 7. Secretary Hughes has previously been announced as Chairman of the Commission. One additional member of the commission is to be selected. While no intimation concerning the identity of this person was given at the White House, the choice will probably be a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The President desires to send a distinguished commission to Brazil in recognition of the fact that the late Emperor Dom Pedro II. of Brazil was the only foreign ruler who attended the opening of the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876.

Secretary Hughes plans to sail for South America about Aug. 25, or in time for him to arrive for the opening of the exposition on Sept. 7.

ELMER DOVER FINALLY OUT.

President Accepts His Resignation and Ends Controversy.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—President Harding has accepted the resignation of Elmer Dover of Tacoma, Wash., as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of internal revenue and customs, it was announced today at the White House.

The announcement puts an end to a long-drawn-out controversy between the former Assistant Secretary and Secretary Mellon and Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau over the control of the administrative policies of the bureau. Since his appointment last December Mr. Dover has been at work on a program for the reorganization of the personnel of the bureau, but successive stages of its intended operation have met with strong opposition from Mr. Blair, backed by Mr. Mellon. This brought about a situation wherein Mr. Dover was practically not considered by the Treasury in the administration of revenue affairs.

MISSIONARIES BLAME FILMS.

PASADENA, Cal., July 25.—The American motion picture was blamed for the troubles of American missionaries in the Orient in a report from the Women's Board for Foreign Missions, presented here to the annual sessions of the Presbyterian Synods of Arizona and California.

The report declared the natives of Canton, Shanghai, Tokio, Calcutta, Bombay and Jerusalem, viewing "Western" pictures, concluded that all American men are "barbaric savages," who gamble for a living, drink whisky like water, carry two guns and a bowie knife, and kill their fellow men as a pastime; that American women are dance hall girls who smoke cigars, drink heavily, and "sell themselves for a coin or a smile."

The other pictures shown in the Orient are of the eternal triangle variety, the report continued, and the missionaries have a difficult time explaining that all American men and women are not like the characters in the pictures.

"In Jerusalem, within 100 yards from the grave in the garden where the Saviour of the World lay after His crucifixion," the report declared, "there is a movie run by an enemy of all righteousness, showing revolting and sensual pictures of American life. These people in foreign lands have no means of knowing that such presentations are a gross libel on the majority of our population."

DENY BIASED TESTS IN CIVIL SERVICE

Senators Assert That Political Influence Does Not Control Certifications.

CHARGES CALLED BASELESS

Committee Headed by Sterling Declares the Present Board is Able and Honest.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Charges made recently that the Federal Civil Service Commission had been biased by political influence in its examination and certification of applicants for postmasterships, were declared to be without foundation in a report submitted to the Senate today by a special committee which has spent nearly three months in an investigation of the subject.

The report filed by Chairman Sterling of the committee held that there appeared to be no reason for charges of unfairness or injustice in the commission's examination of applicants for other places in the Federal service, such as those of rural carriers and clerks in Federal offices. The commission, the report added, seemed to be unusually free from the influences which it has been charged in the Senate were operating within its personnel.

Senators Sterling of South Dakota, Colt, Rhode Island, and Cummins, Iowa, all Republicans, signed the report. Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, one of the Democratic members, had informed the committee, it was said, that he would sign the document. The other Democratic member, Senator McKellar of Tennessee, is in his home State, and was unable to indicate his views.

It was said in the report that while there had been some delay in the certification of names for some places the investigation would indicate that the mistakes were surprisingly few and that such as may have been are due to errors of judgment and not to any wrong intent."

Yielding to Politicians Denied.

"Judged alone by the cases presented," the report continued, "this committee believes that the work of the commission was ably and conscientiously performed and that political influence has not been used, or, if sought to be used, has had no effect in the examinations conducted under the supervision of the commission or in the making or altering of grades. It believes also, that the acts of Congress and executive orders giving preference to former service men in appointment to offices under civil service rules have been observed by the examiners."

In absolving the commission, the report said it was believed that many of the controversies as to appointments to postmasterships had arisen out of the rule requiring the names of the three highest eligibles for appointment be certified to the commission by the appointing power. There remained a grave question whether there would not have been less complaint had that rule been abrogated and the name of only the highest eligible submitted.

The committee members said they had not called on members of the commission or subordinates to appear for testimony, but that they had obtained from the commission a statement covering every case. The commission's readings, it further information caused the committee to take this course rather than go into verbal testimony.

Found Records Satisfactory.

"The committee was given to understand," the report proceeded, "that the commission's records were open to it and * * * in the cases where inspection was made of the records it was found that there was more to justify the commission in its decisions than had in fact been submitted to the committee in the memorandum of the commission on individual complaints."

As to the several hundred complaints laid before the committee, the report said there had been found no failure on the commission's part to observe the laws and rules under which it operates. It was stated that there may have been injustice done in some cases but that the fault did not lie with the commission.

"Candidates and the public as well," the report continued, "should appreciate the fact that, as to postmasters of the first, second and third classes, it is the President who appoints; that whatever the number of eligibles, only three can be certified, and of those three only one can be selected for appointment, and when the Civil Service Commission has made final examination and certification of the three highest eligibles, its work is done."

Dayton Eligible Defended.

Taking individual complaints, the committee dealt at some length with the action of the commission in designating Dr. L. C. Weimer as one of three eligibles for the postmastership at Dayton, Ohio, saying that the commission had gone into detail in this case because of the newspaper propaganda which had been carried on against Dr. Weimer and the commission for that rating." The committee went into all records on this case, the report set forth, and found that in the responses to confidential inquiries made by examiners, many business and professional men of Dayton accorded Dr. Weimer first place instead of third as rated by the commission.

As to Rochester, N. Y., where James V. Burke charged that the appointment of John C. Mullan was "the greatest farce known in regard to postmaster examinations," the report said that there was no foundation for the charge. Examination showed, the report stated, that Mr. Mullan was the choice of the business men and citizens who were "most concerned with efficient administration of the office."

Silk Men Organize to Aid Jewish Philanthropies.

Silk manufacturers and jobbers at a luncheon at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday organized themselves as a silk committee to assist the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies in its plan to raise $1,000,000 more for the support of the ninety-nine institutions for the remainder of the year.

Horace Saks, of Saks & Co., pointed out that a waiting list existed for every hospital and home of the federation. The money needed to maintain the efficiency of these institutions would have to be borrowed, he said, if it were not given by the trades.

"The Directors of the federation refuse to diminish the work which they are doing," Mr. Saks added. "If anything, the scope of our enterprises must be increased. The need is there and nothing shall stop us from meeting it. The obligation before us cannot be shirked."

SAYS BULGARIA CAN'T PAY.

SOFIA, July 25 (Associated Press).—The Allied Reparation Commission has ordered Bulgaria to pay immediately 4,000,000,000 levas (normally $7,720,000) due to the Allies under the terms of the peace treaty.

The demand has profoundly impressed the Bulgarian Government, which, through its Minister of Finance, M. Toulakoff, has asked the Opposition party to sustain the Government in rejecting what it terms the commission's exaggerated demand. The Government maintains that Bulgaria is unable to pay the sum and is unwilling to draw on her customs commission, although expressing a willingness to pay within her capacity.

TAKAMINE BURIED WITH CATHOLIC RITE

SERVICES IN ST. PATRICK'S

Many Prominent Men at Bier of Scientist, Who Had Also Delved Into Philosophies of Religions.

Diplomats as well as chemists, merchants, writers and friends, joined yesterday in paying the last tribute of respect to Dr. Jokichi Takamine, the noted chemist and binder of ties of friendship between Japan and America, whose funeral took place from St. Patrick's Cathedral in the morning.

While deep sorrow was visible upon the faces of those who knew him, there was a sense of gratification in the hearts of church dignitaries, because only six weeks ago Dr. Takamine, renounced Buddhism, the religion of his birth, and embraced Catholicism. And the priest who baptized him and gave him the other sacraments of the church after his conversion was the celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem which was sung yesterday.

The story of Dr. Takamine's conversion to the Catholic faith was related by the Rev. Father William B. Martin, acting rector of the Cathedral and Master of Ceremonies at the funeral.

"For many years," said Father Martin, "Dr. Takamine had been delving into the philosophies of different religions, finding time for this study despite his labors in the field of chemical research. He awoke one morning about six weeks ago and informed his wife that he needed spiritual support. He had wandered far into intellectual things and told her that the one thing missing in his life he felt could be supplied only in a belief in God.

"Of all the religions he studied, Dr. Takamine said Catholicism supplied this need the best, because it was a religion of authority and revelation. His wife had been converted several years ago and she was very much pleased with his decision. She immediately called for the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Kernan of the St. Nicholas' Church of Passaic, N. J. The priest was surprised at the knowledge Takamine possessed in the religion and he found it unnecessary to give him any further instruction before conversion, which is remarkable. The chemist soon received the sacraments of conversion."

Assisting Mgr. Kernan were the Rev. Patrick Daly, as deacon, and the Rev. Bernard McQuade, as sub-deacon. The Rev. Martin received the coffin into the cathedral.

The honorary pall-bearers were Judge Elbert H. Gary, O. W. Smith, Dr. M. T. Whitney, Y. Murat, S. Imamuri, J. J. C. Clarke, Captain S. E. Darby, M. W. Williamson, Dr. T. Takami, E. Jiyushi, Japanese Consul General K. Kumaski and S. Saburi, Japanese Charge d'Affaires at Washington.

Ever since his death at the Lenox Hills Hospital last Saturday floral tributes had been received in such large numbers that ten touring cars were required to carry them. There were upward of 300 floral pieces, many of them having sashes with Japanese inscriptions.

Besides his personal friends, there were at the services men and women who knew the scientist only through the association of his name with adrenalin. Several were heard to remark that their life wood, oozing out of a cut made by a surgeon's knife, would never have stopped were it not for Dr. Takamine's discovery twenty-two years ago. There were many butlers present, who took the morning off to attend their compatriot's funeral.

One of his closest friends at the service was Dr. Charles F. Chandler, who is 85 years old. Dr. Chandler was founder of Columbia's School of Mines and for many years head of the department of chemistry at the university. Others attending included Melville E. Stone of The Associated Press; Whidden Graham, writer; Dr. Louis Livingston Seaman, surgeon and writer; Dr. John H. Finley, first President of the Japan Society of New York and former State Commissioner of Education; Dr. Maxim Walter Toch, biochemist; J. B. Millet, writer; Herbert S. Houston, editor; Alexander Tison, Douglas Dunbar and Eugene S. Worden, representing the Japan Society. There were delegations present, also, from the many other clubs and societies with which he was affiliated.

DENIES SYRACUSE BRIDE IS EXPLORER'S CHILD

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent issue THE TIMES printed a dispatch from Syracuse announcing the wedding of "Miss Eleanor Jean Amundsen of New York, daughter of the famous explorer."

A note appended to the dispatch removes the possibility of a mistake in identity, as it states that "the latest news of the bride's father came in a dispatch from Seattle dated July 7."

As Captain Amundsen has not been married and has no daughters outside of the two little natives of North Siberia, Camilla and Cakonita, the above announcement is incorrect and at the special request of Captain Amundsen I am writing to ask you kindly to print the correction.

While Captain Amundsen was in Washington last Winter an announcement of Miss Amundsen's engagement was published and he received some letters about it which he turned over to me, asking what was best to do about the matter. I thought it unnecessary to attempt to correct the statement then but I promised I would correct any further statement of this nature. I pointed out to him that newspapers were unable to check facts of this nature in his case because his biography does not appear in "Who Is Who in America" and the encyclopedias deal mainly with his South Pole discovery and give little about Captain Amundsen's social status and about his career. Thereupon he decided to write his biography before leaving for this latest North Pole and Polar flight expedition and has done so.

HENRY WOODHOUSE,
President Aerial League of America.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 24.—When the engagement of John J. Cummins and Miss Eleanor Jean Amundsen was announced last January here it was stated that the young woman was the daughter of Captain Roald Amundsen, the explorer. This information came from Cummins's relatives in this city. The statement that Miss Amundsen was a daughter of the explorer was repeated at the time of the marriage, on July 8.

In obtaining the marriage license Miss Amundsen gave her father's name as Roald Amundsen. When first calling at the City Hall she said her home was in New York. The City Clerk advised her that the law required the license to be issued in the home city of the bride. Later the couple returned and claimed local residence at the home of Cummins's grandmother, Mrs. John Dunfee, here, and a license was accordingly issued.

The engagement of the couple was announced here on Jan. 13, Mr. Cummins himself vouching for the statement that his fiancée was the daughter of Captain Amundsen, the explorer. Miss Amundsen was then said to be studying the piano in New York City.

Mr. Cummins comes from a family socially, politically and industrially prominent here. His father was President of the Syracuse Lighting Company.

GEN. P. A. M. MAISTRE DIES AFTER OPERATION

PARIS, July 25 (Associated Press).—General P. A. M. Maistre, who at the close of the war commanded a group of French armies, died today after an operation for appendicitis.

General Maistre distinguished himself during the World War when he commanded the French Army which took the last remaining position along the Chemin-des-Dames in 1917. For the exploit, he was promoted to a Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor.

His initiation into the military career commenced at the age of 12, when he stole gunpowder from the Prussians who were quartered in his house during the War of 1870. He was later graduated from the Military Academy of St. Cyr at the head of his class. He was promoted Captain in 1887 and Major in 1898. He commanded the famous "Regiment of Steel," a part of the celebrated "Iron Division," which distinguished itself in the World War.

He was made a Brigadier-General in 1912 and was appointed a member of the Committee of the General Staff. At the commencement of the war he was Chief of Staff to General Langle de Cary, who commanded the Fifth French Army at the Battle at Frontiers, the Battle of the Marne and the beginning of the Battle of Verdun.

General Maistre received the grade of Major General just before the Battle of the Marne. At the reorganization following the partial defensive in the Chemin-des-Dames regions in 1917 he was made an army Commander and forced the Germans to yield formidable positions in the regions of the Aisne between Soissons and Craonne.

BRADY BRINGS PLAYS OF CENTRAL EUROPE

Producers There Are Showing Us the Best of Drama, Acting and Effects, He Says.

BACK WITH GRACE GEORGE

She Will Appear In "Aimer," by Paul Geraldy—Brings a Musical Play and Serious Works.

After spending three months abroad, principally in Central Europe, in search of new plays for production here next season, William A. Brady and his wife, Grace George, returned yesterday on the Majestic. They were met at the pier by Alice Brady and many well-known people in the theatrical world.

"During the new season here," Mr. Brady said, "Grace George will produce 'Aimer,' by Paul Geraldy, author of 'The Nest.' Mr. Norman Trevor and another prominent actor will be seen with Miss George in this production, rehearsals of which will begin early in September.

"'La Flamme,' by Charles Mere, may be done here this season by Miss George. I have persuaded M. Geraldy to come to New York to witness rehearsals of 'Aimer.' When he comes he is to bring the finished manuscript of his new play, 'The Big Boys,' of which I have secured the American rights. Miss George will make the translation of 'The Big Boys.'

"While in Prague I secured the American rights to 'The Life of An Insect,' by the Capek brothers. If they can possibly get away, they will come to New York with M. Hilar, director of the National Theatre in Prague, who will direct the production here. From Berlin I bring a musical play which I shall call 'Coming and Going,' adapted from 'Die Herren von und zu.' I have also bought two dramas by German authors, one of these being Bruno Frank's 'Das Weib auf Dem Tierre.'"

Will Produce Pinero Play.

In association with the Shuberts, Mr. Brady said he would produce Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's new play, "The Enchanted Cottage," and it is possible, he stated, that Sir Arthur would come to New York to witness rehearsals. The entire London production of "Decameron Nights" will be brought over at the end of its run. Mr. Brady also intends to bring over here Mlle. Raquel Meller, the "The Duse of Song" abroad, in association with William Elliott, who is assembling a group of artists to accompany her here. It is planned to present them in a revue.

Of the American plays, Mr. Brady expects to produce "The Lady Killer," by John Peter Toohey and Walter C. Percival, and a new drama by Owen Davis. Frank Craven's play, "Too Many Cooks," will be adapted into a musical comedy by Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy.

Beginning about the middle of October, Mr. Brady said he would inaugurate Sunday night performances at the Playhouse, where he plans to produce short plays which he thought would appeal, because of their literary value, but which would probably have no possibility of production in a commercial theatre. Each program will be given for three Sunday evenings in succession, and admission will be by subscription or invitation. The services of several artists playing in New York at the time would be utilized, he declared.

Miserable Season in London.

"London," said Mr. Brady, "has experienced a miserable theatrical season. They do not feel enthusiastic about the season ahead. The theatres there have passed out of control of the older generation of actor-managers and into the hands of real estate speculators. American dramatists and composers are now recognized as important providers of theatrical fare in that city. It looks as if English producers were 'scouting' in our theatres nowadays for successes, much as we used to do in London.

"Paris isn't as interesting from the standpoint of production as it might be, but it shows more signs of a hopeful future than London does. The sex triangle is no longer inevitable; neither is it necessary any longer to shock an audience in order to interest Paris. Plays of thought and purpose are gaining a foothold.

"But it is Central Europe that promises to supply the big plays of the immediate future. Both dramatists and public there take the theatre with utmost seriousness. Not only in substance of plays but in the manner of presentation are their men of the theatre showing us the way; in stage lighting and settings they lead the world. They excel in acting, also, though oftentimes their methods seem exaggerated.

"In Budapest I saw a young actress, Lily Darvoah, said to be only 21 years old, who has most remarkable ability. If she lives up to her promise, she will unquestionably be recognized as one of the great actresses of the world.

"The success of 'Liliom' has turned the attention of Central European writers to this country as an outlet, and they think more now about making their manuscripts suitable for American audiences. It is extraordinary how closely they are in touch with our theatre. American plays are being taken into those capitals, just as they have been of recent years into London and Paris.

Oliver Morosco's Productions.

Oliver Morosco's plans for the coming season were announced yesterday by George R. Bentel, general manager for the Morosco Holding Company. "Mike Angelo," a new play by Edward Locke, with Leo Carillo in the principal part, will open in Los Angeles on Aug. 7. After an engagement in Los Angeles and San Francisco, the play will be presented in New York late in the Fall. "The Sporting Thing To Do," a play by Thompson Buchanan, author of "Civilian Clothes," is now in rehearsal in Los Angeles and is scheduled to open at the Morosco Theatre in San Francisco Sept. 1.

At present Mr. Morosco has five productions in California. Three are in Los Angeles: Maude Fulton in a revival of "The Humming Bird," Charlotte Greenwood in "Letty Pepper" and "Abie's Irish Rose." In San Francisco: "Canary Cottage" opened Monday for two weeks which will be replaced by another musical comedy and another company of "Abie's Irish Rose."

Motion picture activities call for two new pictures before Jan. 1 next. Production will start Aug. 15 in Los Angeles for release on the Fall program of the Associated First National Pictures.

"Blossom Time" Resumes Aug. 7.

The Shuberts' musical play "Blossom Time," based on the life and music of Franz Schubert, will resume its engagement at the Ambassador Theatre on Monday night, August 7, after a hiatus of four weeks. In continuing its run, the various roles of "Blossom Time" will be interpreted by the same original players including Bertram Peacock, Olga Cook, William Danforth, Howard Marsh, Zoe Barnett and others.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Eddie Cantor, Gilda Gray, Frank Tinney, Georgie Price, Van and Schenck, Julius Tannen, Olga Stock, Alice Cavanaugh, Della Vanna, Paul Whiteman's Orchestra, Pearl Regay and Carlotta Ryan will appear, it is announced, at the Palais Royal tomorrow at midnight for the benefit of the Save-a-Home Fund.

Frank Davis and Adele Darnell have been engaged for "The Ginger Box Revue," which opens at the Greenwich Village Theatre on Aug. 5.

Marie Tempest is to appear under John Golden's management in "A Serpent's Tooth," opening at Asbury Park on July 31.

A new comedy scene by Flavia Arcaro and Sam Hearn has been added to "Spice of 1922" at the Winter Garden.

Lenore Ulric gave her 175th performance of the name role in "Kiki" before a large audience last evening at the Belasco Theatre.

Madge Saunders, who is to play one of the principal parts in "Love of Money," a farce by Will Evans and Valentine, which Charles Dillingham will produce early in the Autumn, arrived yesterday on the Majestic.

Edith Day returned from London yesterday and will begin rehearsals for the leading role in the musical version of "The Marriage of Kitty," which Edward Royce will present at the Fulton Theatre early in September. The operetta will have a score by Victor Herbert, lyrics by B. G. de Sylva and book by Fred de Gresac.

MOTHER, DYING, ENDS 2 BABIES' LIVES ALSO

Gas escaping through the cracks of her carefully stuffed bedroom door yesterday afternoon led neighbors to the discovery that Mrs. Mary Hummer, 32 years old, of 505 West 134th Street, had killed herself and one of her twin babies which lay in her arms. The second child, 2 months-old Doris, was still alive and was hurried to Harlem Hospital, but she died last night.

An accident and the quick work of neighbors saved the little girl from immediate death. When discovered she was lying partly under a piece of cloth which she is believed to have kicked over herself in her unconscious struggles. This had partly protected the child from the gas which filled the room. Doris's twin brother, Richard, who had not been similarly protected, was dead.

Tenants living directly under the Hummer apartment first detected gas and immediately notified the owner of the apartment house, Benjamin Blum, who traced it to the Hummer apartment.

Finding the door locked on the inside, he entered a rear window by the fire escape. Making his way through the gas-filled apartment to the bedroom, he pushed open the door. Mrs. Hummer and her two children lay on the bed, little Doris still struggling. Gas was pouring from a tube which extended to the bed.

Mr. Blum turned off the gas and ran to the door of the apartment with the child. Although sickened by the gas, he climbed with Doris to the roof, while women neighbors ran for physicians. Dr. Priest of Knickerbocker Hospital, found Mrs. Hummer's body still warm but he was unable to revive her. After first aid treatment little Doris was rushed to the hospital.

Charles Hummer, husband of the dead woman, a draftsman employed in Newark, did not know of his wife's death until he climbed the apartment house stairs on his way home from work and saw a patrolman standing in his doorway. He was overcome at the news.

Mr. Hummer refused to make any statement, but neighbors said that his wife often had been despondent since the birth of her twins. It was reported that she had attempted suicide by inhaling gas a month ago, but had been prevented by her six-year-old daughter Ruth, who was not at home yesterday.

"SENIORITY"

What is this question of "seniority" that is being discussed in connection with the railroad strike?

All employes on railroads are accorded seniority of service, if otherwise competent. This means that the senior employes are entitled to choice of work, and, when it becomes necessary temporarily to reduce forces, that the junior men are released and the senior employes retained.

A strike was ordered by union officers who have no connection with any railroad. Many employes in compliance with the order quit their jobs and left the railroad service, and many did not leave, but remained loyally at work, accepting the Government Labor Board's decision.

There are thousands of such men who must, under the rules of fair dealing, as well as the rules of seniority, be protected and supported. To desert these men would be ingratitude of the grossest sort.

In addition to these thousands who remained in service, other thousands who wanted to work have been employed in good faith. The new employes in a great many cases left other employment with the understanding that if competent they would be retained in their present positions.

These men—those who remained and those who enlisted—have kept the trains in operation, and the needs and comfort of the people supplied.

It is submitted that to now ask the railroads to set these loyal men aside and replace them with the men who left, is to ask the railroads as well as the Government, which is concerned through the action of the United States Labor Board, to be disloyal to these thousands of loyal men.

Your "Minute Men" for Concrete Work

You may be thinking of building a bird bath or an office building, a home or a silo, and you may be wondering whether Concrete is the material to use. No need to wonder long. By return mail from our nearest office, you can get the facts about that special use of Concrete in a free every-day-language booklet on the subject.

Booklets of this sort have been prepared by the Portland Cement Association on all the common uses of Concrete. They give not only counsel on the conditions under which each use is advisable, but specific instructions for carrying out the work.

And if any question is left unanswered in your mind after reading the booklet on the subject that interests you, one of our specialists in that particular class of Concrete work, will gladly answer it.

The information in the booklets is based partly on the findings of our research laboratory and partly on the field experiences and investigations of our engineers. It is accepted as a basis of practice by well-informed engineers, architects and builders throughout the world.

The publication of these booklets, and their circulation without charge, is one of the numerous activities carried on by the Portland Cement Association for the service of users of Concrete.

The Association is the joint research and educational foundation of 85 independent manufacturers of cement in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Suggestions as to how our work may be made more useful to you are invited.

BELKNAP SYSTEMS
ADDRESSING EVERYTHING

This is No. 4 Rotary Belknap Addressor, a hand machine for small businesses. Speed 1,500 to 1,800 per hour.

Start Your Addressing System This Way

FOR the business of modest size, or the one whose addressing requirements are limited a Belknap Hand Addressor and a single filing cabinet will provide the correct start for an efficient addressing system.

We are going out of our way to emphasize this point, because some business men still persist in considering the important subject of Addressing only in terms of large equipments and lists of a million names.

It is not necessary to be a Curtis Publishing Company, or a mail order house like the National Cloak & Suit Company to employ the Belknap System of Addressing profitably.

If the handling of lists and the writing of names on envelopes, wrappers, statements, order forms, shipping tags, tax notices, receipts, etc., is a part of the day's work in your business you need a Belknap System.

More than that you are paying for one, too—continually, unendingly and uselessly—in leaks and losses due to old-fashioned, time-and-money wasting methods that ought to be stopped.

Stop them! If you own a typewriter and employ a stenographer to operate it, you are half equipped for a Belknap System. If your business isn't too big, one Belknap Hand Addressor and one filing cabinet as pictured above will round out an efficient system of addressing for you.

And even if your business calls for a larger machine like the Belknap Indexograph, with an addressing speed of 2,000 to 4,000 an hour, you ought to know it and own it. You are paying for it anyhow, and will continue to do so until you install one and it begins to earn its cost times over—and save.

TEST VOTE ON WOOL BLOCKED BY SMOOT

WADSWORTH ATTACKS RATES

LODGE STANDS BY MEASURE

Lenroot Urges Senators to "Realize the Difficulties" They Will Meet if High Duties Are Imposed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—For seven hours the wool battle raged in the Senate today and the first test vote, which will indicate whether or not the high rates proposed by the Committee on Finance are to stand, may come tomorrow. For a few minutes late this afternoon it appeared that a vote on the Lenroot amendment fixing the maximum ad valorem duties at 60 per cent. was at hand. The clerk was ready to call the roll, but at the last minute Senator Smoot moved a recess. The talk about the Capitol was that there were too many absent "wool" Senators, while most of the "Wadsworth" were said to be within call.

Senator Wadsworth of New York opened the assault on the duties proposed for low grade or coarser wools, used to a large extent, he said, in the manufacture of the poor man's clothing, and on which duties as high as 137 per cent. ad valorem are imposed in the pending bill.

"The curious spectacle is presented," declared Senator Wadsworth, "by the rates as now proposed by the Finance Committee of the lightest duties being upon the rich man's clothing and the heaviest duties upon the clothing of the poor man. The equivalent ad valorem rates in the three finer grades of wool under the committee amendment run from 35 to 56 per cent., but on the lower coarser grades, the production of which in America is exceedingly small, the equivalent ad valorems run as high as 77, of 90, or even 137 per cent. I do not believe that such rates can be justified."

Senator Lodge, the majority leader, was the first Senator from New England to uphold the schedule. He defended the proposed rates as necessary not only for the protection of the woolen manufacturers and the sheep raisers, but for the preservation of American independence and the defense of the nation in the hour of an emergency. In time of war, he said, the people must have warm clothing.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts warned the Republican Senators who are standing for re-election—and one of them is Senator Lodge—that something would happen in November if they were not more careful.

"I warn you Republicans who are up for re-election," said Senator Walsh, "that in every one of your States there are more voters who wear clothes than there are voters who raise sheep."

Senator Walsh remarked that there were some Senators whose self interest in the wool industry, either as growers or as manufacturers, had caused them to set up their judgment against that of the Federal Tariff Commission.

Wadsworth Upholds 33-Cent Rate.

Senator Wadsworth said he would support the Lenroot amendment to reduce the maximum ad valorem duties to 60 per cent. He agreed that there should be a rate of 33 cents per clean pound on the finer grades of wool.

Senator Smoot interrupted to deny that cloth for the poor man's suit carried a higher duty than that for the rich man's clothing, and he added that if the Lenroot amendment was agreed to it would be "impossible to administer it justly."

"It is going to be almost impossible to defend the imposition of any such equivalent ad valorem duties," Senator Wadsworth replied. "No explanation can be given, and if you go back to the people and say 'Oh, well, we had to do it because there was no other way,' you will not get a very encouraging response from anybody.

"It is going to be very difficult—and I say it in all seriousness—how it is that the wool that is manufactured into a carpet pays no duty, and the same wool, when used in clothing, pays 100 per cent. Clothing is just as necessary as a carpet. A good many people get along without carpets, but I know of no person who can get along for any length of time without clothes. It is this inconsistency against which my remarks are directed.

Lodge Sees One Merit in the Rates.

Senator Lodge read a prepared speech without interjecting any extemporaneous remarks. He pointed out that whether the wool rates in the Fordney-McCumber bill were "too high, or too low, or simply just," they had the merit of being straightforward and "every one is able to know exactly what the rate is.

"It must be remembered," Senator Lodge said, "that if these rates are rejected, we are not thrown back upon the Underwood rates, but upon those of the Emergency Tariff act, which rates will continue in force until a new schedule is passed. The rate on scoured wool in the emergency law is 45 cents per pound and in this bill 33 cents, a difference of 12 cents."

Senator Willis of Ohio warned the Senate of an "intensive propaganda" against the wool schedule. The Lenroot amendment, he argued, would make a loophole in the Tariff bill under which the farmer would not get the protection he was "charged up with."

Cites Increases in Rates.

Senator Walsh, Mr. Lodge's colleague, submitted a table prepared by the Tariff Commission which, he asserted, supplied proof of how the cost of production will be increased if the Fordney-McCumber bill is enacted. The increase on wool cloth valued at not more than 60 cents per pound will be, he said, 230 per cent. Cloth valued at 60 to 80 cents per pound will be increased 207 per cent.; valued at from 81 cents to $1.50, the increase will be 126 per cent., and when valued at more than $1.50 the increase will be 136 per cent.

Senator Lenroot, who made the last speech of the day, recited one by one the high ad valorems provided for in the bill.

"I ask Senators," he said, "to realize the difficulties they will encounter between now and next November if these rates are approved as submitted by the committee."

Senator Lenroot then called for a record vote on the first of his amendments, but the test of strength was postponed when Senator Smoot moved that the Senate take a recess.

Exile for Life After 5-Year Terms for Two Pickpockets

John J. Williams, 34, of 96 Dean Street, Brooklyn, and Samuel Harris, 22, of 616 East 137th Street, Bronx, convicted in the Kings County Court of grand larceny in the first degree as second offenders, were sentenced yesterday by Judge Alonzo G. McLaughlin to banishment from New York State for life after they have served five years in Sing Sing Prison. If the men return to this State at any time after they leave it they may be taken into custody and compelled to serve five additional years in prison.

The men were captured by Detective William S. Drum, who saw them picking the pocket of a man sleeping on a bench in the Fouth Avenue subway station at Pacific Street.

AGED SLAYER TAKES BLAME TO SAVE SON

When Raffaele de Raffaele, 62 years old, and his son Dominick, 20, were called for trial yesterday in Judge Talley's part of General Sessions on a first degree murder indictment, the father pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree and declared that his son did not do the killing as the wife of his victim had sworn. With Spartan-like affection, the father declared through Alexander Kaminsky, counsel for both the accused men, that he did not want his son, the father of two children, to suffer for his deed and was willing to go to prison to save him.

The elder De Raffaele on the evening of June 9, last, shot and killed Salvatore Pirone, 37 years old, in front of the tenement at 137 Forsythe Street, in which the two families resided. It was an impulsive murder, and the wife of the slain man was the innocent cause of it. On the evening before the killing she was watering geraniums in a box on the window of her apartment, one floor above that occupied by the de Raffaeles.

Amara De Raffaele, daughter of the slayer, happened to lean out of the window of her apartment as the water trickled down. Some of it fell on her head, and, disregarding Mrs. Pirone's apology, she upbraided her.

The next evening the ill-feeling culminated in a bitter argument between the families, in which the elder De Raffaele, believing the women of his household were being insulted, seized a pistol and shot Pirone through the heart. He and his son fled but were captured.

Mrs. Pirone swore that the younger De Raffaele fired the shot, but other witnesses denied this.

After Judge Talley yesterday had remanded the father back to the Tombs for sentence tomorrow his lawyer announced that he would ask that the indictment against the son be dismissed.

CAIRO POLICE ARREST ZAGLOULIST LEADERS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, July 25.—There was a recrudescence of political excitement in Cairo this morning when the police, acting in accordance with orders from the British military authorities, sought to arrest members of the Executive Committee of the Zagloulist Party. Three leaders who were in Cairo were immediately taken into custody. Four others, who are out of the city, will be apprehended as soon as their whereabouts is discovered.

It is understood that the occasion for the arrests is the issuing by the committee of an inflammatory circular charging the Cabinet with betraying Egypt and holding it responsible for the consequences of its policy of co-operation with the British which the agitators regard as against Egypt's real interests.

ELDER WARD IN MICHIGAN.

It was hinted that young Ward had been with his father in Mount Clemens within the last few days, but the Ward party now here consists only of George S. Ward and his wife, both of whom have been taking the baths and enjoying recreation at the Riverview Golf Club and other shore haunts.

Mr. Ward refuses to be interviewed. He has retained Oscar G. Lungerhausen, a Mount Clemens attorney, to advise him in legal matters during his stay here.

Walter S. Ward, who answered the telephone at his home in New Rochelle last night, said that he had not visited his father at Mount Clemens, Mich.

"I've been at my office every day," Ward said.

SUMMONS NAVY FLIER.

Lieutenant Kikko Lekari, one of the two army aviators who fell Monday near Far Rockaway, was yesterday served by Patrolman John Farley with a summons to appear in court on a charge of violating an ordinance in flying lower than 2,000 feet over the city. This, it was said, would be the first prosecution under the law. The police were unable to find Lieutenant Charles V. Murphy, who was also in the accident, as he had left his home in Far Rockaway to report to Mitchel Field, Air Service officials there, it was said, were conducting an investigation.

Special Deputy Police Commissioner Redman Wanamaker said the Police Department had repeatedly warned aviators that reckless flying over the city would not be tolerated and that an example would be made of the two army officers if the charges against them were verified.

EX-KAISER'S SUIT ON TO SUPPRESS A PLAY

COMING BOOK TO BE CITED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 25.—Bismarck's ghost, like Banquo's, appeared in a Berlin courtroom and pointed an accusing finger at the absentee ex-Kaiser today as the case of "Wilhelm II. and Frau von Boetticher versus Emil Ludwig" came up for a hearing.

The ex-Kaiser and the widow of that Minister of State, von Boetticher, whom the embittered Bismarck hated as a go-between for the monarch in relation to Bismarck's Cabinet Ministers behind the Chancellor's back, were bringing an action against Ludwig, author and dramatist for a temporary injunction to restrain the stage performance or book publication of the latter's drama "Bismarck's Dismissal." The principal complainant was the ex-Kaiser, the widow's name being used for appearances' sake. The action is preliminary to another seeking a permanent injunction.

Ludwig's lawyer moved that the play be read in court and the Court so ruled. For hours the author, reading his own play, droned through three long acts which contained nothing particularly new or hateful against the Kaiser. But Bismarck was the hero, while the Kaiser's rôle, though not that of a villain, was at least nothing to be proud of. Ludwig drew the material for his drama largely from Bismarck's third volume but also from the first two Bismarck volumes, other memoirs and various documents.

The curtain falls on the first act after a long dialogue between Bismarck and the Kaiser, bristling with historic and familiar quotations, shows the scene where the Kaiser, immediately after having discussed the most important governmental questions of the day, including the so-called socialist laws, turns and busies himself with the problem of revising the officers' shoulder straps and collar stays.

The ex-Kaiser had taken particular offense at this scene and the author told the Court that he had cut it out. This was the sole revelation resulting from the reading, but the interest was renewed when the ex-Kaiser's attorney, Dr. Frankfurter, arose and began his argument.

The plea for an injunction is not based on the drama being libellous or defamatory, but on the ground that the ex-Kaiser's person should not be portrayed at all during his lifetime.

"The legal question whether living persons can be portrayed on the stage has never been and must now be cleared without prejudice. It is an important question not only for the plaintiffs but whole people, as emphasized by the person of the Kaiser," the attorney for the ex-ruler told the court. He continued:

"The Kaiser stands today before this court as a simple citizen whom heavy fate does not permit to espouse his own case in person. Formerly when the Kaiser sought his rights a special court was always assembled, but the Kaiser may no longer lay claim to his former prerogatives.

"What is involved here today is less the case of the Kaiser versus Ludwig than the not yet decided historical case of Wilhelm II. against Bismarck. I will proved that this drama falsifies the historic truth, though granting the defendant author's subjective good faith."

The attorney electrified the crowded courtroom with this announcement of evidence to be given by the ex-Kaiser. He was undoubtedly referring to the Bismarck chapter in the ex-Kaiser's book, shortly to be published. Some thought he hinted that the ex-Kaiser would give his testimony under oath in Holland.

"The situation at the time of Bismarck's dismissal was in a foreign sense politically quiet and in an internal sense politically tense. The question was whether the socialist laws should pass or the Reichstag be dissolved. Bismarck was convinced that a social revolution was bound to come and must be combated with blood. The Kaiser, a young man of good principles, stood diametrically opposed to Bismarck therein.

"In mistaken idealism the Kaiser believed that the differences within the nation could be peacefully overcome. That was his aureole 'Wilhelm, the working man's Kaiser,' looking back, one can today see that Bismarck wanted what was wrong and Wilhelm what was right. Insight into the future was with youth. Old age was impotent to understand the urge of the new era of social strivings.

"Bismarck made only one mistake—that he did not go voluntarily. It was also, in the last analysis, Bismarck's fault and not the Kaiser's that we did not come into right relations with Russia. Bismarck puts in the foreground everything that could put the Kaiser in wrong, and Ludwig follows him in the Bismarck drama. His work is one-sided and gives a colored, distorted representation which no man of honor could stand for."

LONDON, July 25.—A copy of Shelley's famous literary hoax, "The Posthumous Fragments of Margaret Nicholson," brought the record price of £1,210 at Sotheby's today, the purchaser being Mr. Sabin of Bond Street.

The "Fragments" is a pamphlet of sixteen leaves, which in this case are unbound and uncut, just as issued. Moreover, it was until recently an unrecorded copy, only five others being known to exist, and some of them imperfect. Of the half dozen one now in New York was formerly owned by Thomas Jefferson Hogg, the friend of Shelley who suggested the writing of the "Fragments."

Djemal Pasha, Fugitive, Assassinated in Tiflis; Condemned as Author of Armenian Massacres

TIFLIS, Republic of Georgia, July 25 (Associated Press).—Djemal Pasha, former Minister of Marine in the Turkish Unionist Government, Chief of Staff of the Afghan Army, has been assassinated here. Two Armenians are charged with the crime.

Djemal Pasha was accompanied by two aids, who were also shot dead. He was traveling to Kabul from Berlin, where he had made important purchases from the Afghan Army.

Djemal Pasha was one of the three Turkish officials who were the leaders of the Turkish Government during the war. With his associates, Enver Pasha and Taalat Bey, he was tried by a Turkish court-martial in Constantinople in July, 1919, and condemned to death. With Enver and Taalat, however, he had fled from Turkey several months before, just before the armistice. The court-martial which condemned them was instituted to undertake prosecutions under the new régime for the purpose of clearing the Turkish people as a whole from blame for joining in the war and for the Armenian, Greek and Syrian massacres and deportations.

While Enver Pasha was Minister of War and Taalat Bey Grand Vizier nd Minister of the Interior, Djemal Pasha became Military Governor of Syria after, as Minister of Marine, he had placed the Turkish fleet under a German Admiral. In his Syrian post Djemal was charged with being instrumental in carrying out massacres, while later in Armenia as special agent of Taalat he was accused of having instigated the atrocities against the Armenian population during the great war. He was one of those included in the allied extradition list of February, 1920.

Djemal's recent activities have been for the most part in the Caucasus. He was reported last Winter in Daghestan, where he was said to be co-operating with Enver Pasha, who was lately credited with having developed ambitions on his own account in Southwestern Asia and is said to have proclaimed himself Emir of Turkestan while leading an anti-Bolshevist movement.

It may be noted that Djemal Pasha has once previously been reported the victim of an assassin—at Kabul, Afghanistan, in November of last year—but this report lacked confirmation, and soon afterward Djemal appeared in the Daghestan area.

BONOMI QUITS TASK OF FORMING CABINET

GIOLITTI FEARS BANKRUPTCY

ROME, July 25 (Associated Press).—Former Premier Bonomi today informed King Victor Emmanuel that he would be unable to form a new Cabinet to take the place of that headed by Signor de Facta, which resigned last week.

Deputy Cocco-Ortu declined to enter the Bonomi Cabinet, while Signor Mussolini, the Fascisti leader, refused an invitation to see Signor Bonomi, saying:

"I cannot deal with a man elected a Deputy with Fascisti votes who now throws himself into the arms of the Socialists in order to inaugurate an anti-Fascisti, anti-Italian policy."

Former Premier Giolitti, writing from Vichy to Senator Malagodi, says:

"The real danger to our country is the march toward bankruptcy, but who seriously worries about this? What good can come from a league between the Reformist Sturzo and Deputies Treves and Turati? What program can be evolved when fear is the cause of the Ministerial crisis? Either the new Cabinet will throw itself whole-heartedly against the Fascisti, leading to actual civil war, or be crushed, in which case those who, through fear, precipitated the present crisis will overthrow the new administration."

A sensation has been caused by the letter, which is declared to have added to the difficulties of Signor Bonomi in his attempt to form a new Ministry.

The previous failure of former Premier Orlando to form a Ministry to succeed that of Signor de Facta has caused the exchange of accusations between leading Catholics and Conservatives and between Socialists and Fascisti, each blaming the others for preventing with their veto power the formation of a national Cabinet under Orlando. This difficulty apparently has widened the differences between the political groups in the Italian Chamber, making it more difficult for any other political leader to find a successful solution of the present governmental crisis.

Enrico de Nicola, President of the Chamber of Deputies, is said to have told the King that he did not feel equal to the task of forming a Government under the present circumstances. Signor Meda stated that he could not accept the Premiership for both personal and political reasons, principally because he and his family were dependent upon his profession as a lawyer, the income from which would cease if he accepted a public office. (The Premier's salary is 24,000 lire, which according to the present rate of exchange is a little more than $1,000.)

From a political point of view, Signor Meda is said to have expressed the opinion that his party should not assume supreme responsibility at the present time.

No one was reported killed Sunday, it was announced today. This marks the first Sunday in many weeks without a death in the conflicts between Fascisti and Communists. At Novara, Florence, Bologna and Siena there were some casualties in slightly wounded.

Deputy Dentis Russoniti, leader of the Fascisti, has been challenged to a duel by Signor Lucchesi, editor of a Socialist newspaper, over a political article published by the former which the latter adjudges insulting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 25.—One hundred and seventy tons of gas shells a day are being dumped by the French at present in the English Channel as the best manner of getting rid of them. Ever since the war ended these shells, some 80,000 in number, and most of them British, have been lying in a depot in North France and have been regarded as no small menace to the people of the district.

How to destroy them was a great difficulty. The French have decided to ship them twelve miles out to sea off Dunkirk and drop them gently to the bottom, which is a deep layer of soft mud. There will be no danger of any being washed up by the tides and if poison gas escapes it will do no one any harm.

SYRIANS ATTACK FRENCH.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, July 25.—The Syrian Executive Committee in Cairo announces the reception of telegrams stating that Syrian indignation over the confirmation of the French mandate for Syria culminated in an attack by the Druses upon the French force near Derat. The insurgents are reported to have killed two French officers and seventeen French cavalrymen there, and at Jayroud Syrians are said to have killed fifteen French soldiers.

The committee says that other telegrams tell of general disorders in Syria.

CALL BOTTOMLEY TO HOUSE

May Defend Himself Against Expulsion if He So Desires.

LONDON, July 25.—The House of Commons adopted a resolution presented by Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader, which instructs the Governor of Wormwood Scrubbs Prison to bring Horatio Bottomley, who is now serving a prison sentence for fraud, in custody to the House on Tuesday if the prisoner so desires.

The regulations of the House of Commons provide that a member has a right to defend himself in person against expulsion proceedings, which have already been instituted against Bottomley.

FRENCH FORESEE HARD DEBT FIGHT

NO REPLY FROM LONDON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 25.—It seems now to be the turn of the British Government to take time to make up its mind as to whether it wants a meeting of allied Premiers to discuss the reparation question. When the proposal first was launched from Downing Street M. Poincaré would say neither yes nor no, but asked time until a reply should be received from the Guarantees Committee. When last Sunday he had that reply he hastened to announce that he would travel to London the 21st of this month. But no reply has yet come from England agreeing to the date, and the Quai d'Orsay is wondering what the delay may mean.

The most probable explanation is considered to be the simple one that Mr. Lloyd George and his colleagues are carefully considering all the ways and means of meeting the French offensive before they commit themselves. The answer given in Parliament by Sir Robert Horne to the question whether the British had ever proposed cancellation of the French debt is regarded as very significant. That proposal never did come from the British side, though statements that it did so have been published in the American press.

Officially the British Government has never departed from the proposal that cancellation of debts should be dependent on action of the United States. Nor has it done so now, and it is there that the weakness of M. Poincaré's otherwise strong position lies. He must go to London with a scheme for the reconstruction of Europe which is hypothecated on British generosity. He may promise great things as a result and hold out prospects of rebuilding trade through the instrumentality of an international loan and stabilizing exchanges, but will that be enough for Mr. Lloyd George? It is feared that it will not, and the reason for the British Premier's delay in answering his guest's note fixing a date for the interview is to be found in his desire to have the ground prepared beforehand all the other conditions which will attach to cancellation of the debt.

M. Poincaré has decided that this London conference will be a big clearing up of many things, but so it promises has also the British Premier. Unfortunately for both and for the prospects of success, there is in the arrangement of it no very marked cordiality. Each is aware that the other is prepared to ask a very big concession. Each is aware that his country will not lightly accept a break, and that while each is prepared for some sacrifice there must come a time when the proportion between the sacrifice demanded and the benefits of a fresh start will have to be carefully considered.

It is a curious feature of the situation that though much has been printed here about the French Premier's intentions, no official confirmation of what these intentions are can be obtained. It is with difficulty even that the admission is extracted from those surrounding the Premier that he has a plan at all. On the contrary, foreign journalists have been warned not to accept all that is being written about this supposed plan. But that a plan exists and is hypothecated on the cancellation of the debt is certain. All the secrecy that surrounds it is intended only to cover any failure and provide a way out should the conference never get further toward a settlement than the discussion of Tangier and the Greco-Turkish troubles which are scheduled.

REFUSE MORATORIUM ON PRIVATE CLAIMS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 25.—At the same time that the German Government sent its demand to the Reparation Commission for a two-year moratorium in addition to that already extended, the German Ambassador in Paris, on instruction from his Government, put in a request to M. Poincaré for a reduction in the amount of the monthly payments fixed last year to be paid by Germany to the Central Office of Compensation in liquidation of claims of private citizens against Germans which were in abeyance during the war years. The amount fixed and agreed to by the German Government was £2,000,000 a month for all the Allies. For this payment the German Government accepted responsibility, though the claims were against private citizens.

On July 18 the German Ambassador, advancing the fall of the mark as the reason, wrote to M. Poincaré asking that the monthly payments be reduced to £500,000. The complaint is also made that many claims made are excessive and that, arbitration being slow, a period of respite should be granted during which reduced payment should be demanded and proceeds from liquidation of German properties held abroad should be sufficient to meet all compensation.

Today representatives of the Allied Compensation Office met to consider the request, and it is understood that it has been refused. The argument which was accepted was that these payments were voluntarily accepted by the German Government though actually owing by private firms and that lowness of the mark cannot be considered sufficient ground for failure to pay. The monthly instalment of £2,000,000 will therefore be continued.

BRITISH PERPLEXED BY DRY SEARCH PLEA

FEAR TO SET A PRECEDENT

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 25.—In starting negotiations with Great Britain for restricting liquor smuggling from the West Indies to the United States, the American Government has pointed out some specific tricks to which smuggling craft resort.

Thus, it is alleged that sometimes a whisky ship will carry fraudulently double sets of clearance papers. It might, for example, clear from a port in Jamaica with whisky for Halifax. Then the ship would go to the Bermudas and get fresh clearance for a trip in ballast to Norfolk, Va. It would thus have papers aboard to justify approach to the American coast and would be able to take the chance of running its whisky ashore at a convenient locality.

Another device to which attention was called was the fraudulent transfer of ships. It is believed that wealthy American bootlegging concerns have induced British subjects to take over the nominal ownership of smuggling craft and operate them under the British flag. As a matter of fact, they are under American orders, but the American authorities are handicapped in supervising them by the formalities and technicalities which hedge bona fide foreign shipping.

Cautions on Right of Search.

The State Department also suggested to the British Foreign Office that the difficulty of handling the smuggling situation would be greatly lessened if Great Britain would permit United States revenue officers to search and if necessary seize British vessels suspected of smuggling outside the three mile limit.

The British attitude is that the British Government will do everything it can to aid the United States in putting down liquor smuggling, but that the points raised by Washington involved troublesome complications that need careful investigation. To prove fraud in regard to clearance papers or registered ownership of a vessel required the collection of evidence and legal proceedings and cannot be done off hand. It will be necessary, in the British view, to safeguard very strictly any rights granted to the American authorities to stop British vessels outside the three mile limit.

The British Government sympathizes entirely with the reasons why the American Government wishes to do so, and has no doubt that it would use its authority with due discretion, but it cannot forget that a new and awkward precedent might be established. Some other power not so well disposed might quote it in some other case in which British shipping was concerned, and the authorities here feel that they can move in this matter only after careful deliberation.

Moreover, the British Foreign Office feels that the Governments of the British Dominions affected by the American requests should be consulted before it gives a definite reply. The Washington negotiation concerning liquor smuggling along the Atlantic seaboard has caused it to be expected here that similar questions will be raised concerning smuggling over the Canadian frontier. It is presumed, however, that such matters would be taken up by Washington direct with Ottawa.

May Approach Cuba and Canada.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—It was learned at the State Department today that the negotiations between the United States and Great Britain concerning the suspected activities of British vessels in connection with smuggling of liquor into the United States are being conducted through the British Embassy at Washington.

Until this Government has definitely learned the attitude of the British Government, it was explained today, there would be no further steps. The British reply is not expected to be long delayed.

State Department officials declined to say whether the Governments of Cuba and Canada have likewise been approached with a view to securing their co-operation in the effort to suppress the liquor traffic. Since a considerable smuggling business is known to be carried on between Cuba and the United States, it is assumed that representations have been made at least informally to the Cuban Government or that they will be made eventually.

The action in feeling out the British Government on this subject, it was explained, was based solely upon principles of international comity. It is assumed that in the ordinary course of friendly relations between the two countries, the British authorities would be willing to do anything within reason to co-operate in the suppression of what is held to amount to a conspiracy to violate the laws of a friendly nation.

WINE AND LIQUOR IMPORTS FORBIDDEN

Internal Revenue Department Rules Supply on Hand Must First Be Exhausted.

Washington, July 25.—Imports of wines and liquors were banned tonight by Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Department until supplies already in the country for non-beverage uses are insufficient to meet the national requirements.

Drastic, new regulations were issued by Commissioner Blair covering the entrance of alcoholic beverages into the country, designed to shut off one of the sources of illegal liquor supply.

"No permit for the importation of spirits will be granted," the regulations stated, "until the amount of such liquor in distilleries or other bonded warehouses shall, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, have been so reduced that additional supplies shall be necessary to supply the current need thereafter for all non-beverage uses. No permit for the importation of wine shall be granted until, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the wine for non-beverage use produced in this country is not sufficient to meet such non-beverage needs."

Except as to sacramental wine, the regulations provide that a basic permit to import, withdraw and use may be granted only to one using liquor for manufacturing or other lawful non-beverage purposes and a basic permit to import, withdraw and sell may be granted only to a wholesale or retail druggist. Other persons, the regulations added, may obtain permits to import, withdraw and sell sacramental wine and to import and sell other liquor without withdrawal by means of customs warehouse receipts.

The regulations further provide that all permits to purchase intoxicating liquors shall expire thirty days after date of approval, except importation permits and permits to purchase alcohol for manufacturing or selling, which shall expire ninety days after date of approval, and permits to purchase wine or distilled spirits other than alcohol for manufacturing or selling, which shall expire sixty days after date of approval.

Stole City's $20,000 to Get Medical Aid for Brothers

Judge Johnstone in General Sessions yesterday remanded James T. Harris, former clerk in Controller Craig's office, to the Tombs until Friday, when he will be sentenced on a plea of guilty to the theft of $900 from the city. Harris, who lived at 622 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, was twenty-three years in the Finance Department.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora said Harris actually stole about $20,000, had made a full confession and would appear as a witness for the city in litigation growing out of the clerk's disposal of the bonds deposited by bidders on city work.

Harris fled to Pittsburgh in December, 1920, and was arrested on his return on May 16, 1921. He told Mr. Pecora he stole to provide medical care for his two brothers, one of whom, he said, died three weeks ago. The second brother, Harris added, now is a patient in the Kings County Hospital.

CUT THROUGH WALL, GET $10,000 IN SILKS

Goods Bearing Marks Are Left Undisturbed and Only Best Bolts Taken.

Burglars having headquarters in a building recently vacated by the Industrial Bank of New York chiseled their way through a 12-inch brick wall into the adjoining building occupied by the Lorraine Silk Mills at 325 Fourth Avenue and escaped with $10,000 worth of stock. The police, after suppressing news of the theft since last Saturday, said yesterday that the robbery was one of the most daring in recent years.

The former bank building is on the corner of Twenty-fourth Street and Fourth Avenue, one of the busiest sections of the silk wholesale district, and the police and officials of the company cannot understand how such a large amount of plunder could be carried off without exciting suspicion, or how the burglars knew just where to drill the hole and get away with the silk without striking the burglar alarm system. The plunder was carried off in a truck.

Abraham Kreizel, head of the firm of Kreizel & Bernstein, which represents the Lorraine Silk Mills, said he believed that some one who knew the layout of the building helped in the robbery. Silks bearing marks easily traced were avoided, and the robbers showed the professional touch by selecting only bolts of the finest quality.

$20,000 IN ALCOHOL SEIZED AT FACTORY

Fifty-one barrels of supposed grain alcohol, worth about $20,000, were seized yesterday afternoon by Prohibition Agents Owens, Van Tassel and Morganstein at the warehouse of Sardou, Inc., manufacturers of toilet articles at 569 Hudson Street, with branches in London, Paris and Bombay. The agents left a summons for George Sardou, head of the firm, to appear before a United States Commissioner on a charge of illegally possessing alcohol.

According to Owens, Sardou yesterday sold him a barrel of alcohol for $350.

The police do not need search warrants to hunt for liquor in former licensed saloons, Magistrate Jacob Ellperin held yesterday in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn. This ruling was made in the case of John Klein of 1,248 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, whose counsel argued that Patrolman Francis Gilmartin, of the Eleventh Inspection District, had no right to enter Klein's saloon at 254 Central Avenue, Brooklyn, to search for liquor without a warrant. Gilmartin said that he found four quart bottles of whisky in the place. Klein was held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

Summonses to answer charges of Federal liquor law violations were left yesterday with the following persons by agents under Chief City Agent Chris J. Portmann: Charles Eisler, owner, and Gustave Miller, bartender, at 3,238 Third Avenue; Bernard Garrity, owner, of 1,414 Franklin Avenue; Joseph Gucker, owner, and A. Miller, bartender, at 133d Street and Amsterdam Avenue; George Wandlach, owner, at 141st Street and Willis Avenue, the Bronx; William Culotin, owner, and J. Finn, bartender, at 2,550 Third Avenue; Jacob Hahn, owner at 269 West Street, and John J. Cryan, owner, and Patrick J. Ryan, bartender, at 73 South Street.

WAGNER SETTLEMENT CONFIRMED BY COURT

On motion of counsel, Federal Judge A. N. Hand yesterday confirmed the proposed settlement of claims of creditors against E. W. Wagner & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, who failed on Dec. 30.

The settlement proposes to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent. in long-term notes to be issued by the Wagner Assets Realization Corporation, an organization which has been formed for the purpose. Judge Hand complimented the interested parties on the constructive work that had been accomplished. Endless litigation, he said, might otherwise have resulted.

At the time of the filing of the bankruptcy petition the liabilities were estimated at $7,000,000 and the assets at $5,000,000. E. W. Wagner & Co. had branches in thirty-three cities, being rated as one of the largest brokerage houses in the country. Arthur Garfield Hays, of counsel, said the assets were valued at $9,000,000 and the liabilities amounted to $8,000,000.

PARIS, July 25 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Gurnee Munn, daughter of Rodman Wanamaker of New York, has been robbed of a platinum bracelet set with gems, valued at 250,000 francs, according to an announcement by Le Journal today.

Several of the cleverest detectives of Paris have been assigned to the case, but so far they have developed no plausible clues.

Judge Augustus N. Hand of the United States District Court yesterday appointed Peter B. Olney Jr. of 68 William Street as Referee in the bankruptcy of Allan A. Ryan. Mr. Olney will call a meeting of creditors and conduct hearings. He will give ten days' notice of the creditors' meeting.

David Hunter Miller, of counsel for Francis G. Caffey, the Receiver, will examine Mr. Ryan before the Referee. Mr. Miller said yesterday that he knew nothing about reports that Ryan had given his wife $5,000,000 about the time of the Stutz corner in 1920. Mr. Miller said he understood that Ryan gave his wife $1,500,000 three years ago, in which the creditors have no right to participate. Wall Street has been puzzled as to why the bankruptcy petition was filed at this time, but Ryan's friends explained that the trust agreement with the banks expired on July 6, and that Ryan was anxious to clear up his affairs so that he may be in a position to build up a new fortune.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

On the Stock Exchange, prices recovered substantially from their weakness of the day before; doubtless reflecting by that change of attitude the shifting of impressions and expectations regarding the labor situation. The negotiations have plainly enough reached a stage at which the railway shopmen's strike may be settled with some suddenness, and in which the Administration will be compelled to take a position in the coal strike controversy which will at least bring matters to a head. It is quite true that a situation is also coming definitely into sight in which depletion of fuel supplies would seriously handicap industrial production and in which continued embargo on their mechanical facilities would seriously embarrass the railways. But on the other hand, experience teaches that it is precisely this approach of gravely troublesome consequences of labor disputes which is most likely to force a settlement. That is one reason for the proverbial unwillingness of the Stock Exchange to "sell stocks on a strike." The stock market has also presumably been influenced by its ideas as to the kind of Autumn industrial activity which would ensue if the strikes were to be terminated.

Elsewhere than in the stock market the interesting movement of values yesterday was in United States Government bonds and in foreign exchange. Two of the war loans went above their previous highest price; others sold at the best recorded figure. The rise of the fourth 4¼ per cents, of which nearly twice as great an amount is now outstanding as of any other war loan, practically to 101¾, is striking evidence of the accumulation of investment capital on the one hand and of the expectation of continued easy money on the other.

How far the day's reaction in foreign exchange rates reflected financial impressions of the pending moves and counter-moves regarding the German reparations questions, it might perhaps be difficult to say. Traditionally, however, this is the time of year when exchange rates have moved against the European markets, even under normal international conditions. That the French rate, in particular, should rule well below the year's highest might be accounted for merely by the known fact that a decreased harvest in France will necessitate much larger import of foodstuffs than last year's. That merely means that the movement of exchange rates cannot just now be ascribed entirely to ideas regarding the reparations question. Probably no one would contend that the position in that controversy is more discouraging than it was three months ago, when the franc was quoted a cent higher than it was quoted yesterday.

The Steel Corporation's earnings, as reported yesterday for the June quarter, were on the whole closely in line with what the circumstances of the industry would have foreshadowed. The three months' net receipts are considerably the largest of any similar period since the first quarter of 1921, and the earnings for June were the largest monthly total since January of that year. But the $27,286,000 earned in the past quarter, although $5,394,000 more than in the same three months last year, fall short of the quarter's results in all other years since 1914. They are more than $7,500,000 below the June quarter's earnings in the first after-war reaction of 1919, and do not quite reach the earnings of the period in 1915, when the industry was just emerging from the war panic. For the sixth successive time, moreover, the regular quarterly dividend paid on the common stock was not fully earned.

What the results for the past quarter measure most accurately, however, is the progressive recovery from industrial reaction. When the corporation earned only $5,137,000 last July and no more than $4,624,000 as recently as last January, the $10,712,000 shown to have been earned last month marks the change which has occurred in all industrial activities. Except for the single month of April, this improvement has been continuous since the beginning of the present year and since the steel trade, because prices are fixed on forward business, is slow in reflecting such improvement through monthly profits, it is reasonable to expect continuing increase of earnings. The fact that unfilled orders on the company's books, as lately reported for the end of June, were larger by 7½ per cent. than at the end of May and by 28¼ per cent. than at the end of March, is sufficient evidence of the drift of things.

French and Belgian francs suffered a sharp reaction in yesterday's dealings, Paris checks at 3.38¼ cents, the day's low, showing a decline of almost a quarter of a cent from Monday's high, with Antwerp francs off eighth of a cent off.

London and the Continentals were less urgently pressed, rates on these centres revealing concessions less violent than those for the French and Belgian remittances.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

ATLAS AND SELDEN MERGER COMPLETED

Industrial Motors Corporation Is Completed—Will Need No New Financing.

The merger of the Selden Truck Corporation and the Atlas Truck Corporation has been declared operative, it was announced yesterday, and the Industrial Motors Corporation, which is to take over the two companies, has been organized under the laws of the State of Delaware with an authorized capital stock of 1,000,000 shares of no par value.

John J. Watson Jr., President of the new company, said yesterday that no new financing would be necessary. The balance sheet of the combined company will show assets of $2 to each dollar of liabilities, said Mr. Watson, adding that the Atlas Company had virtually no liabilities and the Selden Company only about $1,000,000. Numerous companies have made application to be included in the combination, but these will not receive consideration until the organization of the parent company has been completed.

In his letter to stockholders, Mr. Watson says that more than 95 per cent. of the stock of the Atlas Truck Corporation and more than 90 per cent. of the common and 73 per cent. of the second preferred stock of the Selden Truck Corporation have been deposited for exchange for stock of the Industrial Motor Corporation. Stockholders who have not already deposited their stock with the Chase National Bank under the terms of the plan may still do so, as the date for deposit has been extended until Aug. 15.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—The Standard Oil Company of California today announced a reduction in price for all grades of crude oil, at the well, of 25 cents a barrel. The company also announced a temporary discontinuance of its practice of contracting for the purchase of crude oil.

The reduction was the second within ten days, the former one also being of 25 cents. Excess of production over consumption was the reason for both reductions.

U. S. STEEL EARNINGS REACHED $27,286,945

Quarter Ending on June 30 Was the Best Since First Quarter of Last Year.

DIVIDENDS ARE DECLARED

Balance of $11,196,355 Available After Payment of Charges Equal to 96 Cents a Share.

The statement of earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the quarter ended June 30, 1922, issued after the close of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday, showed net earnings of $27,286,945. This is the best showing made by the corporation since the first quarter of last year.

The balance available for dividends, after allowing for depreciation, interest and sinking fund charges, was $11,196,355, equal, after the regular dividend on the preferred stock, to 96 cents a share on the $504,303,500 common stock issued and outstanding. In the first quarter of the year earnings were equal to $1.64 a share on the preferred stock, neither the regular common and preferred dividends having been earned in that quarter.

In the second quarter the corporation set aside $8,743,129 for depreciation, replacements and other charges, an amount approximately $2,700,000 in excess of the reserves set up for the same account in the first quarter of the year. Were it not for this increase the balance available for dividends would have been more than sufficient to cover the common dividend requirements. The statement, however, shows a deficit of $1,462,245 after dividend payments.

Earnings for the first six months of the year, after charges and taxes, amounted to $17,105,391, which after preferred dividends was equal to 88 cents a share on the total common stock. In the first half of last year the balance was equal to $2.15 a share on the common.

EMPIRE GAS CALLS NOTES DUE IN 1924

Will Issue Notice Today for Settlement of 6 and 8 Per Cents Dated June, 1924.

TWO OTHER REDEMPTIONS

Havana Electric Railway and Proctor & Gamble to Take Up Issues Before Date.

The ease in money and increased business in many lines has made it possible for several corporations to consider plans for calling in and redeeming notes or bonds due far ahead. Three announcements of this sort were made yesterday.

The Empire Gas and Fuel Company, the oil subsidiary of the Cities' Service Company, announced that it had made arrangements for the calling in of its 6 per cent. and 8 per cent. notes, due June 15, 1924. The company will publish a call notice for the notes today to be effective Aug. 28, 1922. The bond secured sinking fund convertible 6 per cent. notes will be retired at 101.697 per cent. of par, plus accrued interest, and the bond secured sinking fund convertible 8 per cent. notes will be retired at 101.66 per cent. of par, plus accrued interest, on presentation at the Bankers' Trust Company, Aug. 28, after which date interest will cease.

Holders of notes of either issue may present them at any time prior to Aug. 23 and will receive the call price, with interest to date of presentation.

The Havana Electric Railway, Light and Power Company has called for redemption on Sept. 1, 1922, at 102½ and interest, all of its $1,500,000 five-year 7 per cent. secured convertible gold notes due Sept. 1, 1922. The noteholders have the right on or before Aug. 25, 1922, to exchange their notes into general mortgage sinking fund 5 per cent. gold bonds of the company, due Sept. 1, 1954; for each $1,000 note the noteholder is entitled to receive one $1,000 general mortgage bond and, in addition, a cash payment of $175, plus an adjustment of the accrued interest.

The notes were sold about a year ago to Speyer & Co., the bankers of the company, and are secured by $3,000,000 general mortgage sinking fund 5 per cent. gold bonds, due 1954. Subject to the conversion right of the noteholders as to $1,500,000 of the bonds, the company has sold to Speyer & Co. those $3,000,000 general mortgage bonds and an additional $600,000 bonds issued for improvements.

It is understood that Speyer & Co. in conjunction with Harris, Forbes & Co., will shortly offer these general mortgage bonds at a price to yield over 5 per cent. Announcement was made that all of the $5,000,000 principal amount of Proctor & Gamble Co. 7 per cent. gold notes, series B, due March 1, 1923, will be redeemed on Sept. 1, at the Guaranty Trust Company.

WILL CALL VICTORY NOTES.

One Billion Due Next May to Be Redeemed Dec. 15, 1922.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Approximately one billion dollars of 4¾ per cent. Victory notes maturing May 20, 1923, will be called for redemption on Dec. 15, 1922, as a result of lots drawn today by Secretary Mellon, which decided the series to be retired in advance would be those lettered A, B, C, D, E and F.

At the same time Mr. Mellon announced the offer of a new issue of 4¾ per cent. short-term Treasury notes, dated Aug. 1, 1922, and due Dec. 15, 1926, to the amount of about $300,000,000, with the right reserved to allot additional notes up to a limited amount to the extent that Victory notes are tendered in payment.

These two operations, Mr. Mellon declared, marked an important further step in the development of the Treasury's program for refunding the $4,500,000,000 of short dated debt maturing during the current fiscal year.

Victory notes of the 4¾ per cent. series bearing the distinguishing letters G, H, I, J, K or L, he stated, are not in any manner affected by the call for redemption and will become due and payable as to principal on May 20, 1923. There are about $1,000,000,000 of these latter Victory notes outstanding.

Selection of the notes to be called for redemption was made at a little ceremony in the Secretary's office, attended by Under Secretary Gilbert; W. G. Platt, Chief Clerk of the department; Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and a group of newspaper men. Two unsigned orders calling for the redemption of $1,000,000,000 of Victory notes were placed in a waste paper basket. Mr. Platt drew out the order retiring the A to F notes, which was signed by Mr. Mellon.

The Treasury Secretary explained that when it was determined to call for redemption half of the outstanding Victory notes under the refunding plan he thought it would be only fair that the notes to be retired should be chosen by lot, as interest upon them would cease on Dec. 15.

Piggly Wiggly Reports Profits.

The Piggly Wiggly Corporation for the first half of 1922 reports undivided profits of $256,000, after deducting $425,000 for Federal taxes and $168,000 for dividends paid. Total undivided profits on June 30 amounted to $165,000.

FURTHER DECLINE IN COTTON PRICES

The downward movement in cotton continued yesterday until prices showed a loss of $3 a bale on the day and $10 a bale from high figures of the month. As the crop is far from being made and rain is needed in Western sections, conservative interests furnish sufficient support to halt the decline. After the market turned, reports of damage by heat and weevil caused active covering and an upturn of over 60 points. It was a regulation July market, under pressure one hour and recovering rapidly the next. Weather the coming three weeks will largely decide the yield this year, a fact that renders the trade conservative, but encourages professional operations. Prices closed 3 to 8 points over Monday.

Liverpool began to display less resistance than heretofore prevailing on each decline, a condition that reflected pressure similar to that existing for several days in American market. With ¼ cent loss in values abroad, local quotations started about unchanged and during the first half hour recovered 10 to 20 points. Scattered mill calling served to encourage support by certain room operators and October recovered over 21¼c. Then reports of cotton being offered more freely at Texas points, with improved crop accounts emanating from the Atlantic section, started a repetition of Monday's selling movement. Cotton came in in increasing volume, trading being heavy after October touched 21¼c. New Orleans led the decline, throwing so many contracts on New York that a mass of stock-loss orders were reached and executed. Housed that have been persistent buyers for some weeks liquidated thousands of bales with depressing effect on quotations. Selling was not confined to October or December, but blocks of January and March appeared on the decline. Operators who were most active in attempting to force an advance at 22¼c ten days ago became aggressive sellers. Though scale buying orders absorbed cotton, pressure became so severe that October broke 21c before noon.

REFINING PLANT AT TAMPICO

Mexican Petroleum Co. Starts Work on One for Finished Gasoline.

The Mexican Petroleum Company has started work on constructing a new refining plant at Tampico, Mexico, the cost to approximate $2,000,000. This plant will turn out finished gasoline. At the present time the company has a refinery at Tampico with a capacity of 120,000 barrels of crude oil a day, capable, however, of turning out only crude gasoline. The output of the new plant will be ready for commercial use, and the production will range between 800,000 and 900,000 gallons of gasoline daily.

Contracts for the construction of this plant were signed a few days ago, and the announcement was considered significant in oil trade circles as indicating that officials of the Mexican Petroleum Company have confidence in the Mexican oil fields, in spite of the invasion of salt water at Toteco early this month.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, July 25.—An official notice from the Government of the Sudan says that the Governor General has authorized an English bank or banks to float a loan not exceeding £7,000,000 to facilitate the completion of irrigation works in the Sudan which have been held up on account of lack of money. The security is the properties and income of the Sudanese Government. The conditions of the loan require the approval of the British Treasurer and Foreign Secretary.

BRITAIN STILL SENDING GOLD

Two More Shipments on Way for Payment on Debt to U. S.

Two shipments of gold are en route to the United States from England, and, while no confirmation of the report has been received, it is generally believed that both are from the Bank of England, consigned to J. P. Morgan & Co. for the account of the British Government, to be used in connection with the adjustment of the Government's debt to the United States this Fall.

The steamer Aquitania is bringing $3,150,000 and the steamer Baltic is bringing seventy-three cases, valued at approximately $2,500,000. The steamer Majestic yesterday brought $4,620,000, of which $1,645,000 was consigned to the National City Bank and the balance to J. P. Morgan & Co. for the British Government account.

Operating Revenues Increase.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN SUGAR

Federal Company Increases Refined to 7 Cents Wholesale.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company yesterday announced another advance in the price of refined sugar, bringing the wholesale price up to 7 cents a pound.

The Warner Sugar Company is now quoting 6.90 cents. Arbuckle Brothers are quoting 6.90 for hard granulated and 6.50 cents for soft. Most refiners will not guarantee shipment before the middle of August.

Electric Cable Plants Busy.

The plants of the Habirshaw Electric Cable Company at Yonkers and Bridgeport are now operating on full time, according to Thomas C. Perkins, Chairman of the Stockholders' Protective Committee. Shipments during the month of June amounted to $820,000, while incoming orders for the same month amounted to approximately $1,200,000. Total orders booked ahead now amount to over $3,500,000. Figured on a tonnage basis, present business is said to be the largest in the history of the company.

MEXICAN CRUDE OIL RISES

Mexican light crude oil was advanced again yesterday, the new quotation being $1.50 a barrel plus taxes, which amount to about 30 cents a barrel. Previous to the news of salt water invading in the Tonsco-Cerro Azul fields in Mexico, the price of light crude was $1 a barrel.

Approximately 90 per cent. of the fuel oil used along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts comes from Mexico, and in view of the curtailed production in that country refiners are bidding keenly for Mexican crude. This movement has been going on in face of a decline in domestic crude prices.

Stockholders' Meeting Postponed.

The special meeting of stockholders of the Penn Seaboard Steel Company called to approve taking over the Lackawanna Steel Company has again been postponed. This is the third time the meeting has been delayed, and the date of the next meeting is subject to the call of the President.

Now Is The Time

We are convinced that Railroad Equipment Trust Securities are out of line with the general bond market and should be selling at higher prices.

The Cause

Money rates have eased in this financial center and throughout the United States to a greater extent than was recently predicted. The slowness with which general business is returning to normal conditions is indicative of even lower quotations for money and for a considerable period. Such factors have greatly influenced the investment market and high grade bonds, especially Railroad bonds, are touching new price levels every day.

The Effect

First mortgage bonds representing underlying liens on America's leading railroads have reached a position at or below a 4.25% yield. Mortgage bonds secured by first liens on less desirable trackage are yielding from 4.50% to 4.80%. Prices for Terminal bonds secured by liens on large railroad stations and other fixed properties yield from 4.35% to 4.85%.

A Comparison

Railroad equipment trust bonds, representing prior lien mortgages on the most saleable and movable types of railroad property in existence; namely, freight cars, passenger cars and locomotives, can be purchased to yield 5% to 6%.

The price discrepancy mentioned above is due to the fact that many otherwise experienced purchasers of bonds are still unfamiliar with the splendid investment qualities and unexcelled record for safety possessed by railroad equipment trust securities.

A Suggestion

Every well-diversified list of high grade investment holdings should include a generous percentage of railroad equipment trust bonds. We suggest as an example, a ten to fifteen year investment of the highest grade represented by the purchase of New York Central Lines Equipment Trust 5% Certificates, due June 1, 1933-34-35-36 or 1937. These non-callable certificates are secured by deposit with the trustee of title to new standard equipment purchased by the New York Central Lines at very reasonable prices and costing at least 25% in excess of the total amount of indebtedness outstanding. Each certificate bears the joint and several guarantee of the New York Central Railroad Company and also of its most important subsidiary lines. The certificates are issued under the "Philadelphia Plan" and can be purchased from us to yield better than 5%. There is no comparative investment in the railroad bond market today.

The "Philadelphia Plan" and other interesting features of car trust securities are fully discussed in our booklet, "Car Trust Securities," which will be mailed upon request. A second supply of the 1922 edition containing complete statistics on all outstanding railroad bonds, has been received by us and is available to those to whom it will be useful.

An Invitation

We buy and sell more equipment trust securities than any other house in the United States and in connection with this business maintain separate departments devoted exclusively to the origination of, distribution of, and retail trading in this class of security. If you buy or sell high grade investment securities whether as a dealer, broker, trustee, executive of a financial institution or a private investor you should and are respectfully invited to place your name on our mailing list. Tear off the slip, check it and mail to us now.

WASHINGTON WRONG, SAYS DE LA HUERTA

Defends Debt Agreement and Land Bonds and Objects to "Rough Manner" of Critic.

Adolfo de la Huerta, Minister of Finance of Mexico, who has arrived in Mexico City after agreeing with international bankers here on terms for the settlement of the outstanding defaulted obligations of that country, sent a telegram yesterday to the Financial Agency of the Government of Mexico in New York protesting against statements contained in Washington dispatches giving the views of a high official of the American Government on relations between Mexico and the United States. Señor de la Huerta objects to the tone of the statement of the American official. He denies that President Obregon will refuse to ratify the debt agreement and presents statements to the effect that the bonds issued to pay for land taken over by the Government are worthless.

Señor de la Huerta's message as made public by the Mexican agency follows:

"I have read the statements published in the New York press upon the state of our international relations, which were made, as it is said, by an authorized person in Washington on the 20th. If the form in which they have been transmitted to me is correct, I do not believe that the United States Government has authorized any public official to give out appreciations so unjust to the President of Mexico, in view of the fact that these are in complete disagreement with the cordial spirit shown by the honorable President Harding and Secretary Hughes in the interview which I had the honor to have with them, sending through me cordial messages to President Obregon.

"There is no foundation whatever to affirm that President Obregon is unwilling to ratify the agreements entered into in New York with the creditors of Mexico, if from the text of the telegrams that I have received from him and from the statements that he has made public, he considers the arrangements equitable, and to give his official ratification he is awaiting further information on some points which I personally will clear up upon my arrival in Mexico City.

"Statements mentioned in this regard are embarrassing to the bondholders when an asseveration of such nature is made public. Furthermore, it has been stipulated with the creditors of my country, and it is so established in the Mexican laws, that the aforesaid agreements must be ratified by Congress. For no reason whatever, then, is the attitude of President Obregon censurable. Neither has he failed in any oil arrangement, it being the case that the agreement of Sept. 3 was ratified by General Obregon. With regard to the proposals that the oil executives have made through me for future explorations, I am taking these with me, and they have not been presented as yet to the Department of Industry and Commerce, through which the President of the United States of Mexico will issue his final word.

"There is neither a reason to prejudge upon the bonds of the agrarian debt, when these have not yet been issued, nor the steps that the Mexican Government is taking to give these bonds a real market value are known. An unfavorable statement upon securities that a Government is trying hard to strengthen obstructs with those statements the same intention of the Mexican Administration, which is making great sacrifices to obtain the funds that will serve for the payment of lands (ejidos) which must be assigned to the townships in need of them.

"These bonds have not yet been placed in circulation, but had they been already in the hands of some landholders these would be fully entitled to claim serious responsibilities from those who publicly attempted to demerit these bonds in assuming so carelessly that they were worthless.

"I want to take advantage of this opportunity to clear up that. In an interview published by some newspaper in New York there appears a mistaken statement, according to information I have received. I did not affirm that all the lands had been paid for. I said that the Government would pay for all those that would be needed for the solving of the agrarian problem, and I never could have assured that the value of all the expropriated lands had been covered when I cannot forget that there is a group of landholders that have refused to come to an agreement with the Government for the payment of their properties.

"I want to explain that the Government has already invested many millions of pesos in compensating owners who, obedient to the laws of the country, have arrived at equitable adjustments with the present Administration. I again repeat that it is my belief that the person that made such unjust statements to the press in so rough a manner cannot have been by any means authorized by the American Government if, the phrases that have been transmitted to me are exact.

"If some member of the Senate in his parliamentary speech caused a bad impression, the Mexican Government is not to blame and it should not be attacked in a form which greatly differs from the gentility, judgment and intelligent discretion which I found in President Harding and Secretary Hughes, with whom I had the honor to talk upon my visit to Washington.

"I have not wished to pass inadvertently the statements to which I referred because they affect directly the credit of Mexico which, with such eagerness, we have endeavored to strengthen in the conferences with the International Committee of Bankers and I, as Secretary of Finances, have the obligation to object to all those intents that belittle the finances of my country. I believe that the International Committee of Bankers will second this attitude of mine in a manner which they will consider most convenient in accordance with the obligation expressed in the agreement of the 10th of June, to cooperate in a useful way to the sustainment of the credit of the Mexican Republic."

MEXICO CITY, July 25.—Secretary of the Treasury de la Huerta, following his visit to President Obregon at Chapultepec yesterday, declined to make any statement today concerning his recent conferences with New York bankers, saying he preferred to reserve all statements until he had consulted more fully with the President. He said, however, he was well pleased with the results of his New York visit and that he fully expected that "several points now evidently misunderstood will be cleared up within a few days."

BANK'S THRIFT BONDS ARE UPHELD BY COURT

Judge Hand, Refusing Injunction, Holds That Private Enterprises May Follow Government Plan.

Federal Judge A. N. Hand decided yesterday that the Compo Thrift Bond Corporation was within its rights in issuing thrift bonds, and that the Maybrook National Bank of Maybrook, N. Y., had the right to sell them to its depositors. J. R. Adams, a director of the bank, had asked for an injunction restraining the corporation from issuing the bonds and the bank from dealing in them. Adams contended that it was illegal for a national bank to issue such a security because it was in the nature of borrowing and was a direct obligation upon the bank.

The thrift bonds, it was explained, are issued by banks and trust companies for cash deposits. The institutions issuing them promise to redeem them at stated periods and to pay interest on them semi-annually. Both the bank and the Compo Corporation stated that the bonds were a form of certificate of deposit and that they had been so classified by the Controller of the Currency. The decision removes, it was said, all obstacles in the way of a widespread use of the bonds by financial institutions.

Judge Hand's opinion was to the effect that the Government's theory and practice of promoting thrift through War Savings Stamps and the like can legally be extended to private enterprises.

In his opinion, Judge Hand explained that the bonds resemble in general the thrift stamps issued by the Government, that the plan was devised by the Compo Corporation which receives a commission on their sale. The interest paid, he said, was 3½ per cent. The bonds may be redeemed after sixty days' notice. He said he saw no difference between the bond and an ordinary time certificate of deposit. Replying to the contention that a national bank should not borrow money, the court said that "it may in proper cases and in the normal course of its business. The kind of borrowing objected to is, I think, borrowing in large sums from persons not in the recognized class of depositors."

Gets Lease of Toledo Road.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The New York Central Railroad was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to lease all of the property of the Toledo and Ohio Central Railway and its subsidiary corporations for an indefinite period. The New York Central has owned the entire capital stock of the Toledo road for many years, and the object of the lease, it was said, was to facilitate operations of the New York Central system.

RAILROADS' INCOME SHOWS GAIN IN JUNE

Increase in Gross Is Coupled With a Decrease in Operating Expenses.

CENTRAL'S NET $6,008,492

Total Net for First Half of Year $26,198,845, a Gain of $8,905,548 Over 1921.

Railway reports issued yesterday showing operation during June, indicated a larger net operating income, compared with a year ago, a result achieved largely by a curtailment of operating expenses together with larger gross. The New York Central reported net for June of $6,008,492, compared with $5,517,555 in June, 1921, and $3,832,013 in May, 1922. The road's gross operating receipts during the month aggregated $29,462,408, contrasted with $27,868,173 a year ago, and $26,626,625 in May, 1922. Operating expenses stood at $21,852,140, as against $21,054,477 in June, 1921, while the road's operating ratio for the month was 74.2 per cent., compared with 75.6 per cent. a year ago. For the first six months this year the operating ratio was 78 per cent., as against 83.3 per cent. last year.

The Central's net operating income for the first half year was $26,198,845 after deductions for operating expenses, taxes and adjustments. This was an increase of $8,905,548 over the net earnings for the same period of 1921. Gross operating revenues were $158,557,783, an increase of $978,271 over the first six months of last year, while operating expenses were $123,641,537, or $7,679,173 less than the total operating expenses of the first six months a year ago.

The Union Pacific System reported net operating income of $2,265,672 for June, a decrease of $632,333 or 22.4 per cent. compared with the same month last year. This was explained by the decrease of $209,869 in gross revenues, making the total for June, $15,804,264, and also by the increase of $468,055 in operating expenses, putting the total for June at $11,866,990. The larger expense bill was largely accounted for by the increase of $443,405 in maintenance of way and structures, and the increase of $220,220 in maintenance of equipment outlay.

Union Pacific's net for the first half year was $10,998,149, a decrease of $116,828 compared with the same period of 1921. Gross for the six months was $83,931,504, a decrease of $3,881,207 from last year, and railway operating expenses were $65,122,594, a decrease of $3,825,799 from last year. The company's operating ratio for June was 77.60 per cent., an increase of 4.04 per cent. over June, 1921; for the six months it was 77.59 per cent., a decrease of 0.93 per cent. compared with the first six months of 1921.

Net railway operating income of the Southern Pacific company for June was $4,994,690, an increase of $1,613,894 compared with June, 1921. Railway expenses decreased $2,164,441 to $15,962,489 for the month, and gross revenue decreased $147,129 to $22,897,098 for the month. For the first six months of the year net stood at $17,042,224, an increase of $3,683,104 over the corresponding period of 1921. Railway operating expenses for the six months were $92,168,603, a decrease of $15,185,356 compared with the first half year of 1921, and gross revenues for the half year were $120,127,219, or $10,121,145 less than a year ago.

The Pittsburgh & West Virginia reported net income for June of $90,780, after taxes and charges, compared with $263,101 a year ago. Net for the six months was $354,400, against $450,469 in the same period of 1921.

Illinois Central's Dividend.

The dividend is for the period June 28 to Sept. 1, and is payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 4. The regular quarterly 1¾ per cent. common dividend also was declared, payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 4.

RECOVERY IN WHEAT WITH HEAVY BUYING

Sales of 4,000,000 Bushels for Export Give New Boom to Chicago Markets.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Wheat had better rallying power than of late, with heavier buying by local and seaboard cash interests, which more than absorbed the free selling by seaboard exporters throughout the day, fully 4,000,000 bushels of future wheat taken by seaboard and local cash houses. This was confirmed after the close by estimates from the seaboard of 4,000,000 bushels being sold for export to cover new and old business abroad. A large part of the sales were at the Gulf, one Chicago house alone selling around 1,000,000 bushels. Cash premiums on hard Winter advanced ½ to 1 cent, with 2¼ to 3¼ cents over July paid for No. 2, and red Winter was 1 to 1½ cents over. July tightened and sold up to $1.11, an advance of 3¾ cents from the early low point, with the close on a break to $1.10, gaining 2 cents for the day, while September and December, after advancing nearly 3 cents, finished practically the same as on the previous day.

Cash houses were larger buyers of July and September, while around the top profit taking was of liberal volume.

Every morning liberal selling against overnight purchases of cash wheat frequently has a depressing influence. This selling has generally more than offset the export buying; today, the latter proved the stronger and started a covering movement.

The trade on the whole is short of wheat and all grains and is so bearish that rallies are only regarded as temporary. It is said that, were it not for the heavy export buying, prices would be materially lower. Western Canada continues to need rain, while crop reports from the Northwest are favorable.

The one thing that puzzles the corn traders is the apparent absence of purchases against the large cash sales for export of late. Premium advanced today and seaboard new business, so that only 185,000 bushels were reported, while charters were made for 1,500,000 bushels, either wheat or corn, to Buffalo and Georgian Bay on the basis of 4 cents to Buffalo. This is ¾ cent higher than last Saturday and brings the lake-and-rail rate close to the all-rail rate, particularly on oats.

Professionals and Omaha traders are selling December corn freely, and there was buying of December and selling of September as 3⅝ to 3¾ cents premium for the September. The close was ¼ to ⅜ cent lower.

Oats had support largely for shorts and carriers, hedging sales being absorbed by them, and the close was unchanged at ¼ cent lower.

Export sales here were 200,000 bushels, while Eastern distributers took 135,000 bushels. Rye was given poor support and closed 1¼ to 1¾ cents lower. Export sales were 200,000 bushels.

Primary receipts today were: Wheat, 2,815,000 bushels; week ago, 1,389,000; year ago, 2,974,000. Shipments were 909,000 bushels; week ago, 1,100,000; year ago, 1,485,000.

Corn receipts were 941,000 bushels; week ago, 1,268,000; year ago, 741,000, and shipments, 604,000 bushels; week ago, 1,211,000; year ago, 1,444,000.

100 WOMEN TO TAKE GREETING TO FRANCE

FROM ALL PARTS OF U. S.

Winners of Contests Conducted by American Committee to Visit Battlefields.

Nearly 100 American women, chosen throughout the country in popularity contests sponsored by the American Committee for Devastated France, will sail at noon today aboard La France, serving as "good-will delegates" from this country to France. Their expenses paid through the contests they won, the women will visit the battlefields in their tour of France. There are four gold star mothers in the party.

Last night, eighty-seven women who had arrived during the day were guests of Miss Anne Morgan's relief committee at a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria, later going to see "Captain Applejack." Each of the women will carry credentials from the Mayor of her city, telling how much that community gave to France through the committee.

Ambassador Jules Jusserand was the speaker at the dinner. Mrs. Gilbert Montague, Vice Chairman of the committee, presiding. The Ambassador expressed the gratitude of his country for the reconstruction work done by America, declaring that about ninety million francs had thus been expended. He assured the women that everywhere they might go in France they would find the gratitude he expressed repeated by the people.

Oldest in the group of "good-will delegates" is Mrs. Anna Stone, Principal of the Woodrow Wilson High School of Binghamton, N. Y. She is 60, but is just as enthusiastic as the youngest member of the party, who is 20 years old. California's "Convention Girl" is Miss Agnes Dohony of San Francisco. Mrs. Paullette Hebel, the French war bride of a Detroit soldier, is going back with two-year-old Lawrence Jr. The gold star mothers were Mrs. Herman H. Bitney and Mrs. William B. Abbey of Philadelphia, Mrs. Clay D. Stephens of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Otto Brewer of Wichita, Kan.

"The delegates," said Mrs. Montague, "have an opportunity of great importance. They will meet the real people of France. Most Americans go to Paris and think they see typical French people there. Their impressions are neither fair nor just. The real people of France are much like the real people of America—sturdy, industrious, thrifty and infinitely courageous."

HEFLIN ONCE MORE ASSAILS RESERVE BOARD

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama, who seldom misses an opportunity in Senatorial debate to pay his adverse compliments to the Federal Reserve Board, launched into another attack upon its members in a speech today, in which he charged inferentially that Wall Street had been influential in suppressing news alleged to be unfavorable to the board.

Senator Heflin reiterated his set charge that Wall Street influences were back of the Federal Reserve Board, repeated his allegation that the board had "dragged" the Federal Reserve system into politics, inquired whether the board had been influential in keeping news unfavorable to it out of the papers, and asserted that the alleged situation against which he aimed his shafts should be changed or the people would be heard from in the elections. He accused the board of acting with Wall Street and "the moneyed interests" in suppressing from the country's news columns court decisions which, he said, were unfavorable to the board.

The Senator said he had received a letter from an official of the National and State Bankers' Protective Association which stated that a decision handed down by Judge Wolvering of the Federal District Court in Oregon, on June 26, sustaining an injunction against the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, which was in line with a decision handed down by the Supreme Court of the United States, "to prevent the Federal Reserve Bank from crushing out State banks." Senator Heflin asserted that the official who had written to him had stated that news of Judge Wolvering's decision had not been carried in the news columns and had asked "what influence, if was that was suppressing such news." When the Supreme Court handed down its decision relative to the Federal Reserve banks a few weeks ago, the Senator said, he had seen nothing concerning it in the newspapers.

"I wonder," Mr. Heflin exclaimed, "if the Federal Reserve Board's influence is seeking to suppress news of this character, news, if not decisions, which condemns its conduct. It is rather strange that these two decisions when handed down should be suppressed and neither one of them appear in the press of the country."

DENY SUICIDE LOST MONEY.

The Harbor police were still grappling yesterday afternoon for the body of E. J. Moran, the 65-year-old man who jumped from a Staten Island ferryboat last Monday evening, leaving notes telling of losses in Wall Street.

At the offices of E. H. Whiting & Co., 44 Broad Street, the firm mentioned in one of Moran's messages, it was denied that the suicide had lost in transactions carried on through that company. L. E. Whiting, the junior partner, even said that Moran had made profits from his purchase of stocks. An employe of the brokerage house said he had heard Moran speak of family troubles.

Cleared of Chum's Death.

Edward Ruth 2d, 16 years old, son of Edward Ruth Jr., a real estate operator, of Winfield, was exonerated from blame for the death of his playmate, Anthony Kchop, 15 years old, at a hearing before Magistrate James J. Conway in the Flushing Police Court yesterday. The boys were in Mr. Ruth's real estate office a week ago when young Ruth picked up a revolver that his father had in a drawer of the desk. While the two were examining the weapon it was discharged and the bullet entered the Kchop boy's breast. The boys had been chums from early childhood.

TRUST FOR PARROTS STARTS WILL FIGHT

ATTACK OTHER CLAUSES

The will of George H. Hart, a theatrical lawyer, was attacked yesterday in an argument before Surrogate Foley because it established a trust fund for the maintenance of two parrots and because of the wording of a number of other provisions. Though drawn by the lawyer himself, the will was attacked by lawyers representing several prospective beneficiaries.

According to Alexander Pfeiffer, representing nieces of the testator, the will was typical of the tangles frequently produced when lawyers draw their own wills. He argued that, besides attempting illegally to care for the parrots, the will was void because it sought to care for five relatives in one trust fund, in which the bulk of the estate was dedicated. According to Mr. Pfeiffer, the single trust could not be legally drawn in favor of more than two persons. The clause relating to the parrots follows:

"I give and bequeath my two parrots to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, with the request that they shall never be separated and treated tenderly and in a manner worthy of the aims and pretensions of the society."

The will was drawn in 1907. It was not brought out at the hearing whether the two parrots had survived to become the theme of argument by four sets of lawyers representing different heirs and beneficiaries. The grammatical meaning of the paragraph on the parrots would be a request that they should never be treated tenderly. The attack on the paragraph, however, was based on the argument that trust funds cannot be established except for human beings. Parrots are long-lived birds, and $500 was named in the will for their maintenance.

The library of Mr. Hart is willed to the Society for Ethical Culture. It contains several thousand volumes and is valued at $12,000. Mr. Hart requested that the society establish a library on ethics and hygiene for children. Lawyers for some of the heirs argued that this bequest was illegal, as the charter of the society did not permit it to establish such classes. An argument as to the validity of this provision of the will was submitted on behalf of the Society for Ethical Culture.

If the will was set aside, as sought by some of the contestants, the society would lose the gift, which would be distributed, with the rest of the estate, to the heirs.

The estate is valued at more than $50,000. The case was brought before the Surrogate by the United States Trust Company as an executor seeking the guidance of the court in carrying out the provisions of the will.

HEIRS ASK ADVANCES FROM BOOTH ESTATE

Request Court Relief Pending Settlement of the Contest Over Steamship Man's Will.

Because the estate of Mrs. Angie M. Booth, widow of Henry P. Booth, steamship man, has been tied up by a will contest started by Mrs. Marie A. Lendell, a grandniece, who got $50,000 out of the total estimated at from $7,000,000 to $12,000,000, a number of applications were made to Surrogate Cohalan yesterday by heirs who had been receiving bounty from Mrs. Booth for payments pending the contest.

The plea of Mrs. Adelaide A. Lawrence of 5 Riverside Drive, sister of Mrs. Booth, who got $500,000 and the residuary estate estimated at not less than $6,000,000, for a payment of $15,000 pending the trial, came up yesterday, at which time the attorneys for the contestant presented petitions in behalf of Viola Allison Priest of 434 Willoughby Avenue, Katherine, Florence and Henry Allison of 125 Prospect Park West, and May Allison Parks of 161 Hart Street, Brooklyn, grandniece and grandnephew of Mrs. Booth, who got $50,000 outright and an estimated share of $200,000 each of the residue. Mrs. Priest is the wife of a contractor who cannot support his family adequately, and Katherine and Florence Allison are not employed but have been supported from $315 a month paid by Mrs. Booth to their brother, Henry. They have received nothing since June 10, and are in actual need, they say. Henry Allison said that while he was employed he could not support himself and sisters in the manner to which they have become accustomed. The petitioners would like $300 a month each until the estate is distributed.

Litvinoff Says She Achieved Nothing by Wrecking Hague Conference.

BERLIN, July 23 (Associated Press).—The Russian Embassy in Unter den Linden has taken on the appearance of a second Kremlin, with George Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, Maxim Litvinoff and many other prominent Moscow leaders working busily in the building. The embassy, just restored to the Bolshevist, has temporarily become the Russian Foreign Office and business agency. It is crowded daily with all sorts of protective concessionaires.

M. Litvinoff received representatives of the world's press there this afternoon and discussed with them the Hague Conference and the Bolshevist plans growing out of the conference.

"The French press is shouting triumphantly about the results of the Hague conference," he said. "I wonder whether this French jubilation is justified. What did France achieve by wrecking the Hague conference, which was called to be wrecked in order to demonstrate the united front of the nonassistance? The failure of the conference has demonstrated that the Russian question cannot be settled in a joint conference.

"Europe would have to wait fifty years, perhaps, if it waited to make Russia accept the maximum demands of France and Belgium."

SOVIETS TO DISTILL VODKA.

Manufacture of National Drink to be Resumed as State Monopoly.

MOSCOW, July 25.—It is expected that a decree authorizing the sale of vodka, which has been prohibited since 1914, will be issued on Aug. 1.

The pre-war strength of vodka was 40 per cent. alcohol. Under the new decree the strength will be 38 per cent., and the manufacture will be undertaken as a State monopoly.

Fighting in Vladivostok Suburbs.

VLADIVOSTOK, July 24 (Associated Press).—The partisans daily are growing bolder. They are operating on the very outskirts of town and in Nikolai-Ussurisk, 100 versts from Vladivostok. They entered the town and attacked the guard defending the railway station. Railway Bridge No. 1 was destroyed daily and the Suchan coal mines are surrounded by partisans. The Japanese have attacked many of the partisan detachments, it is reported.

Molière's rollicking and rollicksome old comedy, "The Imaginary Invalid," was presented with gusto and evident affection at the Columbia University Gymnasium last night. In honor of the Molière tercentenary, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, seconded by the various departments of the university listed above, gathered and trained a company of players, presumably from both amateur and professional ranks, and arranged to stage the production amid the dedicated halls of learning. It will be repeated tomorrow evening and at matinee and evening performances on Saturday.

All of which, no doubt, sounds very formal and formidable. And so, probably, the announcement of the comedy seemed to those whom it drew to the gymnasium last night. It left at least quites that many of them went because they felt that they ought to. But it is a record of fact to say that they stayed and laughed and applauded because they wanted to. They had a good time. Of that they gave every evidence.

For this old comedy, written some 300 years ago, is still a vigorous piece, and as presented by the Coburns and company it bloomed buoyantly. Even in this day when all its tricks and devices are familiar, it has a pace and spirit of its own that brings response from a sophisticated audience. One begins to smile at his superiority over what, it seems, must have been the gullibility of the spectator of Molière's day, but instead of holding to the doubtful pleasure of being thus superior, he soon lets himself go in the sure enjoyment of some entirely comic or bowling business. There were very few moments last night when the audience was waiting for, rather than having, a good time.

The comedy seemed to receive the treating it deserved, too. Mr. Coburn made a blowsy, blundering invalid, playing true to his part, apparently, and certainly giving the spectators a broad comedy treat. Opposite him was Mrs. Coburn, as the managing, vivacious servant, Toinette, and she, too, gave life to the production.

MAY DELAY OPENINGS.

Hebrew Actors Refuse to Accept Proposed Cut in Salaries.

Differences between the Hebrew Actors' Union and the Jewish Theatrical Managers' Protective Association may delay the opening of the Yiddish theatres in New York next season. Incidentally affect seventeen Yiddish theatres throughout the country, and will throughout out of employment about 700 Yiddish actors. The theatrical season for next season begin next month and the managers maintain they will not open their houses in September unless an understanding is reached, according to Charles H. Groll, Executive Secretary and counsel for the theatre managers.

Mr. Groll declared that due to a bad season every house played to a loss each week; the salaries would have to be reduced from 10 to 20 per cent., according to the rate of pay; the season would have to be reduced from thirty-eight weeks to thirty-four weeks. The manager of the Hebrew Actors' Union, Reuben Guskin, when asked to state the position of the union, said that the Hebrew Actors' Union would accede to the demands of a shorter season, but would refuse to accept the reduction in pay.

Dinner to Philharmonic Conductors.

Henry Hadley is concluding tonight his three weeks in charge of the Philharmonic's open-air series at the Staudium, where Willem Van Hoogstraten will begin a similar term as conductor tomorrow. The two leaders, after tonight's orchestra concert, will be guests at a supper at the Hotel Majestic, given in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Fischer of 790 Riverside Drive. Others invited are Dr. Eugene Noble of the Juilliard Foundation, Adolph Lewisohn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, Mrs. Inez Barbour Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Breitung, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Salmond, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farley Winch, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hardy, Lawrence Gilman, Arthur Judson, Charles L. Tiller and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Franko Goldman.

FORD PLANS TO SAVE MEXICO BY WORK

Proposes to Start Automobile Plants and Make Peons Too Busy to Fight.

DETROIT, July 25 (Associated Press).—The development of Mexico industrially and agriculturally to a point where it will take its place as one of the leading powers of the world is the plan of Henry Ford.

This has been learned by The Associated Press from sources close to the manufacturer. Mr. Ford proposes to end forever the internal strife in the southern republic by "putting the people to work," as he expresses it, by making it possible for the peons to obtain adequate wages, and in various ways elevating the masses in the country to the highest possible standard.

The first step in this program may be taken soon with establishment of a Ford motor assembling plant in the State of Coahuila, probably at Saltillo. Business interests of that city and the Governor of the State are known here to be eager to bring about the industrial development. Mr. Ford, it is known, is prepared to enter upon his development program immediately upon the erection of the necessary factory buildings. Similar enterprises will be established by Mr. Ford in other parts of the country if the plan is carried out, it is intimated.

Mr. Ford is said to believe that if the Mexicans once learn the value of industry, better methods of agriculture and their possibilities, individually and as a nation, the advance of the country will prove to be one of the most notable in history.

The manufacturer is known to have an abiding faith in the people of the country. He announced his idea several years ago at a time when many refugees in the United States were advising that the United States send troops to "clean up Mexico." At that time Mr. Ford said:

"Let me invade Mexico with factories and give the people something to do. Then there will be no more war there."

Riegelman for Senator.

Republicans of the Fifteenth Senatorial District have picked Harold Riegelman, lawyer and war veteran, as their candidate for State Senator to succeed Nathan Straus Jr., Democrat, who carried this normally Republican district in the Senate elections two years ago. Mr. Riegelman is a resident of the Seventh Assembly District.

Lawyer Pays $500 Contempt Fine.

Lamelot M. Berkeley, the lawyer who was committed to Ludlow Street Jail by Surrogate Cohalan on Monday until he paid a $500 fine for contempt of court because he failed to appear and testify as to the knowledge of the property owned by Mrs. Ella S. White, who died in a room at a house in West Ninety-first Street and Riverside March was released yesterday when he paid the fine. He will now have a lawyer and testify.

Gray Goods Sales Light.

With cotton again lower and a Government report on the condition of the crop as of yesterday in the offing, buyers of gray goods marked time in this market yesterday. The bulk of the limited business done was transacted by second hands, who were reported to have let out limited quantities of 39-inch 64-72 and 38½-inch 60-60 at 5¾ cents, 5¾ and 5½ cents respectively. The deliveries were spots only. First hands asked an eighth higher in both cases, and also asked 9¾ cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings. No business was reported in the latter at that price. For 39-inch 64-60-yard sateens, first hands were asking up to 11¾ cents.

Silk Hose vs. Woolen Once.

A merry battle of opinions is now going on in the women's hosiery trade regarding the relative possibilities of these goods for Fall. The silk stocking people are making considerable capital of the lengthening skirt which, they assert, will largely end the "flapper" and sports wear vogue and with it the demand for novelty lines of wool hose. They point to the fact that there is already a strong tendency toward the abandonment of sports wear on the part of many women. The wool-stocking men counter with the claim that there is not going to be any marked change this Fall in the accepted length of skirt. While admitting that the tendency will doubtless be to lengthen them, the contention is held that the increase will not be such as to rule wool hose out. Skirt coming within eight inches of the ground is short enough to wear with wool hose, they say, especially if low shoes are worn.

Will It Come in Time?

One of the questions which are now agitating sellers of white goods, both in the piece and in made-up garments, is whether or not the vogue for all-white costumes that has manifested itself among patrons of the fashionable hotels will spread rapidly enough among less wealthy women and girls to fulfill predictions that this would be a record white season. There is no doubt that the vogue has taken strongly with women who have made reputations as leaders of the mode, and lingerie dresses of the afternoon sie with all-lace gowns, many of them white, that are seen in the evening at the smart places. While indications in the way of sales seem to point that way, the question still remains whether the "broad and butter" trade will take white things up in a really large way this Summer, or whether the vogue for them will not catch on generally until hot weather comes again.

To Show How Shirts Are Made.

Among the educational features of the Merchandise Exposition to be held in conjunction with the convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers at Madison Square Garden from Sept. 11 to 15 will be the showing of the various processes entering into the making of a man's shirt. The Manhattan Shirt Company, which has taken space in the gallery on the southeast corner of the Garden, will do this. It is planned to have this exhibit of shirt manufacture as complete as possible, so that the retailers visiting the convention will see all the operations, from the cutting of fabrics from given patterns up through all the stages required for the finished product.

Straw Hats for Next Season.

Straw hat orders for the 1923 season are being received in considerable volume by manufacturers, according to A. G. Keenan of the National Association of Straw Hat Manufacturers of America. The lines were opened for the next season on July 5, and the business thus far received has been very satisfactory. This proves, according to Mr. Keenan, that the attempts of some to introduce hats made of fur for the hot months has completely failed. The average man demands comfort in headwear and this is not given, in view of the climatic conditions, by the straw hat. Mr. Keenan predicts that the demand will keep the domestic manufacturers operating at top speed for the 1923 season.

Clasps, Buttons and Ornaments.

The demand for fancy buttons at the present time is declared to be spotty and irregular, some buyers ordering twice as much as last year and others only half as much. Orders for fancy clasps and steel ornaments continue to be large, and manufacturers say they are experiencing some difficulty in keeping up with the demand for particular types of them. Crystal clasps in novelty colors are being featured by a number of firms, and they are expected to be used extensively as dress ornaments. One of the leading makers sold yesterday for looked for the venue of clasp ornaments to be bigger than was the call for dress pins at its height. The dress clip pins are declared especially adaptable either to the use of the novelty clasps or large steel cabochons.

Call for Pile Fabrics.

Manufacturers of silk pile fabrics, particularly velvets, are looking forward to an excellent Fall season. The demand from the millinery trade has been very large, and there has been a constant stream of duplicate orders from the women's hat makers who are now beginning to bring out their new models. One of the leading manufacturers is now sold up in steel pile and panne velvets until Oct. 15. In spite of this fact, however, the jobbers are acting cautiously, and, for fear of choking off the demand, are pricing their holdings very closely. For millinery purposes the colors which have been best in point of demand are beige, hobblock, wood browns, seaweed, nigger brown, tobacco brown and henna. The coming season is expected also to see a large increase in the use of chiffon velvets for afternoon and evening gowns.

Jobbers to Be Back Next Month.

Most of the jobbing buyers of cotton dress fabrics that came to this market last week to attend the meetings of their association were said yesterday to have returned home without placing any great amount of Spring business. Not much trading, aside from that in certain branded lines, was done, but it is probable that much better buying will be seen next month. By that time the new lines will be more generally opened, and buyers will come here with a better idea of the current cotton crop. One thing that is not altogether pleasing to the converters is the advice issued at the jobbers' meeting to concentrate purchases chiefly on such goods as ratines, voiles, tissues and crepes. When buyers concentrate, it is contended, the converting trade is forced to concentrate also, with the result that there is frequently overproduction and an upset market. While present strike conditions may prevent that for next Spring, there is no guarantee that this will be the case.

Are Asking for Wider Goods.

Among the rather few interesting things heard concerning the business now being done by dry goods jobbers with the retail trade are the reports reaching first hands in this market of a growing tendency on the part of retailers to buy wider flannelettes and ginghams than they formerly bought. A decided preference on their part is reported for 36-inch flannelettes as against the 27-inch ones, despite the marked shortage of the former that is predicted as a result of strikes. The same thing is true of 32-inch ginghams, as compared with 27-inch cloths. Just what has brought about the change is not clear at the moment.

Will Open Fancy Worsted Lines.

Opening of the lines of fancy worsteds for men's wear for the Spring (1923) season by the American Woolen Company will take place next Tuesday. This showing completes the offering of the company's line of men's wear fabrics for the lightweight season. In Department 1, Division B, a complete showing of fancy weaves, piece dyes and mixtures will be made. Fancy worsteds in Departments 2 and 3 and standard worsteds and suiting cloths in Department 4, Division A, will also be ready. With these openings completed, the company's entire lines for Spring, with one exception, will be ready for the trade. The exception is blanket fabrics, which are not scheduled to be shown for some time.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

DEAL INVOLVES $200,000

Activity in Bronx Apartments—Fordham University Conveys Block for Church.

At a figure reported to be a high record for property in the business section of Tremont Avenue in the Borough of the Bronx, the Bronx Borough Bank, one of the oldest banking institutions north of the Harlem River, yesterday purchased as a site for a monumental banking home 456 and 458 Tremont Avenue and 1,895 to 1,901 Washington Avenue.

This property, which was purchased from Miss Mary Dugan and the Dugan estate, has a frontage of about 80 feet on Tremont Avenue and a depth of 100 feet opposite the Crotona Theatre.

On Washington Avenue it has a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 100 feet. It forms an "L" around the southwest corner of Tremont and Washington Avenues.

At present the plot is covered with old-fashioned business buildings. It has been held by the Dugan family since 1865.

It is understood that the bank, which now occupies leased quarters on the southeast corner of Park and Tremont Avenues, is negotiating for the southwest corner, which the parcel just purchased surrounds. If this is secured, it will form one of the largest and finest business corners on the avenue west of Third Avenue. It is understood that about $200,000 is involved in the transaction. C. Adelbert Becker is the President of the bank. Charles F. Hallock represented the bank and Charles V. Halley Jr. represented the Dugan interests.

Buys Factory Block Site.

A large site for a new factory building was purchased by the A. Kimball Company, M. A. Marsh, President, tin ticket manufacturer, comprising the block bounded by Walton Avenue, Cedar Lane and 151st Street, the easterly portion facing the cut of the New York Central Railroad. There are about ten lots in the plot and an aggregate street frontage of 500 feet.

The property was bought from Charles A. Fox. The brokers were L. J. Phillips & Co. A. A. Silverberg represented the buyers as attorney and Henry M. Stevenson, the seller.

Bronx Apartment Deal.

The two five-story apartment houses at 1,146 and 1,152 Intervale Avenue, near 167th Street, covering a plot 100 by 100 feet, have been purchased by Cahn & Cahn from Sol Friedd. The houses contain four stores and sixty-one apartment suites. D. A. Trotter was the broker.

The newly formed Stabilt Realty Corporation, represented by Morrison & Schiff, attorneys, bought the five-story apartment house at 869 Fox Street, southeast corner of Tiffany Street, on plot 80 by 85.

The plot of seven and one-half lots at the northeast corner of Kingsbridge Road and Sedgwick Avenue has been sold by Dr. J. R. Fabricius to a syndicate headed by William Phelan, builder, for improvement with an apartment house. Peter S. Getrell was the broker in the sale.

Fordham University Deeds Block.

Fordham University has conveyed to the Apostleship of Prayer, now worshipping at Pinehurst Avenue and 181st Street, a block of its property facing the college grounds in the Fordham section of the Bronx.

A costly edifice is planned for the area, which takes in the square bounded by Fordham Road, Bathgate Avenue, Emmet and 191st Streets. The property has frontages of 307 feet on Fordham Road and on 181st Street, and 233 feet on Bathgate Avenue and on Emmet Street.

SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE.

Westchester—For Sale or To Let.

I OWN a genuine country place (not a place which creates expense) only about an hour from New York by express train. The house, built of the very best material about 12 years ago, contains 3 reception rooms, 10 master bedrooms and five bathrooms, with ample rooms for servants; heated by hot water; open fireplaces in every room; electric light; artesian well. Over 200 acres of farm land and woods, two cottages, garage, stables and 4 barns. The farm, run by three men, supplies my large family with all the milk, cream, butter, eggs, vegetables, chickens and ducks we need. Besides a fine crop of hay, corn, potatoes and wheat. Full supply of farm implements and tools, horses, wagons, &c.

The farm can be made to pay $5,000 annually if worked for profit. The house is situated 500 feet above sea level and because well built is cool in summer and warm in winter.

An ideal place for a well-to-do New York business man who can spend two or three days a week away from his business and wants an outside interest. The house is furnished with old English furniture, which will also be sold if purchaser wishes. I am selling only because of death in the family.

The place will not be sold at "half price," but I will sell at a price that means a real bargain, and much below the true worth. Address W 235 Times.

HULBERT FAVORS CITY BOAT CLUBS

President of Aldermen Will Study Recreational Methods in Lake Ports.

LEAVES ON VACATION TODAY

Says There Are Still 350 Miles of New York Waterfront Undeveloped Here.

Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, thinks the city does not make enough of its waterfront and he is in favor of developing its recreational facilities by the establishment of municipal boat clubs. The Aldermanic President will leave on his vacation today and while away will visit Rochester and Buffalo and then tour the Lake ports, including Cleveland, Detroit, Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago with a view to studying methods in these cities. When he returns he will submit a plan to the Board of Estimate for the utilization of the city's waterfront for recreational purposes.

"As the first representative New York City ever had on the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress, and later as Commissioner of Docks and Director of the Port of New York, I have been engaged for seven years in the commercial development of the waterfront," said Mr. Hulbert. "I feel that the City of New York gives too little consideration to the improvement of its waterfront facilities for pleasure and healthful recreational pastimes. I intend to study the operation of the park and playground systems in the cities that I visit, and particularly what the lake port cities do for the encouragement of water sports.

"We improve roads for the automobilist and parks for those who play golf, baseball, football and tennis, and engage in or like to watch track and field events, but there is very little municipal encouragement offered to yachtsmen and those who take their Summer recreation in motor boating, canoeing and other similar pastimes. Having such a tremendous waterfront available for this purpose, we should be as diligent in planning to improve it for purposes of pleasure as we have now become for purposes of commerce. Of the 578 miles of waterfront within the Port of the City of New York about 200 miles have been developed for commercial purposes and about 30 miles have been specifically set aside for park purposes, so that there remains about 350 miles of undeveloped waterfront, much of which should be utilized for further commercial development, but some of which should be provided with facilities for water sports and for which no plans at present are being made whatever."

EUROPE'S DIRTIEST CITIES.

Soot Gives Those of England and Scotland That Evil Distinction.

LONDON, July 25 (Associated Press).—Lord Newton, speaking in the House of Lords yesterday, declared that England and Scotland were the dirtiest countries in Europe. His reference was not to the bathing habits of the people, but to the practically unrestricted use of soft coal in factories and for domestic fires.

Lord Newton quoted statistics to show that 300 tons of soot fell every year on each square mile of London, which, he said, was enough to build a pyramid four times as high as the famous clock tower over the Houses of Parliament.

Conditions in some provincial cities, he said, were much worse. In Birmingham, for instance, he said the chimneys deposited fifty-four tons of soot per square mile each month, while in Sheffield and some other manufacturing cities the deposit was even greater. He said it was estimated that the smoke in Manchester caused an extra expenditure of £50,000 annually for washing men's collars.

HELD IN CHILD'S MURDER.

Arthur Strykes was arrested at the home of Peter Chesnavitch, 251 Metropolitan Avenue, Williamsburgh, Brooklyn, at the request of the police of Edwardsville, Pa., in connection with the murder of his 4-year-old daughter, who was insured for $52. He will be arraigned this morning in Bridge Plaza Court to await extradition.

In January of this year Strykes collected $52 from an insurance company, the police say, claiming his daughter was dead. Later it is said the insurance company learned the child was alive and notified Strykes to return the money or be prosecuted. Later, the child's body was found in a creek. The same day her father disappeared. The Brooklyn police were informed. An autopsy showed that the child had been murdered and thrown into the creek after death, according to the police.

Meteor's Fall Startles Town.

WYNARD, Saskatchewan, July 25.—Residents of this section today were swapping accounts of their experiences yesterday, when a meteor fell in Big Quill with a great roar and explosion that frightened people and animals for miles around. Bottles fell from their shelves and pictures swayed upon the walls. Great clouds of steam and smoke shot through the clear sky, and many climbed upon housetops—some to see the phenomena and others to pray.

Promise and Performance

Have you ever noticed that our references to Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing, and to our fine Hats and Haberdashery, are distinctly moderate?

That isn't because of modesty—it is just good merchandising.

You buy because the goods are better than you anticipated. A price is not low unless you expected to pay more.

We want your satisfaction to reach its highest point after you buy—to be based on performance rather than on promises.

We want your regard to grow from year to year, and from purchase to purchase—not to recede on the ebb of disappointment.

A Wider Hauling Range

1 Two Range Transmission
2 Removable Cylinder Walls
3 Radius Rods
4 Pump and Thermo-Syphon Cooling
5 Removable Valve Lifter Assemblies

GMC trucks can do more hauling because they have the power to travel where other trucks cannot go, as well as the speed to outdistance others on the road.

This double ability is possible only through the GMC Two-Range Transmission. It makes these trucks better revenue producers for their owners and opens up new and broader fields for motor truck haulage.
